Ford Pins His Economic Hopes On Summit

By ELIAS ANTAR
Associated Press Writer

PARIS (AP) — President Ford arrived in France today for a six-nation economic summit that a top aide predicted may result in an improved performance in the American economy.

"The President has always thought of it in practical terms — what it means to the American consumer," presidential Press Secretary Ron Nessen said.

Ford arrived at Orly Airport and was met by Premier Jacques Chirac. The two men stepped down onto the red-carpeted tarmac together and inspected an honor guard and then stood at attention as a French military band played the American and French national anthems.

Ford and Chirac then proceeded to the Chateau de Rambouillet, 30 miles southwest of Paris for three days of talks with the leaders of France, West Germany, Britain, Japan and Italy. The conference is to begin at 6 p.m. — noon EST. French President Valéry Giscard d'Estaing was waiting for Ford at the chateau.

Nessen told newsmen during the flight across the Atlantic that there are unlikely to be major announcements after the meeting but said the fact that it is being held at all is the most important thing about it.

"The idea is for the six leaders of the major industrial democracies to get together to share their views of what the world economy will look like," he said. "It is a recognition of the interdependence of the six nations and their economies."

Nessen said the meeting should be of benefit to the United States in areas of trade, energy and inflation. "President Ford is going into it with the idea of how it will affect the domestic economy," he said.

Nessen declined to specify how the outcome of the summit might directly benefit the U.S. domestic scene. He reported, however, that the President will seek new backing for a minimum price which the industrialized nations would agree to pay for imported oil.

Ford, accompanied by Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger and Treasury Secretary William E. Simon, left Washington Friday night on an overnight flight across the Atlantic.

The United States is hopeful the summit can give guidelines to the future economic and political development of industrialized nations.

"The worldwide crisis to the democratic process is the deepest challenge before the leaders at the economic summit," Kissinger said in a speech earlier this week. "... It is the economic issues which must be solved first."

U.S. sources said President Ford will urge that the six countries begin definite programs of recovery by 1976, then move into policies of sustained expansion and high employment by 1977. As a general goal, that is acceptable to all participants.

The sources said Ford will also call on the six to abandon protectionist trade policies — an approach favored by Japan but regarded with caution by several European nations who want to see more recovery in the United States before they begin reducing tariffs on U.S. goods.

Ford is expected to urge that governments be allowed to choose their own systems of monetary exchange rates, provided they conform with international rules and avoid competitive devaluations. President Valéry Giscard d'Estaing of France had insisted on a return to a worldwide system of fixed exchange rates but apparently is now agreeable to what financial experts call "managed flexibility."

Ford is reported willing to make sure that currencies are not devalued competitively, but he is expected to reject any attempt to fix the rate of the dollar, which is not pegged at present.

American ideas on the energy crisis are expected to get a cool reception. Kissinger has called for a united front against the oil-producing cartel in order not to "let our economic future remain indefinitely subject to decisions made by countries which cannot be expected to have our best interests at heart."

But France and Japan are in favor of a dialogue with the oil countries in the context of a larger process of readjusting relations between the world's rich and poor nations. And Britain, now producing its own oil, is reported to be against driving prices too low.

Sources in Washington said Ford would propose that countries adopt tariffs that would keep the domestic price of imported oil above $7 or $8 a barrel, so that an abrupt drop in prices by oil-producing countries would not undercut efforts by countries developing expensive alternative sources of energy.

France and Japan, with little oil of their own and few alternative energy sources, are known to be against the "floor price" idea, which they believe would chiefly benefit the United States.

Even within the Ford administration, Treasury officials are skeptical because such an agreement would be voluntary and not enforceable.

In addition to Ford and Giscard, government chiefs to attend the session are Chancellor Helmut Schmidt of West Germany, Prime Minister Harold Wilson of Britain, and Premiers Takeo Miki of Japan and Aldo Moro of Italy.

Benton Harbor firemen battled for more than three hours late Friday and early today to extinguish a smoldering blaze that caused an estimated $10,000 in structural damage to a downtown building at 239-43 Pipestone street.

Cause of the blaze is believed to be incendiary in nature, according to Deputy Chief John Billups. Billups said it appeared at least two blazes were set, one on the south side and the other on the west side, both on the second floor of the structure. An investigation began last night and will continue today, Billups said.

The building for 39 years was occupied on the main floor by OK Electric Co., which went out of business in June, 1974.

Fire Capt. James Collis said the second floor presently holds eight apartments, but only one was occupied. Collis said the main floor is occupied by United Grace Spiritual church and an office of a civic organization, STICK (Striving Together in Community Kinship).

Collis estimated structural damage to be $10,000. He said the building is owned by John Boynton, 1220 McAllister avenue, Benton Harbor. The building was insured for $30,000, Collis said.

Collis said fire damage was centered in two apartments on the south side, but water damage occurred throughout the building.

Firefighter Steve Kirby received a minor leg injury when his foot went through a light board covering a rooftop skylight, Collis said. Kirby was not hospitalized.

Firemen were called at 11:05 p.m. Friday, and battled dense smoke from the upper floor. Firemen at first believed some people were trapped inside. Firemen said they learned later the only apartment occupants in the building were away at the time of the fire.

The department used ten men, three pumper trucks and the aerial truck. Fire personnel were on the scene until 2:30 a.m. today.

$10,000 Year Gulf Gift To Scott Is Disclosed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott has been identified as the recipient of $10,000 a year in Gulf Oil Corp. cash expenses in the ever-widening probe of Gulf political donations.

And the disclosures identified, for the first time as corporate cash recipients — former President Lyndon B. Johnson; Sen. Mark O. Hatfield, R-Ore.; Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La.; and Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn.

The deposition released Friday also concerned Gulf's Good Government Fund, which depends on legal donations from Gulf employees.

Good Government donations included $2,000 in 1972 to the congressional re-election campaign of President Ford, which was reported then by Ford.

White House Press Secretary Ron Nessen said Ford "never knowingly took a contribution from Gulf or any other corporation." Corporate contributions are illegal.

The deposition, given by a former Gulf attorney and filed in U.S. District Court, noted that in some cases the corporate-cash recipients might not have been aware the money came from Gulf.

Scott issued a statement saying, "No corporate funds were so received to my knowledge. These contributions were either committed to my own campaigns or distributed to further the campaigns of others."

Securities and Exchange Commission attorneys took the testimony from Thomas D. Wright in Pittsburgh in September. He was retained by Gulf in 1973 when the Watergate special prosecutor began inquiring about 1972 contributions. His testimony was based on notes and memorandums of statements made by Gulf's top lobbyist, Claude C. Wild Jr., in meetings held over several months with Gulf officials, the special prosecutor's office and the staff of the Senate Watergate committee.

Two Arrested In Kidnaping

BLOOMFIELD HILLS, Mich. (AP) — Authorities arrested two suspects Friday in connection with the abduction of the 13-year-old son of a General Motors executive earlier this week.

Authorities said Darryl E. Wilson, 22, and Clinton Williams, 18, both of Ann Arbor, would be charged today under federal kidnapping-extortion statutes for the abduction of Timothy Stempel.

A large portion of the $150,000 ransom Robert C. Stempel paid Wednesday for his son's release was recovered, the FBI said.

"We're assuming we've got the principals," said State Police Lt. Robert Robertson.

The pair were to be arraigned before a U.S. Magistrate in Detroit. They were held Friday at the Ypsilanti State Police post.

The arrests came after FBI agents found $250 in ransom money that had been spent in a clothing store in suburban Inkster for two jackets and sweaters. Agents routinely checked stores in the area because they are near a roller-rink where the ransom money

Body Of Missing Fisherman Found

The body of Michael J. Schulz of St. Joseph, missing since a Lake Michigan boating accident 23 days ago, was discovered Friday afternoon on a beach about a half-mile north of Rocky Gap park in Benton township, according to Berrien county sheriff's deputies.

Deputies said identification was made by a driver's license found in the wallet of the victim's pocket. He was one of three men who were tossed into lake waters when their fishing boat overturned on Oct. 23.

Jay L. Gearhart, 26, 1860 Santa Maria, Stevensville, was the only survivor.

Real-Life Robbery Not As Easy As TV Shows

SEATTLE (AP) — Olaf Larson says he's been "98 per cent law abiding all his life." But one day last month, faced with mounting bills, the 71-year-old Larson went out, bought a squirt gun and let the other two per cent take over.

He robbed a bank. Six days later, after a grocery store clerk laughed off his second robbery effort, he got caught.

"I took a chance and lost," said Larson, a retired Navy refrigeration unit repairman.

"I wasn't very smart. I thought I could get away with it. I had seen so many movies on TV where it looked so easy that it became a fixation."

"I just thought, all you gotta be is a step ahead of them. It turned out I was two steps behind."

Larson is being considered for a "pretrial diversion" — probably probation. He has been freed without bail.

Dowagiac Deer Hunter Killed

CADILLAC — A 52-year-old Dowagiac man was killed in a hunting accident this morning near here, on the opening day of deer season, according to state police at the Cadillac post.

According to troopers, killed was Daniel Schott, 52, of route 5, Dowagiac. Police reported Schott was hunting in a field in Osceola county just south of Cadillac about 7:20 a.m. when the accident occurred. Details of the shooting death were not immediately available, but police said Schott was killed while deer hunting.

The death was believed to be the state's first deer hunting fatality by gunfire.

Funeral arrangements are incomplete at McLaughlin-Clark funeral home, Dowagiac.

Were it left to me to decide whether we should have government without newspapers or newspapers without government, I should not hesitate to prefer the latter. — Thomas Jefferson.

Mr. In-Between Joins The Democratic List

To no one's extreme surprise, Alabama's governor, George C. Wallace, this week became the 10th announced candidate for the Democratic Presidential nomination next year.

At a televised news conference which for background had 30 of his higher placed supporters in the audience, Wallace said he will seek the nomination on the theme of "Trust In The People."

By way of demonstrating his is not a sectional background, the orchestra eschewed "Dixie" in favor of "The Battle Hymn of The Republic."

His 1968 and 1972 efforts played the south's marching song endlessly, and Confederate flags waved in super abundance.

Only the slogan remains unchanged even though the wording is altered. In 1968 Wallace coined "Stand Up for America," four years later it read "Send Them a Message."

Like any candidate Wallace goes into the race with a tail wind behind him and shackles on his legs.

On the debit side he will find it impossible to shed the segregationist image. Regardless of how many millions of Americans are Archie Bunkers within their own homes, few politicians tagged as being anti-Negro get very far today at the polls.

His second liability is the nagging doubt as to his health. He remains a permanent wheelchair case from an assassination attempt in 1972. Wallace tries to counter this argument by reminding everyone that FDR was a polio cripple long before he entered the White House. The difference is the question of potential complications in one situation and Roosevelt's comparative good condition except the loss of leg power.

The assets in the Wallace balance sheet are considerable, better than ever.

Unlike the helter skelter skirmishing in the two prior campaigns, Wallace has assembled a better organization than any candidate in either major party possesses at this time.

This group has already raised $3 million in mail order appeals and has a solid bank account after deducting $2.5 million in expenses to date.

Further, its fund raising entitles the organization to matching federal funds. This will be an enormous plus for Wallace who by reason of his physical condition will have to rely upon television substantially to substitute for personal barnstorming around the countryside.

The group also understands the party's complex rules on how to translate primary votes into delegates and has a 400-page battle plan already in print to implement the objective.

The increase in state primaries from 24 in '72 to 30 next year should benefit Wallace. Even before his formal announcement on Tuesday he outranked all the other nine hopefuls except Hubert H. Humphrey.

In as yet a neutral position between asset and liability is Wallace's chosen confrontation with the party leadership.

The chieftains want Teddy Kennedy as their first choice. They will settle for Humphrey as an alternate.

They definitely do not want Wallace, not so much for his public belaboring of them as "pointy-head" liberals, but because they would not even latch on to the totem pole's bottom rung if he should capture the big prize.

Wallace has recognized this fact from the time he lifted his sights beyond the Montgomery, Ala., statehouse to the White House and has appealed directly to the man in the middle of the American stream.

He is the Archie Bunker whom the program fashioners of the television show consistently depict as a solid citizen full of misinformation and conclusions as to what the U.S. is all about.

Strangely enough, some psychological studies of the show's audience indicate much, possibly most, of the audience is with Archie.

Wallace has no degree in psychology but he does know tremendous numbers of Americans feel ripped off by their government, their party leaders, union bosses and everyone else up front and center.

It is early in the game to lay odds, but if Wallace can hold together physically, there will be a real dogfight for control of that silent army of Archie Bunkers.

Mired In Paperwork

Incredible though it may seem, the Tax Foundation has computed that during the course of this year 129 million man hours will be consumed merely filling out forms required by the federal government. That effort, the non-partisan research organization also figures, is up 7 million man hours from last year.

There is no end to the constructive uses that huge effort could be turned to, not to mention the dollar savings, if some way could be found to stop the paperwork machine centered in Washington. A number of bills have been introduced in Congress this year to try to stem the tide, but the herculean effort seems almost too huge a task for mere legislation.

Probably this complex world never again can return to the days when a contract was sealed, not with reams of paper, but a shake of the hand; and there are certain government forms — income tax returns, for example, which are necessary to keep the machinery moving. Even these could be simplified if a genuine effort was made.

As the growth in man hours consumed on paperwork in one indicates, it isn't nearly enough to make some reductions here and there. The entire concept of originating forms, memos, returns, questionnaires, etc. has to be tightened considerably.

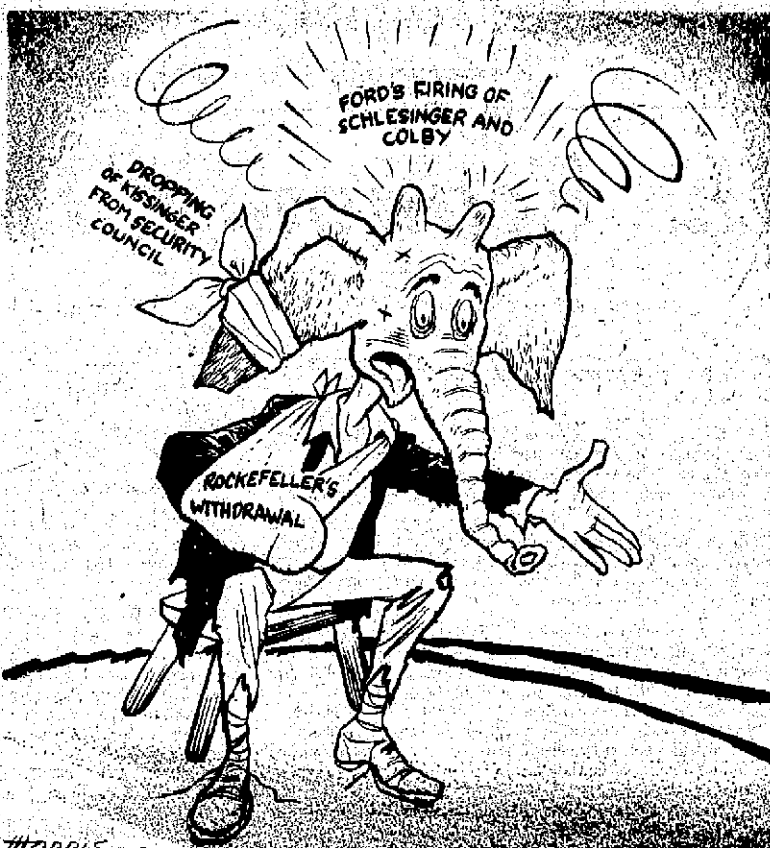

Earth Had Dirty Past

So the atmosphere is on a one-way trip to becoming dirtier, is it? Core samples taken in Antarctica and Greenland by a team from Ohio State University studying the last glacial age reveal that snow falling during the period was considerably dirtier than snow of today.

Samples taken from Antarctica were found to be 100 times dirtier than today's, and samples from Greenland were four times dirtier. Samples from both sites were about 14,000 years old and heavily contaminated with volcanic ash.

Studies of the samples also indicate the particle count was dense enough to have caused major temperature changes — a prerequisite for a major ice age.

IN UNITY THERE IS STRENGTH

Editor, In unity there is strength. Two centuries ago the colonists in 13 States banded together to do what an individual or a single state could not do. They threw out the Oppressors and found a new Nation.

Less than a century ago industrial workers banded together and, through such union, improved their lot. This sparked industry to improve productivity and the whole Nation benefited.

In the past decades public servants (those who serve and are paid by the public) have banded together in the same fashion. That sounds fair enough, at first glance.

But while the Trade Unions brought some feather bedding and drove some industries to run, most led to greater efficiency and a higher Standard of Living.

The Unions of Public Servants are not girded for battle against cunning Industrial Managers, who have the incentive to offset the union demands by developing facilities for greater productivity. No, they do battle with the Public — you and me — and we are neither cunning, nor equipped to increase the productivity of the Public Servant.

At least it does not appear that our elected Managers in the Public Sector are cunning or have the incentive to make a doubled Teacher's salary go hand in hand with a more than doubled output of even better graduates.

Nor does it appear that the Internal Revenue Service has streamlined its operation so that the Department's cost per tax dollar collected is minimized.

And the Postal Service has declined so far, that separate Corporate operation was approved, but without halting the decline.

Now the Public Servant Unions are permitted to participate in politics. That, too, sounds fair enough.

But after they have taken over the rest of the country by electing their chosen representatives, who will be left to foot the bill?

In unity there is strength. It has worked well for our Nation, and for our industry, but I doubt very much that anyone will benefit in the end from the unionization of the Public Servants. Not because they are more self-serving than others, but because of our failure to cast our votes for cunning managers who can increase their productivity and make them earn their keep, as befits any union member.

At Least, Ford Team Compatible

WASHINGTON — In the speculation over intrigue in the White House, and inner circle battles among Henry Kissinger, Donald Rumsfeld and James Schlesinger, it is quite possible the real significance of President Ford's Halloween reshuffling may have been lost.

It may be that Mr. Ford is moving neither to the right nor left, but picking his top men for reasons other than their political philosophy.

What seems most likely from the evidence, and from conversations, is that President Ford, after somewhat over a year in office, has decided that he is more comfortable with, and places more trust in the judgment of politicians in key posts, a sharp reversal from the strategy of President Nixon.

Mr. Ford seems to prefer politicians of the center. He is uncomfortable with dogmatic bureaucrats, academicians, philosophers and scientists as makers of policy, or in key posts in which they must work with Congress, other cabinet officers or with important segments of the public. That is, Mr. Ford has, when he had a choice, picked men who can deal with other men smoothly and do not get into personal fights, however strongly they may battle politically.

He is especially uncomfortable around men wedded to one solution or to one stand or another, unable to roll with the punches.

Prominent among his recent choices are former congressmen, whose political lives depend on their ability to compromise.

Melvin Laird, long-time congressional associate, and now a close personal adviser, though with no official position.

— Donald Rumsfeld, nominee for Defense, an ex-congressman known for his low-key approach.

— George Bush, being brought home from China to head the Central Intelligence Agency, has a congressional background. As chairman of the Republican National Committee he showed a deft ability to bring warring factions into some semblance of cooperation.

Elliott Richardson, nominee for secretary of Commerce, has no congressional experience. But he was successful in elective posts in Massachusetts before service as chief of vice chief at State, HEW, the Pentagon and as attorney general.

Though not a politician, David Matthews, recently appointed secretary of Health, Education and Welfare, is known for his success in getting along with all factions in his university. Edward H. Levi, attorney general, had the same reputation in his long academic career.

Despite Richardson's abrupt resignation as attorney general in President Nixon's cabinet, he and the rest of this group of men are pragmatists, first of all. None is far from center, to the left or the right. All are conciliators.

With these Ford appointments in mind, it is to be expected that when the time is ripe, the President will ease Secretary of State Henry Kissinger and William Simon, Secretary of the Treasury, from his cabinet. Both are arrogant, contentious, unyielding — and contemptuous of men who disagree with their theories. They breed disharmony.

Secretary of Agriculture Earl L. Butz is in a different category. He is neither arrogant nor unfriendly, but he is controversial. So he may likewise be expendable within the next year.

Shakeup Disaster For President

The upheaval at the White House did a great deal of damage to President Ford in his bid for the Republican nomination. In his effort to appear more decisive and "Presidential" Mr. Ford succeeded only in creating an impression of total disarray. He also seriously misjudged his "conservative problem" when he hoped to balance the firing of Secretary of Defense James Schlesinger with the departure of Vice President Nelson Rockefeller from the 1976 ticket.

It has been apparent to everyone, and apparent to conservatives in particular, that the only question concerning the dumping of Rockefeller was "when."

Long the target of conservative rancor, Rockefeller became expendable to the precise degree that the Reagan challenge appeared dangerous. Since the White House is now in a state of panic regarding Reagan, that meant Rockefeller had become highly expendable. An additional factor was his highly visible public record in all places, New York. Furthermore, as campaign manager Howard Callaway rather brutally observed some months ago, a man who would be 68 when inaugurated scarcely seemed a very plausible Vice Presidential candidate anyway.

Finally, Rockefeller has been locked for months in a savage and losing power struggle with White House chief of staff and now Secretary of Defense-nominee Donald Rumsfeld.

Rockefeller's declaration of non candidacy therefore hardly comes as a surprise, and it by no means persuades conservatives that the Promised Land is near.

The firing of Defense Secretary Schlesinger, however, constitutes a political disaster for Ford on his conservative front. This may not be apparent immediately among rank and file Republicans and conservatives. They do not worry much about things like the Backfire bomber, the Pershing missile, and the throw-weight factor. But these things are not as esoteric as they may appear, and among attentive conservatives the Schlesinger firing has been a catastrophe for Ford, and it is precisely there that Ford can least absorb political damage.

James Schlesinger is thorny and he is an intellectual, but he is also a highly serious man, an homme sérieux as the French say — which can be loosely translated as "someone who doesn't fool around, and with whom it is unwise to fool around yourself."

In his substantive disagreements with arch-rival Henry Kissinger, moreover, Schlesinger has almost invariably been correct on the facts. Schlesinger argues, for example, that the Soviet Backfire bomber, which can hit the continental United States, ought to count as a "strategic weapon" in the SALT talks. After all, our own strategic bombers count as strategic weapons. Kissinger simply wants to concede the Backfire point to the Soviets in the interest of "agreement." Examples of this kind of thing could be multiplied.

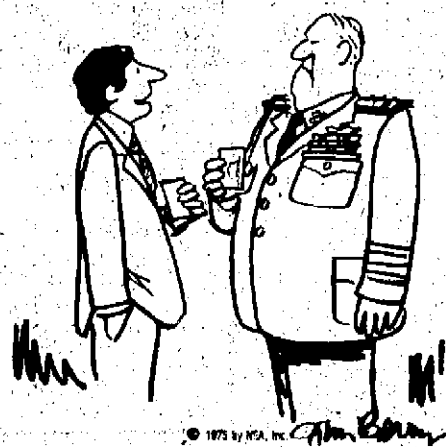

But beyond these detailed matters of substance, the two men are at odds in their perception of our present overall circumstance. Once again Schlesinger is certainly on the right side of the question, and here the stakes are momentous.

Were it left to me to decide whether we should have government without newspapers or newspapers without government, I should not hesitate to prefer the latter. — Thomas Jefferson.

Mr. In-Between Joins The Democratic List

To no one's extreme surprise, Alabama's governor, George C. Wallace, this week became the 10th announced candidate for the Democratic Presidential nomination next year.

At a televised news conference which for background had 30 of his higher placed supporters in the audience, Wallace said he will seek the nomination on the theme of "Trust in The People".

By way of demonstrating his is not a sectional background, the orchestra eschewed "Dixie" in favor of "The Battle Hymn of the Republic."

His 1968 and 1972 efforts played the south's marching song endlessly and Confederate flags waved in super abundance.

Only the slogan remains unchanged even though the wording is altered. In 1968 Wallace coined "Stand Up for America"; four years later it read "Send Them a Message."

Like any candidate Wallace goes into the race with a tail wind behind him and shackles on his legs.

On the debit side he will find it impossible to shed the segregationist image. Regardless of how many millions of Americans are Archie Bunkers within their own homes, few politicians tagged as being anti-Negro get very far today at the polls.

His second liability is the nagging doubt as to his health. He remains a permanent wheelchair case from an assassination attempt in 1972. Wallace tries to counter this argument by reminding everyone that FDR was a polio cripple long before he entered the White House. The difference is the question of potential complications in one situation and Roosevelt's comparative good condition except the loss of leg power.

The assets in the Wallace balance sheet are considerable, better than ever.

Unlike the helter skelter skirmishing in the two prior campaigns, Wallace has assembled a better organization than any candidate in either major party possesses at this time.

This group has already raised $3 million in mail order appeals and has a solid bank account after deducting $2.5 million in expenses to date.

Further, its fund raising entitles the organization to matching federal funds. This will be an enormous plus for Wallace who by reason of his physical condition will have to rely upon television substantially to substitute for personal barnstorming around the countryside.

The group also understands the party's complex rules on how to translate primary votes into delegates and has a 400-page battle plan already in print to implement the objective.

The increase in state primaries from 24 in '72 to 30 next year should benefit Wallace. Even before his formal announcement on Tuesday he outranked all the other nine hopefuls except Hubert H. Humphrey.

In as yet a neutral position between asset and liability is Wallace's chosen confrontation with the party leadership.

The chieftains want Teddy Kennedy as their first choice. They will settle for Humphrey as an alternate.

They definitely do not want Wallace, not so much for his public belaboring of them as "pointy-head" liberals, but because they would not even latch on to the totem pole's bottom rung if he should capture the big prize.

Wallace has recognized this fact from the time he lifted his sights beyond the Montgomery, Ala., statehouse to the White House and has appealed directly to the man in the middle of the American stream.

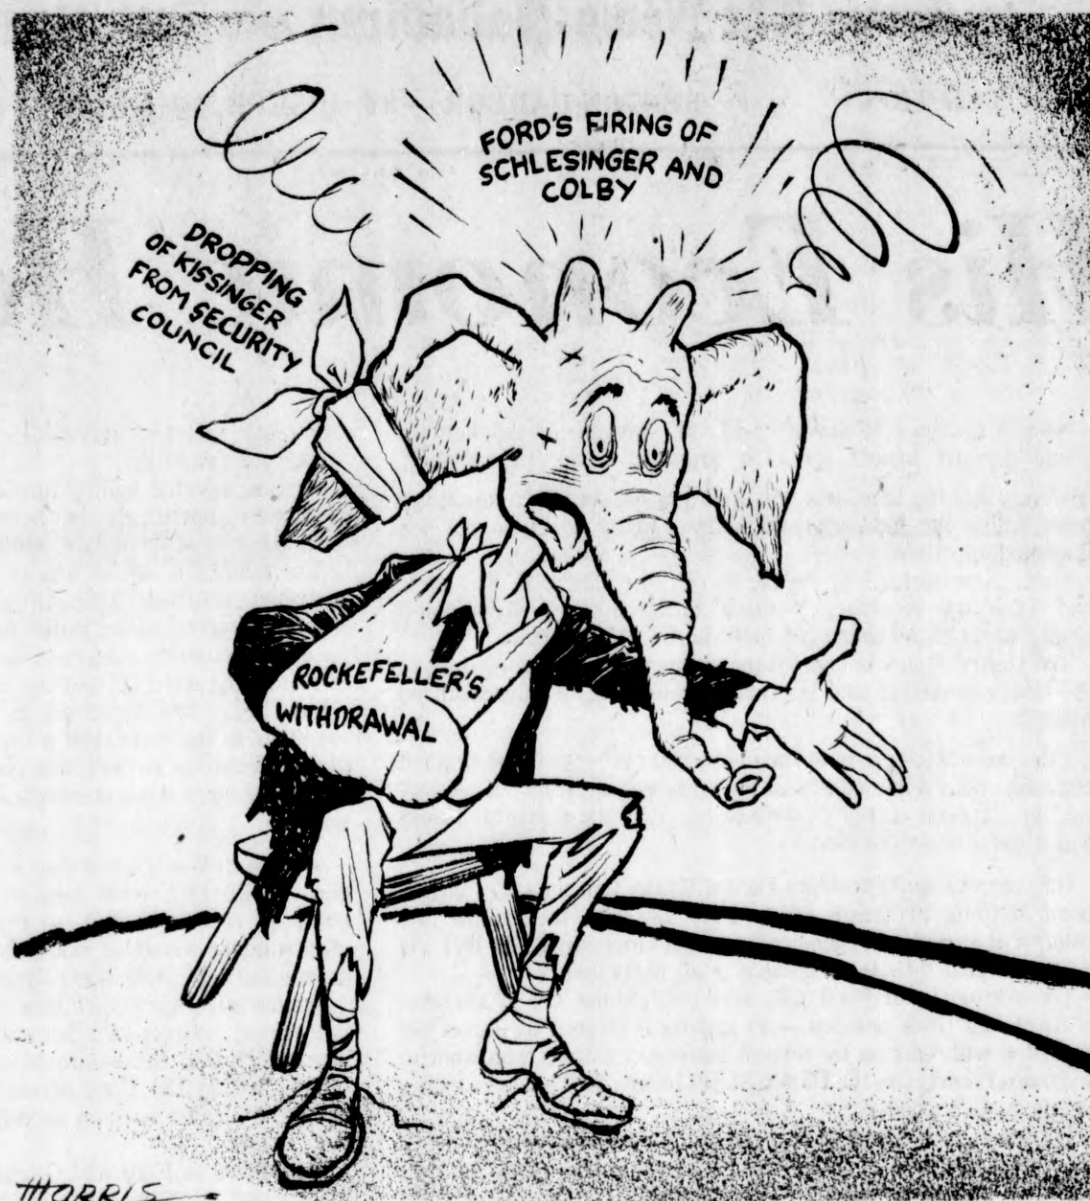

He is the Archie Bunker whom the program fashioners of the television show consistently depict as a solid citizen full of misinformation and conclusions as to what the U.S. is all about.

Strangely enough, some psychological studies of the show's audience indicate much, possibly most, of the audience is with Archie.

Wallace has no degree in psychology but he does know tremendous numbers of Americans feel ripped off by their government, their party leaders, union bosses and everyone else up front and center.

It is early in the game to lay odds, but if Wallace can hold together physically, there will be a real dogfight for control of that silent army of Archie Bunkers.

Some months ago The Evening News reported that negotiations were on for the sale of the local street railway line to outside parties. At the time the report was vigorously denied but it has proven true. Chicago capitalists have purchased a controlling interest in the road, having secured the stock owned by Edward Brant, Dr. George M. Bell, H.C. Mason and W.H. Hull and others. These gentlemen will retain a share of stock each and will remain members of the directory. Col. Mired In Paperwork

Incredible though it may seem, the Tax Foundation has computed that during the course of this year 129 million man hours will be consumed merely filling out forms required by the federal government. That effort, the non-partisan research organization also figures, is up 7 million man hours from last year.

There is no end to the constructive uses that huge effort could be turned to, not to mention the dollar savings, if some way could be found to stop the paperwork machine centered in Washington. A number of bills have been introduced in Congress this year to try to stem the tide, but the herculean effort seems almost too huge a task for mere legislation.

Probably this complex world never again can return to the days when a contract was sealed, not with reams of paper, but a shake of the hand; and there are certain government forms — income tax returns, for example, which are necessary to keep the machinery moving. Even these could be simplified if a genuine effort was made.

As the growth in man hours consumed on paperwork in one indicates, it isn't nearly enough to make some reductions here and there. The entire concept of originating forms, memos, returns, questionnaires, etc. has to be tightened considerably.

Family Charges Racial Bias In Eviction

CHURCH WANTS OUT OF RENTAL BUSINESS

By STEVE McQUOWN
And LARRY McINTYRE
Staff Writers

A black Stevensville family which has rented a house from a Lutheran church for six years has charged the church wants to evict the family now because of racial bias.

Phin Shannon, a 34-year-old foundry worker, has hired an attorney to try to keep his family in the home it has rented since 1969. The family, including Shannon, numbers 13. Through his attorney, Tat Parish of St. Joseph, Shannon has asked the federal district court to take jurisdiction over the eviction process started by St. Luke's Lutheran church, LCA, 5020 Cleveland avenue, Stevensville.

He has also filed a counter suit, seeking $13,000 in damages for alleged violations of his civil rights and he has asked the federal court to block the eviction process filed in Berrien Fifth District court.

Rev. Timothy Knauff, pastor of the church, said the congregation is in "a state of shock" over the racial bias allegations and denied the eviction move was racially motivated. He said the church has already torn down two other rental properties this year and wants to tear down the home the Shannons rent so the church can "get out of the rental business."

One of properties was a house rented by a white family which was asked to move.

The 29-year-old minister said the congregation is to meet Nov. 22 to decide "what our alternatives are" and whether to pursue the eviction in costly federal court litigation.

The two-story frame home is located next to the church and is surrounded on three sides by the church and paved parking lots.

Shannon and his family moved into the house in December, 1969, from Chicago.

Living in the house besides Shannon are his wife, nine children and two grandchildren. Their rent is $100 monthly.

Shannon said he doesn't particularly want to stay in the house, but he said there were no other large enough houses available that are close to his work and in neighborhoods which he feels would be safe for his children.

To move to Benton Harbor, he said, "would be like moving back to Chicago. That's what I'm trying to get away from."

He said the minister wants to get rid of his family because "...more white people won't join the church while we live here."

Rev. Knauff has been pastor at the church for about 3 1/2 years. The church has about 75 active family members and an average Sunday attendance of about 100.

"If it was a matter of race," he said, "the congregation would not have survived for the six years the Shannons have rented the home."

"There would have been an uproar every month on the month," he said.

The church was built in 1968, and at first needed the extra income from rental properties to finance church activities, Rev. Knauff said.

But earlier this year, the church asked the white family living in a home directly behind the Shannons to move from a house that has since been torn down. A nearby barn rented as storage by a contractor was also demolished, the minister said.

He said the Shannon home is 35 to 40 years old and its condition, from a landlord's point of view, has the church concerned. "We are liable for the house," he said.

He said the Shannons over the six years they have lived in the house have fallen about $500 to $1,000 behind in their rent.

The rent is not the factor for asking the Shannons to move, he emphasized.

"The church would like to remove the building and get out of the rental business," he said.

Rev. Knauff said that the church and the Shannons have maintained a good relationship up to this time.

Shannon said he holds no "grudges" against the church, adding that several members of the congregation have been attempting to help him.

He at first shunned any publicity on the eviction the church first served against him in August and then again in late October.

"Either I stay or we're out in the street. If we are out in the street, it (publicity) isn't going to matter anyway because the whole world is going to see us out there."

SJ Attorney Gives Office Building To Mercy Hospital

Benton Harbor Mercy hospital announced today that it has acquired the Medical Center building, 858 Pipestone street, Benton Harbor, as a gift from Myron H. Wolcott.

The building, located on the corner of Pipestone and Union streets, houses Gillespie's pharmacy and six physicians' offices and is valued at $187,400, according to C.T. Loftus, Mercy executive vice president.

Wolcott is an attorney with offices in the Peoples State bank building, St. Joseph.

Robert B. Willemink, president of Mercy hospital, said the new building will enable the hospital and the community to attract new physicians by providing modern adequate office space in close proximity to the hospital.

The Medical Center building is located one block from the hospital. The hospital will rent office space to physicians. Currently three of the six offices in the building are occupied and hospital officials said they expected the other three to be filled shortly.

"Mr. Wolcott's gift in support of Mercy's services and programs to the community is most generous and welcomed by the hospital board, medical staff, and employees," Loftus said. "It is really a gift to the community as it will aid the hospital in its program of rendering comprehensive care to everyone served by the hospital."

Loftus said Mercy hospital's many new service programs, such as cobalt therapy, kidney dialysis, oncology and open heart surgery, are attracting new physicians to the hospital and consequently there is an increasing demand for physician office space.

Mercy hospital employs over 500 people and has an annual budget of more than $8 million and provides health services for residents in the tri-county area of southwestern Michigan.

New Buffalo Heritage Days Elects Officers

NEW BUFFALO — Mrs. Richard Pirkel and Mrs. Bertram Sippy have been elected 1976 festival co-chairmen for the Greater New Buffalo area Heritage Days committee. Other officers elected were Mrs. Albert Ainsworth, recording secretary; Mrs. Richard Graf, corresponding secretary and Mrs. Rudolph Prusa, treasurer. Directors elected were Gordon Kissman, Mrs. Theodore Oster and Mrs. Donald Bond.

Will Of St. Joseph Auto Dealer Is Filed

A petition has been filed in Berrien Probate court to admit to probate the estimated $50,000 estate of William Wesner, who died last summer when he fell from a ladder while working on an electric sign at his auto dealership.

Wesner, 61, of 703 Columbia avenue, St. Joseph, was a partner in Wesner Brothers Auto Sales at 2712 Niles avenue, St. Joseph. He was working on a sign at the showroom when he apparently sustained an electrical shock and fell 15 feet from a ladder.

Mr. Wesner's 1964 will bequeaths all of his estate to his widow, Elma, and estimates the value of personal property at $50,000.

Student Performers Will Unveil BHHS Auditorium

Dedication ceremonies of the Benton Harbor high school Performing Arts center, Wednesday and Thursday, will feature student performances as part of the dedication of the newly-renovated center. The dedication, which begins at 7 p.m. both nights, will include performances by students from the drama department and selections by the symphony band and concert choirs.

The program will feature a Bicentennial theme and was jointly developed by Bernhardt Kuschel, director of music for Benton Harbor area schools, and Trudy Walker, drama; Charles Bullard, bands, and Cole Tyrrell, choirs.

The symphony band and concert choirs will join together to present combined performances of "The Star Spangled Banner" and "America the Beautiful." The symphony band will perform "Music For A Ceremony" and "American Patrol," while "For Whom Shall I Weep" and "Ezekiel Saw De Wheel" will be performed by the concert choir. A selection of readings will be offered by students from drama classes.

Following the performances in the center, guests will be invited into the new Student Commons area for refreshments, and an opportunity to review the entire Benton Harbor high school renovation package.

The remodeling also includes teacher dining area; six modern new classrooms, and an expanded art teaching facility. Lockers for physical education have been replaced, and a large instructional storage facility is being completed. Staff and visitors have been able to use a new north parking lot at the school since the beginning of the school year. Total cost of the renovations is about $1 million, with the performing arts center pegged at $385,000 of that total.

"These renovations are the first step in a long-range package to upgrade and improve our high school for future classes to come," explained Benton Harbor area schools Superintendent Richard F. Helser. "Our board of education realized how important it is to provide a first-rate high school for our students, and with careful fiscal management, has been able to complete the first phase."

"The Performing Arts center is being dedicated to the community, and not just school-related groups," added Helser. "We have been without such a facility for some time now, and the need has never been greater, nor the opportunity for performing excellence in our community's cultural life more important than today."

Students will also be on hand to direct visitors from parking lots to the arts center, and students will also serve as tour guides through the building to allow guests to learn first hand how the various classrooms and facilities will be used.

No tickets are required for the performances, but the demand is expected to be large enough so that the school system has developed a suggested schedule for the performances. Parents and interested citizens from the following school areas are asked to attend on Wednesday: Bard, Boynton, Henry C. Morton, Hull, Johnson, Lafayette, Martindale, Martin Luther King, Jr., Millburg, North Shore, Seely McCord, Benton Harbor 7th and 8th Grade center and Calvin Britain.

Parents and interested citizens from the following schools are asked to attend Thursday: Fairplain East, Fairplain Northeast Fairplain West, Fairplain Northwest, Pearl, Sodus, Soter, Spinks Corners, Storie Brunsen, Stump, Fairplain 7th and 8th Grade center, Columbus and Benton Harbor high school.

PHIN SHANNON JR.
Charges bias

A black Stevensville family which has rented a house from a Lutheran church for six years has charged the church wants to evict the family now because of racial bias.

Phin Shannon, a 34-year-old foundry worker, has hired an attorney to try to keep his family in the home it has rented since 1969. The family, including Shannon, numbers 13.

Through his attorney, Tat Parish of St. Joseph, Shannon has asked the federal district court to take jurisdiction over the eviction process started by St. Luke's Lutheran church, LCA, 5020 Cleveland avenue, Stevensville.

He has also filed a counter suit, seeking $13,000 in damages for alleged violations of his civil rights and he has asked the federal court to block the eviction process filed in Berrien Fifth District court.

Rev. Timothy Knauff, pastor at the church, said the congregation is in "a state of shock" over the racial bias allegations and denied the eviction move was racially motivated. He said the church has already torn down two other rental properties this year and wants to tear down the home the Shannons rent so the church can "get out of the rental business."

One of properties was a house rented by a white family which was asked to move.

The 29-year-old minister said the congregation is to meet Nov. 22 to decide "what our alternatives are" and whether to pursue the eviction in costly federal court litigation.

The two-story frame home is located next to the church and is surrounded on three sides by the church and paved parking lots.

Shannon and his family moved into the house in December, 1969, from Chicago.

Living in the house besides Shannon are his wife, nine children and two grandchildren. Their rent is $100 monthly.

Shannon said he doesn't particularly want to stay in the house, but he said there were no other large enough houses available that are close to his work and in neighborhoods which he feels would be safe for his children.

To move to Benton Harbor, he said, "would be like moving back to Chicago. That's what I'm trying to get away from."

He said the minister wants to get rid of his family because "...more white people won't join the church while we live here."

Rev. Knauff has been pastor at the church for about 3 1/2 years. The church has about 75 active family members and an average Sunday attendance of about 100.

"If it was a matter of race," he said, "the congregation would not have survived for the six years the Shannons have rented the home."

"There would have been an uproar every month on the month," he said.

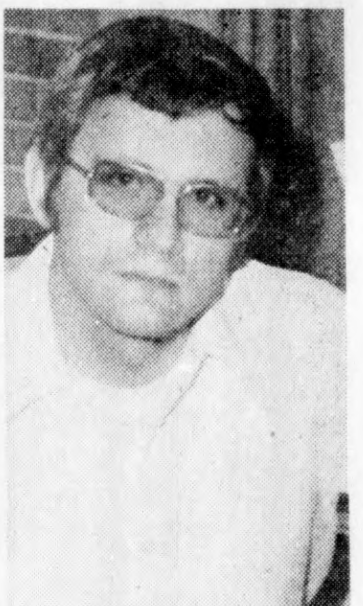

The church was built in 1968, and at first needed the extra income from rental properties to finance church activities, Rev. Knauff said.

But earlier this year, the church asked the white family living in a home directly behind the Shannons to move from a house that has since been torn down. A nearby barn rented as storage by a contractor was also demolished, the minister said.

He said the Shannon home is 35 to 40 years old and its condition, from a landlord's point of view, has the church concerned. "We are liable for the house," he said.

HEAR PROBATE JUDGE

Critics Say High Court Has Exceeded Power

By MARYANNE BUTT
Staff Writer

Many outraged Americans feel the United States Supreme Court today has "repeatedly exceeded its power, according to Berrien County Probate Judge Zoe Burkholz.

They say the court has usurped the power of the Legislative and Executive branches of government, she said.

Judge Burkholz spoke Nov. 13 to members and guests of Algonquin Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, at Berrien Hills Country club in Benton Harbor.

The "outraged" persist in their claim that the courts truly have changed their roles in American life, she said.

They say that the American courts are now more powerful than ever before. Many feel that public opinion, which is a designed check on the Supreme Court's power, is weaker.

And, she said, "They say that courts, through interpretation of the Constitution and the laws, now reach into the lives of the people, often against the will of the people, deeper than they ever have in history."

Political scientists who have studied the courts in this country see changes in the court within a well-understood pattern, in which periods of "activism" contrast with periods of "quietism," according to Judge Burkholz.

"Unhappy lawyers and political scientists who look at the long stretch of history are sure that quietism will replace activism, as it has before," she continued, "and that the courts will retire from the front pages of the newspaper."

But the critics say that a period of "quietism" has not occurred and is not in view.

"The Supreme Court's current period of activism" commenced with the Brown Decision of 1954," she said; "when the Warren Court ruled that racial segregation in public schools is unconstitutional and must be eliminated 'with all deliberate speed.'"

She said beginning in 1969, former President Richard Nixon, who opposed the Warren Court's activism, during his first term succeeded in making four appointments of conservatives to the court - Burger, Blackman, Powell and Rehnquist. According to the theory of checks and balances, she said, the Warren period of activism should have come to an end or at least subsided as the Warren Court was replaced by the Burger Court. Yet, this didn't happen.

"To the contrary," Judge Burkholz said, "there have been more far reaching decisions in terms of impact on the people and their everyday lives since 1969 than in 1954-68 (the Warren period) even with the four Nixon appointed justices."

An example she cited was the 1871 Swann Decision, which unanimously ordered massive busing of children to overcome segregation in a large city.

Another example she pointed out was the 1974 Keyes Decision, which ordered massive busing in a northern city. It set forth proofs for de jure segregation that were so loose it practically guaranteed that de jure segregation could be found everywhere, according to Judge Burkholz.

"The Keyes Decision could very likely be used to circumvent the narrow five-four Milliken decision which overturned a lower court's requirement for the merger of the Detroit school district and its suburbs in order to create racial integration through busing," she said. "Conceivably," she continued, "the children of this state could be bused from Detroit to St. Joseph to achieve racial balance."

She cited other examples of the Supreme Court's decisions of "activism," including the 1971 decision in which the court held valid government guidelines for the use of tests in employment that required strict standards of "job relatedness."

This decision, in effect, declared illegal efforts by employers, public and private, to hire the most qualified applicant, according to Judge Burkholz.

"Paradoxically, when hiring in accordance with these tests and guidelines, employers in effect are required to hire by racial and ethnic quotas, a practice specifically forbidden by the Civil Rights Act of 1964."

In 1975, she said, the court again spread the awesome limitations of due process to the public schools which now cannot restrict the constitutional rights of students by suspending or expelling them without a procedure resembling a criminal trial.

Also in 1975, she said, "It agreed in the first of a series of important cases in the rights of mental patients, that harmless persons could not be detained involuntarily in mental hospitals, formally adopting previous decisions of federal district courts which have raised havoc in the commitment procedures in many states, including Michigan."

"In all of these cases, and others, the court extended the reach of government into the lives of people," according to Judge Burkholz, "the court acted over the actions of legislatures and executives and these decisions were issued despite the appointment of four justices by Nixon."

"If we acknowledge the present extended activist phase of the court we should next raise the question, can it be reversed?" she said.

She said the critics say it will be difficult to reverse the activist court for several reasons, among them the fact that the federal court has decided more than the case before it, gone beyond the wrong presented to sweeping reorganize a complex service of government allegedly to deal with a wrong at its roots.

She explained, "Instead of ordering adequate medical care for the prisoner before the court, the court consults so-called experts and comes up with a program for complete new medical services for a state prison system without regard to the ability of the state to pay for such services."

"As the critics say, in 1994 the court abandoned prudence and in a cycle of activism firmly insisted among many other things that segregation and degradation of blacks must end," she said. "It succeeded and eventually was joined by the Legislative and Executive branches of government."

"I personally believe this will long be recognized as a heroic period in the history of the court," Judge Burkholz said. "But even heroes can overreach themselves. Now is the time for the pendulum to swing. Perhaps all that is needed to turn the activist phase of the court to quietism is the appointment of just one more conservative justice to the Supreme Court."

She said, "Mr. Douglas' resignation would appear to make this possible, but to make the court more responsive to the will of the people in the future, perhaps we need a Constitutional amendment modifying the life tenure of the Federal Judiciary and require resignation at an achieved age of, let's say 70 years."

"In any event," Judge Burkholz concluded, "I submit that now and in the Bicentennial year the court must revert to acting with prudence in the finest tradition of the judiciary, and prudence must be the regular compulsion for its actions if, from this day forward, our free society, the great experiment in liberty of our forefathers, is to survive."

Annual Clothing Benefit To Be Held Nov. 23-30

The Thanksgiving Clothing Collection, sponsored annually by Catholic Relief Services, will be held in many churches of the Kalamazoo Diocese Nov. 23-30.

Individuals interested in contributing to the drive should contact their local parishes for further information.

In announcing the drive, this year's Diocesan director, the Rev. Eugene A. Sears, stressed the continuing need for light weight clothing. "Since the vast majority of the endemic poor who benefit from this clothing collection live in the warmer, tropical areas of the world we are asking that everyone donate as much light weight clothing as possible. Garments made of cotton, nylon, rayon and polyester are ideal. Infants' layettes, children's outfits and men's work clothes are most in demand."

According to CRS officials, 37 million articles of apparel, blankets, etc., weighing 5,375 tons and valued at $22.5 million dollars were collected during last year's appeal. The items were distributed in 48 countries with particular emphasis to refugees in Southeast Asia.

CRS also maintains supplies for disasters, according to the Rev. Sears.

In many countries, CRS sponsors "clothing for work" programs, for those engaged in community improvement projects. They are rewarded for their labors with garments for themselves and their families.

HEAR PROBATE JUDGE

Critics Say High Court Has Exceeded Power

By MARYANNE BUTT
Staff Writer

Many outraged Americans feel the United States Supreme Court today has repeatedly exceeded its power, according to Berrien County Probate Judge Zoe Burkholz.

They say the court has usurped the power of the Legislative and Executive branches of government, she said.

Judge Burkholz spoke Nov. 13 to members and guests of Algonquin Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, at Berrien Hills Country club in Benton Harbor.

The "outraged" persist in their claim that the courts truly have changed their roles in American life, she said. They say that the American courts are now more powerful than ever before. Many feel that public opinion, which is a designed check on the Supreme Court's power, is weaker.

And, she said, "They say that courts, through interpretation of the Constitution and the laws, now reach into the lives of the people, often against the will of the people, deeper than they ever have in history."

Political scientists who have studied the courts in this country see changes in the court within a well-understood pattern, in which periods of "activism" contrast with periods of "quietism," according to Judge Burkholz.

"Uneasy lawyers and political scientists who look at the long stretch of history are sure that quietism will replace activism, as it has before," she continued, "and that the courts will retire from the front pages of the newspaper."

But the critics say that a period of "quietism" has not occurred and is not in view.

"The Supreme Court's current period of activism commenced with the Brown Decision of 1954," she said, "when the Warren Court ruled that racial segregation in public schools is unconstitutional and must be eliminated 'with all deliberate speed.'"

She said beginning in 1969, former President Richard Nixon, who opposed the Warren Court's activism, during his first term succeeded in making four appointments of conservatives to the court — Burger, Blackman, Powell and Rehnquist. According to the theory of checks and balances, she said, the Warren period of activism should have come to an end or at least subsided as the Warren Court was replaced by the Burger Court. Yet, this didn't happen.

"To the contrary," Judge Burkholz said, "there have been more far reaching decisions in terms of impact on the people and their everyday lives since 1969 than in 1954-68 (the Warren period) even with the four Nixon appointed justices."

An example she cited was the 1971 Swann Decision, which unanimously ordered massive busing of children to overcome segregation in a large city.

Another example she pointed out was the 1974 Keyes Decision, which ordered massive busing in a northern city. It set forth proofs for de jure segregation that were so loose it practically guaranteed that de jure segregation could be found everywhere, according to Judge Burkholz.

"The Keyes Decision could very likely be used to circumvent the narrow five-four Milliken decision which overturned a lower court's requirement for the merger of the Detroit school district and its suburbs in order to create racial integration through busing," she said, "Conceivably," she continued, "the children of this state could be bused from Detroit to St. Joseph to achieve racial balance."

She cited other examples of the Supreme Court's decisions of "activism," including the 1971 decision in which the court held valid government guidelines for the use of tests in employment that required strict standards of "job relatedness."

This decision, in effect, declared illegal efforts by employers, public and private, to hire the most qualified applicant, according to Judge Burkholz.

"Paradoxically, when hiring in accordance with these tests and guidelines, employers in effect are required to hire by racial and ethnic quotas, a practice specifically forbidden by the Civil Rights Act of 1964."

In 1975, she said, the court again spread the awesome limitations of due process to the public schools which now cannot restrict the constitutional rights of students by suspending or expelling them without a procedure resembling a criminal trial.

Also in 1975, she said, "it agreed in the first of a series of important cases in the rights of mental patients, that harmless persons could not be detained involuntarily in mental hospitals, formally adopting previous decisions of federal district courts which have raised havoc in the commitment procedures in many states, including Michigan."

"In all of these cases, and others, the court extended the reach of government into the lives of people," according to Judge Burkholz, "the court acted over the actions of legislatures and executives and these decisions were issued despite the appointment of four justices by Nixon."

"If we acknowledge the present extended activist phase of the court we should next raise the question, can it be reversed?" she said.

She said the critics say it will be difficult to reverse the activist court for several reasons, among them the fact that the federal court has decided more than the case before it, gone beyond the wrong presented to sweeping reorganize a complex service of government allegedly to deal with a wrong at its roots.

She explained, "Instead of ordering adequate medical care for the prisoner before the court, the court consults so-called experts and comes up with a program for complete new medical services for a state prison system without regard to the ability of the state to pay for such services."

"As the critics say, in 1954 the court abandoned prudence and in a cycle of activism firmly insisted among many other things that segregation and degradation of blacks must end," she said. "It succeeded and eventually was joined by the Legislative and Executive branches of government."

"I personally believe this will long be recognized as a heroic period in the history of the court," Judge Burkholz said. "But even heroes can overreach themselves. Now is the time for the pendulum to swing. Perhaps all that is needed to turn the activist phase of the court to quietism is the appointment of but one more conservative justice to the Supreme Court."

She said, "Mr. Douglas' resignation would appear to make this possible, but to make the court more responsive to the will of the people in the future, perhaps we need a Constitutional amendment modifying the life tenure of the Federal Judiciary and require resignation at an achieved age of, let's say 70 years."

"In any event," Judge Burkholz concluded, "I submit that now and in the Bicentennial year the court must revert to acting with prudence in the finest tradition of the judiciary, and prudence must be the regular compulsion for its actions if, from this day forward, our free society, the great experiment in liberty of our forefathers, is to survive."

Annual Clothing Benefit To Be Held Nov. 23-30

The Thanksgiving Clothing Collection, sponsored annually by Catholic Relief Services, will be held in many churches of the Kalamazoo Diocese Nov. 23-30.

Individuals interested in contributing to the drive should contact their local parishes for further information.

In announcing the drive, this year's Diocesan director, the Rev. Eugene A. Sears, stressed the continuing need for light weight clothing. "Since the vast majority of the endemic poor who benefit from this clothing collection live in the warmer, tropical areas of the world we are asking that everyone donate as much light weight clothing as possible. Marriage Encounter

A Marriage Encounter designed to give married couples the opportunity to examine their lives together will be held Friday through Sunday, Nov. 28-30 at the Patricia Retreat House on the campus of the University of Notre Dame, Notre Dame, Ind.

The emphasis of the Marriage Encounter is on communication between husband and wife, who spend a weekend away together. Marriage Encounter is designed for any couple who desire to better their marriage. There is no age limit.

The encounter begins Friday evening and continues through Sunday. It is not a sensitivity group and the encounter is open to all faiths.

Those wishing further information may contact Mr. and Mrs. Frank Cergizan of Benton Harbor, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gaines, Stevensville, or Mr. and Mrs. Willis Worick, Sodus.

Other encounters are scheduled Jan. 16-18; Feb. 13-15; March 18-21; April 23-26 and June 4-6.

The POWER of FAITH

By WOODI ISHMAEL

THE BIBLE

No. 213. Bildad Replies to Job

Bildad the Shuhite, after hearing Job protest his innocence, replied: "How long will thou speak these things? and how long shall the words of thy mouth be like a strong wind? Dost God pervert judgment? Or dost the Almighty pervert justice? ... If thou wert pure and upright; surely now he would awake for thee, and make the habitation of thy righteousness prosperous." (Job 8:2-6)

Bildad next encouraged Job not to lose faith or to relinquish hope; otherwise, he maintained, all would be lost forever.

"Behold, God will not cast away a perfect man, neither will he help the evil doers; Till he fill thy mouth with laughing, and thy lips with rejoicing. They that hate thee shall be clothed with shame; and the dwelling place of the wicked shall come to nought." (Job 8:20-22)

'Your Problems' By Ann Landers

Housework Should Be Shared

Dear Ann Landers: You've often said that if a man and woman both work they should share the housework. I couldn't agree more.

Both my mother and father work and guess who does ALL the housework? Me!

I believe children should help around the house because they live there, too. But isn't it rotten to put it all on a daughter when there are two able-bodied boys in the family? My brothers don't lift a finger. You'd think they were royalty.

I dust-mop, vacuum, make beds, cook, do dishes, etc. This means I have to come straight home from school, do housework and start supper.

Please say something, Ann. — Fair Is Fair

Dear Fair: I HAVE said something, but I'll say it again. Housework and cooking don't care who does 'em — male or female. Your parents are being unfair, not only to you but to your brothers. They will be severely handicapped later in life if they don't know how to cook and do housework.

I suggest a total reassessment of the situation and a division of chores — three ways. I hope your parents will see this column and call a Tribal Meeting tonight.

Bad Idea

Dear Ann Landers: Harry and I are in our mid 60s. We both lost our mates a few years ago. We enjoy each other's company and want a life together.

Harry suggested that we live together without marriage. He says he can't afford the financial responsibilities of a wife. To be perfectly frank, the moral aspects of the arrangement wouldn't bother me, but I'm afraid to make this step because he could walk away whenever he felt like it and I'd feel used if he ever did it.

When I told Harry how I felt, he said he'd be perfectly willing to marry me but I'd have to agree to the old-fashioned marriage agreement where the wife hands over everything to her husband. What do you think about his proposition? — On The Fence

Dear Fence: Not much. For openers I've never heard of that "old-fashioned" marriage agreement. Harry is trying to sell you. Moreover, there are a few missing links in the chain. First: What do you have to "hand over"? Second: Would Harry be willing to hand over whatever HE has? When you get the answers to these questions let me know.

'Fold Out'

Dear Ann Landers: Five months ago we bought a home in this very lovely suburb. I was afraid my new neighbors might not be friendly, and it bothered me. Well, I'm writing about the reverse problem. They have become TOO friendly and I don't know how to separate myself from them.

There are eight homes in this compound and the women kaffeeklatsch every morning after their children go off to school. Many of the girls get together in the afternoon for cards, or sewing, or more kaffeeklatsching. Before dinner they often meet for a cocktail in one of the homes. (They all have help.)

Then there's the garden club, the literary club, the bridge club, etc. I am clubbed to death. How do I escape from this maze? — Can't Take It Anymore

Dr. Lester Coleman

It took more than 10 years of concentrated medical education to convince the American public that vaccination pays off in good health.

The Center for Disease Control for years has been concerned by the decrease of immunization that has been reported in school children all over the country.

"For the first time in 10 years the percentage of children aged one to four years immunized against the major diseases of childhood has taken an upward turn."

Even though the percentages are small the trend must be considered most encouraging.

In the light of the fact that the overall levels of population protection are still small the efforts to immunize more children cannot be relaxed.

This is the dictum of Dr. John J. Witte, Director of Immunization at the Center for Disease Control in Atlanta.

Public Health officials constantly stress the fact that failure to vaccinate and maintain immunization is a sad reflection on the health judgment of the public.

The complications that still result from measles and German measles are avoidable. The need for the maintenance of immunization is particularly important in relation to pregnancy and congenital disorders.

It is almost impossible for most people to recall the ghastliness of the epidemics of polio that occurred in the 1950s.

Physicians who were involved actively in these epidemics remember with horror the thousands of children who died or were left crippled following the yearly epidemic of polio.

Even German measles, or rubella, during the epidemics of the 1960s was responsible for 20 to 30 thousand severely disabled children.

Whooping cough, diphtheria and tetanus have long been considered wiped-out diseases. The wonders of the vaccines against these diseases too often are taken for granted.

Children and adults must continue to have their immunization maintained. Physicians know the exact guidelines for the maintenance of this immunity in order to prevent the heartache that can come with neglect.

DR. LESTER COLEMAN has prepared a special booklet entitled "What to Do About Ulcers." For your copy, send 25 cents in coin and a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Lester L. Coleman, M.D., (Ulcer Booklet), P.O. Box 5178, Grand Central Station, New York City 10017. Please mention the booklet by title.

Your Birthday

Nov. 16, 1975

Partners will play very important roles in your affairs this coming year. However, new alliances should not be established at the expense of long standing relationships.

Keep Suits Bright

Tank suits hit the beach in splashes of color and design for the toddler and preteen set. Comfortable and easy-washing swim suits with action-elasticity, are treated to detail decorations, diagonal stripes and flowers, stylized boats, animal patterns and simple solids with contrasting stitching. Red and royal blue are leading colors.

Whatever the choice, keep suits looking bright and new by treating to a quick basin sunbathing or machine washing after each wearing.

Your Birthday

- FOR SUNDAY NOV. 16, 1975

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You'd better give some serious thought now as to how you intend to clear up obligations you owe to two different parties.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Don't make important decisions late in the day. You'll not be thinking as clearly as you should. Best you sleep on it.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Problems today will be of your own making. If you keep this in mind, trouble can be avoided.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Avoid attending a function this evening where you could run into someone you've had cross words with. The matter is not yet resolved.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You're extremely vulnerable today where your pride is concerned. Don't take yourself too seriously. Don't expect applause if none is due you.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Today you're apt to search more diligently for faults in others than for their good points. Try not to criticize unless it's constructive.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) You'll come out on the short end if you get involved in a financial situation with a friend today.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) The early part of the day will be pleasant, but toward evening neither you nor your mate will be as tolerant of one another as you should be.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Slow down a bit or you're likely to push your mental and physical energies beyond their limits today.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) If you're too insistent upon having your own way today you're going to spoil the fun for everyone. Relax. Let your hair down.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Don't begin a do-it-yourself project around the house late in the day. You'll upset things more than you'll improve them.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) If you go out this evening and make a late night of it, don't try to catch up for lost time by driving home in a hurry.
- FOR MONDAY NOV. 17, 1975

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Don't postpone taking care of urgent financial matters today. Problems will occur later if you let things drift.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Spend more time today taking care of situations directly affecting your self-interest. Don't worry about the affairs of others.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Normally you're at your best being where the action is, but today you should avoid gatherings. They'll just bore you.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Progress will be made today regarding something you've been hoping for as a result of the practical matter in which you'll handle the issue.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Important goals can be achieved today. You'll have all the requisites for success at your disposal. Use them.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) If you let past experience guide you today you'll not go wrong. Use the same techniques that worked to your advantage before.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Today someone will offer to do something special for you or give you something. Don't hesitate to accept.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Be co-operative and you'll find others will go a few steps farther in doing nice things for you.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) It's a good day to tackle tasks that require patience and perseverance. Ask around — you might even find a willing helper.

Your Birthday

Nov. 16, 1975

Partners will play very important roles in your affairs this coming year. However, new alliances should not be established at the expense of long standing relationships.

Your Birthday

Nov. 17, 1975

This coming year you will make a major alteration in your lifestyle that you've been thinking about and hoping to do for some time. The change will be beneficial.

Keep Suits Bright

Tank suits hit the beach in splashes of color and design for the jodder and preteen set.

Comfortable and easy-washing swim suits with action-elasticity, are treated to decal decorations, diagonal stripes and flowers, stylized boats, animal patterns and simple solids with contrasting stitching. Red and royal blue are leading colors.

Whatever the choice, keep suits looking bright and new by treating to a quick basin sudsing, or machine washing after each wearing.

Have Natural Wax

If you have observed an orchard during rain you've noticed that water does not cling to apples on trees.

They produce a natural wax that helps in reducing moisture loss and helps to protect the fruit from insect and disease injury.

However a percentage of apples marketed are given an additional thin coat of wax which is harmless and edible. When used it is added only to improve the attractiveness of the apples.

cover all notrump hands and suit responses of two spades or three in any other suit to guarantee at least a five-card suit and at least two of the four top honors.

Today's hand is a trap in any system. South has game in his own hand, North has a sound opening bid of his own but there is no slam. Here's how it is bid in the methods we have shown. The two-club opening is artificial and forcing. The two-spade response and three-diamond rebid are normal as is North's three-spade call.

South's jump to five clubs says I can make game, but I am afraid of the heart suit. North is also and merely bids five diamonds.

Ask the Jacobys

In a recent answer we recommended replying two diamonds to partner's Stayman response holding: ♠7543 ♥AQ5 ♦AQ8 ♣AJ9, and not showing our four spades. An Indiana reader agrees with our bid, but not with our facetious remark, "If it goes wrong we explain we had a spade mixed in our clubs."

This last is a standard bridge writer joke. Everyone finds occasion to violate convention in bidding. If it doesn't work you can also say truthfully, "I made a mistake." The main point is not to fight with your partner. You may have to play with him again.

You can have a lot of fun with the weak two bids in all suits except clubs and the artificial two-club opening to cover all forcing two bids plus 23-24 and 27-28 point notrumps.

You open two notrump with 21-22 and three notrump with 25-26 point notrumps.

You need two artificial responses and can use more if you wish. Two diamonds should be reserved for very bad hands and should only be forcing to one trick below game. Two hearts should be a catch-all to say responder had enough for game, but no definite bid he wants to make. Other responses should be specific and reasonably normal.

We recommended earlier this week to use two notrump to SAULT STE. MARIE, Mich. (AP) — The U.S. Coast Guard buoy tender Woodrush is on its way to survey an area in Lake Superior 1.8 miles from the last reported position of the now-sunken ore-carrier Edmund Fitzgerald.

The area to be surveyed by the Woodrush is 13 miles west of Copper Mine point on the Canadian side of Lake Superior, a Coast Guard spokesman said Friday night.

The Woodrush got underway Friday night about 25 hours after a U.S. Navy P-3 anti-submarine aircraft detected what crew members aboard the plane said might be the wreckage of the sunken freighter.

The Coast Guard Research and Development Center has sent a side-scan sonar and a high resolution fathometer to help determine whether the wreckage is that of the Fitzgerald.

The Woodrush will start taking measurements sometime Saturday.

The Fitzgerald sank in a storm Monday and there were no survivors among its 28-man crew.

In Groton, Conn., at the Coast Guard's research and development center, Lt. Cmdr. James A. McIntosh said the special gear would "quite probably be able to see the length and beam, and note some kind of structure on each end" if the ship is in one piece, right-side up.

"If it is upside down, we think we could make out the propeller and the rudder," he said.

A Coast Guard inquiry scheduled to start Monday has been postponed until Tuesday.

Memorial services for the crew of the Fitzgerald will be at 2 p.m. Monday in Toledo, the Fitzgerald's home port.

Welch Foods Has Record Sales Of $161 Million In '75

Welch Foods, Inc., had record high sales in 1975 and paid record returns to growers who belong to National Grape Cooperative Association, Inc.

Gross sales of Welch's products were $161 million this year, a $28 million increase over last year's sales, said Harold W. Buchholz, president of National, and Craig Campbell, president of Welch National Grape, a growers' co-op owns Welch Foods.

Sales figures are for products made from the 1973 and 1974 Concord grape crops and sold this year, the two men stated in a joint news release.

Of Welch's total national Concord acreage of 32,000, 8,000 acres are in Michigan and most of that acreage in Berrien and Van Buren counties.

The 1974 Concord crop, most of which was sold in 1975, earned Welch growers from $195 to $241 a ton, depending on sugar content (brix) of their grapes, for an average of $217 a ton. Some additional returns will be paid for 1974 grapes from 1976 sales of products from the 1974 crop.

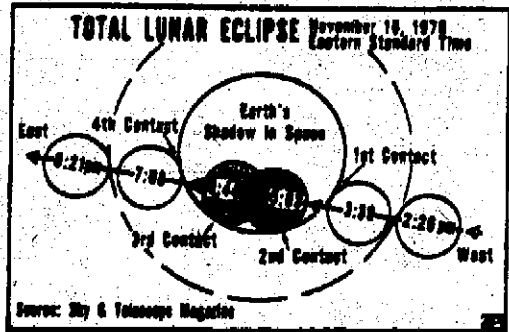

The sale of juice and other products made from 1973 crop grapes was completed this year and earned growers in Michigan and other Eastern states from $177 to $220 a ton for grapes that measured from 15 to 18 brix. The average was $206 at 17 brix.

Other commercial grape growers in Michigan were paid about $160 a ton in 1974, compared to Welch's $217. In 1973 a short-crop brought non-Welch growers about $200 a ton, compared to Welch's $206.

Record sales this year were a reflection of increased product prices caused by rising sugar prices and other costs. However, the higher sales figure also is the result of the introduction of new products, such as grape pop and donuts, and more exportation to foreign markets, the news release stated.

FORD FOES GOP Hopefuls Wait In Wings

WASHINGTON (AP) — By the reckoning of some Republican leaders and campaign strategists, President Ford and Ronald Reagan may well have other candidates to contend with in their contest for the GOP presidential nomination next year.

Vice President Nelson A. Rockefeller said it is "pure fantasy" for anyone to speculate that he might wind up challenging Ford in 1976.

But Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona, an old Rockefeller rival, speculated on exactly that. He also said that John B. Connally, former Democrat, former secretary of the Treasury and former governor of Texas, may be a candidate.

Sen. Charles McC. Mathias of Maryland already has said that he might enter some primaries next year to carry the banner of moderate to liberal Republicanism.

Goldwater on Friday invited the liberals to field a presidential candidate, saying that if they do, "we will take care of that candidate at the Republican convention next summer."

Some Senate Republicans have talked of the possible candidacy of Sen. Howard H. Baker Jr. of Tennessee, who says he won't be a candidate in opposition to President Ford.

Reagan is announcing his candidacy Thursday in Washington, and beginning his active campaign with appearances in Miami and Manchester, N.H., the same day.

Goldwater, an influential figure among Republican conservatives, said that "right now, I'm supporting President Ford."

Goldwater told the National Press Club that he wouldn't be surprised if Reagan beat Ford in New Hampshire.

"I would think that Ronald Reagan would carry quite a few states," he said. But Goldwater said he doubts Reagan can capture the nine biggest states "that can nominate a man and then elect him."

He said that right now, Ford is the favorite, and the GOP's most electable man.

"... At the present moment, I would say that he's the strongest we have," Goldwater said. "Now ask me that next Friday and I don't know what I might say."

Lid Blown House Blaze Claims Lives Of 3 Children

SANFORD, Mich. (AP) — A sophisticated, large-scale hashish laboratory was revealed here Friday by an explosion and fire at a home, Midland County detectives said.

Detectives said the blast was triggered when a gas-powered heater switched on in the basement, igniting acetone, a compound used to refine hashish from marijuana.

Dennis Metcalf of Sanford, owner of the home, and Doug Eastman of Merrill, were listed in serious condition at St. Mary's Hospital in Saginaw.

Donald L. McMahon of Merrill, who was upstairs at the time of the blast, stood mute at his arraignment Friday in Midland District Court on a charge of manufacturing drugs.

Some 250 pounds of crushed marijuana stored in three- and five-gallon cans and nearly one pound of pure hashish were confiscated, deputies said.

Police said about 80 marijuana plants were found near the home.

Firemen are trying to establish the cause of a fast-moving fire which took the lives of three small children Friday. Their mother and another child made it to safety.

Killed were Barbara Vennery, 2, and her sisters, Judy, also 2, and Christine, four months.

Their mother, Mary J. Vennery, 23, was listed in fair condition at Saginaw St. Mary's Hospital. The fourth child escaped with minor injuries.

Firemen said the blaze apparently started in the kitchen of the family's small home at mid-morning. The baby was found in her crib while two other children were found just inside the front door.

Goldwater on Friday invited the liberals to field a presidential candidate, saying that if they do, "we will take care of that candidate at the Republican convention next summer."

Some Senate Republicans have talked of the possible candidacy of Sen. Howard H. Baker Jr. of Tennessee, who says he won't be a candidate in opposition to President Ford.

Reagan is announcing his candidacy Thursday in Washington, and beginning his active campaign with appearances in Miami and Manchester, N.H., the same

Kissinger Citation May Force Historic Showdown

WASHINGTON (AP) — House intelligence committee contempt action against Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger may finally force a historic confrontation over Congress' right to get secret information.

After months of skirmishing, the panel moved dramatically to force the issue Friday, approving three contempt citations against Kissinger. They carry a maximum penalty of three years in jail and a $5,000 fine.

At the same time, President Ford invoked executive privilege for the first time to withhold subpoenaed documents involved in one citation.

Ford called the committee action against Kissinger "shocking" and told newsmen he finally invoked executive privilege after trying for five months to work out differences with the committee.

It was the week's second contempt action against a Cabinet member. A House Interstate and Foreign Commerce panel cited Secretary of Commerce Rogers C.B. Morton Tuesday for

REP. OTIS PIKE Weary of delaying

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford signed a 30-day extension of federal oil price controls just before he took off for today's Paris economic summit. He said the extension would give the administration time to study the long-range congressional energy plan drawn this week.

Oil price controls were to expire at midnight tonight, but Congress and Ford moved quickly Friday to approve the extension.

Ford signed the extension bill at nearby Andrews Air Force Base after changing planes for his flight to Paris. He had flown from Atlanta after a day of appearances there and in North Carolina.

Ford says he is reserving judgment on the energy bill drawn by House-Senate conferees "until the conferees put the agreement in writing." A draft is expected to be completed in about a week after resolution of some disagreements over what was agreed to orally.

Oil price controls expired Oct. 1, but because no energy plan was completed, a 45-day extension was signed into law.

The controls set the price of 60 per cent of U.S.-produced oil at just over one-third the market price of uncontrolled oil. If agreed to, the compromise would replace controls which now expire Nov. 15.

The compromise, which Republican conferees declined to endorse, is expected to produce a brief price reduction, then a gradual rise until all controls are dropped in March 1979, Federal Energy Administrator Frank Zarb urged Ford to accept that, but Ford delayed a decision.

"I would hope we could have an energy bill that I could sign, but it would be very unwise for me to make a decision without having looked at and read and analyzed the specifics once the committee puts it in writing," Ford said.

Ford could threaten a veto to pressure Congress to keep oil prices high enough to reduce consumption. The industry says this step would provide incentives for oil companies to seek new fuel resources, thus reducing U.S. dependence on other nations for energy. Some Republican legislators were said to have told Ford at a White House meeting Thursday night that such a veto could be sustained.

Congressional Democrats have argued that higher prices would not assure more production but would increase unemployment and inflation.

In other developments, a congressional study forecast that this winter's natural gas shortage will not be severe, because temperatures will not be more than 5 per cent colder than normal. The Federal Power Commission had warned of severe shortages this winter.

However, the Congressional Technology Office report said the winter of 1976-77 may bring natural gas shortages large enough to cause economic disruptions and residential discomfort, especially if increased industrial productivity boosts commercial demand as expected.

CHER'S MARRIAGE ENDING?: Rock star Gregg Allman Friday asked a Macon, Ga., court to end his four-month marriage to Cher. His petition said the marriage is "irretrievably broken." refusing to produce names of U.S. firms asked by the Arabs to join in a boycott against Israel. The intelligence panel accused Kissinger of contempt for refusing to turn over documents on covert U.S. intelligence operations and on intelligence estimates on Soviet compliance with arms agreements.

Chairman Otis G. Pike, D-N.Y., said he will take the contempt action to the full House next month, where approval would turn it over to a U.S. attorney for prosecution.

"I for one am weary of this whole business of waiting and delaying, waiting and delaying on the information the committee is entitled to and needs to conduct its business," Pike said.

Kissinger angrily denounced the contempt vote and said Ford invoked executive privilege because of the "sensitivity and character" of some of the subpoenaed documents.

"The President directed me not to turn over those documents," he declared.

The panel was told Ford invoked executive privilege to withhold from the committee 10 State Department requests for covert intelligence operations abroad since Jan. 20, 1961, because previous presidents personally approved them.

The committee also was told Ford's executive privilege could be overturned only by the courts.

FDA Calls Committee On Cancer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Food and Drug Administration will convene a committee of outside experts next month to discuss four new studies that suggest heavy use of female sex hormones may contribute to a higher uterine cancer rate in older women.

An estimated 25 million prescriptions for the hormone estrogen were filled last year, primarily to ease women through the discomfort of menopause.

Dr. Donald Austin, who heads the California Tumor Registry, reported last month that the uterine cancer rate in his state has increased by about 35 per cent over the last seven years.

Noting the rise in female hormone use, Austin said his data "supports the hypothesis that estrogen given to postmenopausal women might be the cause."

Blast Evidence Tampering Eyed

MOUNT CLEMENS, Mich. (AP) — Possible evidence in a tunnel explosion that killed one workman and injured five others may have been tampered with, a state representative said Friday.

Rep. David Bonior, D-Mount Clemens, said he saw workmen remove a drill bit about four hours after the Thursday blast.

Bonior said he doesn't know how significant the action was, but said when he told a state Labor Department official, "He was pretty upset."

Killed in the blast was Ulysses Hayes, 41, of Detroit, who was working at the face of the tunnel where the blast is believed to have originated. Four of the injured men remain in hospitals.

Bonior is chairman of a special House committee investigating a 1971 tunnel blast in Port Huron that killed 22 workmen.

One of the contractors on that job, Greenfield Construction Co. of Livonia, is the general contractor on the Mount Clemens sewer tunnel.

Greenfield and three other firms were fined $16,000 for violating federal safety standards on the Port Huron job.

State Labor Department officials reported that Greenfield has been cited for 104 safety violations since Jan. 1, 1973.

"The fact is they (two unidentified workmen who drove up in a truck) probably should not have tampered with that drill bit," said Bonior. "It's possible evidence."

However, labor department spokesman Jack Burdock downplayed the removal of the bit. He added that the agency was somewhat concerned about the incident.

Several labor department investigators say the drill bit did not penetrate the tunnel and doubted whether a spark from it ignited methane gas which they have determined was in the tunnel.

Cassopolis Conviction Is Upheld

LANSING — The state court of appeals upheld the conviction of a Cassopolis woman who was found guilty last year of a charge of arson in connection with a fire at her Cassopolis apartment on Dec. 2, 1973.

The court held that there were no errors serious enough to warrant a new trial for Mrs. Mary C. Hart, 30, Cassopolis.

A Cass county circuit court jury found Mrs. Hart guilty of the arson charge in June, 1974, and she was sentenced to serve 7 to 20 years in the Detroit House of Correction by Judge James E. Hoff.

Mrs. Hart was also implicated in a Nov. 6, 1973, fire which caused an estimated $300,000 damage to 10 businesses in downtown Cassopolis but that charge was dismissed after her conviction for the apartment fire.

Mrs. Hart is presently serving her sentence in Detroit.

Defense Says Ford Tape Helped

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — President Ford's testimony in the trial of Lynette Fromme was very favorable to her defense against charges of attempting to kill the President, her attorney says.

Ford said in his historic videotaped testimony presented in court Friday that he did not see or hear anything much except a gun coming out of the crowd at him.

The 27-year-old Miss Fromme, a disciple of convicted mass murderer Charles Manson, is accused of attempting to kill Ford during a visit here

Sept. 5. Secret Service agents say they took a loaded .45 caliber pistol away from her after she pointed it at Ford at close range.

The government rested its case against her Friday before the defense case opened with Ford's videotaped testimony, recorded in Washington on Nov. 1.

Ford's 20-minute deposition, the first oral testimony at a criminal trial by a U.S. president in office, was shown in color on 25-inch television monitors.

About 40 spectators and an equal number of reporters packed the courtroom galleries for the showing of the tape. No cameras or tape recorders were allowed in the courtroom.

There was no cross-examination by U.S. Atty. Dwayne Key.

Ford's answers to questions from defense attorney John

Virga contained little detailed description of events that occurred when the pistol was pointed at him.

"Speaking slowly, but with little hesitation, Ford said he saw a woman in a bright dress pushing toward him through the crowd. He said he did not notice her face."

"I stopped. I saw a hand come through the crowd in the first row, and that was the only ab-diver gesture that I saw, but in the hand there was a weapon."

"Did you ever hear the gun click?" Virga asked.

"I have no recollection of it clicking or not clicking," Ford said.

"Did you hear any noise from the gun at any time?" Virga asked.

"Not that I can recall," Ford replied.

Virga said he was heartened that Ford did not recall hearing a click when the gun was pointed at him. Several prosecution witnesses have said they heard a sound like the click of the gun's hammer, as if the trigger had been pulled.

"I felt that his testimony was very favorable," Virga said. "He didn't hear a click, and he didn't hear her say anything."

Virga had said Ford's testimony may be crucial in deter-

Big Winner To Buy Camper

SOUTHFIELD, Mich. (AP) — Doris Beard, 52, a housewife from Portland, won the $200,000 top prize Friday in the weekly "Super Play" state lottery drawing. Mrs. Beard said she would use the money to buy a camper. She added she was pleased the drawing was held on Friday this week instead of Thursday as usual, since Thursday is her bowling night. The drawing was held a day late this week because of Veterans Day.

Anna Cresswell, 60, a retired nurse from Sterling Heights, won the $25,000 second prize. The $15,000 prize went to William Offerman, 46, a heavy equipment operator from Dearborn. The $12,500 prize went to George Herbst, 53, of Livonia, while Dale Oyler, 43, a pharmacist from Kalamazoo won the $10,000 prize.

OLDTIME SWITCHBOARD: Operators Nancy Behnfeldt, foreground, and Dorothy Burditt plug in the calls on oldtime switchboard in McClure, Ohio. The switchboard is the system's trunking cable, fortified with rows of fuses, which links phone company office and its 570 subscribers. Modern touch-tone telephones will replace ancient wall crank models Sunday in McClure, marking the end of personal service residents are reluctant to part with. (AP Wirephoto)

Blast Evidence Tampering Eyed

MOUNT CLEMENS, Mich. (AP) — Possible evidence in a tunnel explosion that killed one workman and injured five others may have been tampered with, a state representative said Friday.

Rep. David Bonior, D-Mount Clemens, said he saw workmen remove a drill bit about four hours after the Thursday blast. Bonior said he doesn't know how significant the action was, but said when he told a state Labor Department official, "He was pretty upset."

Killed in the blast was Ulysses Hayes, 41, of Detroit, who was working at the face of the tunnel where the blast is believed to have originated. Four of the injured men remain in hospitals. Bonior is chairman of a special House committee investigating a 1971 tunnel blast in Port Huron that killed 22 workmen.

One of the contractors on that job, Greenfield Construction Co. of Livonia, is the general contractor on the Mount Clemens sewer tunnel.

Greenfield and three other firms were fined $16,000 for violating federal safety standards on the Port Huron job.

State Labor Department officials reported that Greenfield has been cited for 104 safety violations since Jan. 1, 1973.

"The fact is they (two unidentified workmen who drove up in a truck) probably should not have tampered with that drill bit," said Bonior. "It's possible evidence."

However, labor department spokesman Jack Burdock downplayed the removal of the bit. He added that the agency was somewhat concerned about the incident.

Several labor department investigators say the drill bit did not penetrate the tunnel and doubted whether a spark from it ignited methane gas which they have determined was in the tunnel.

Cassopolis Conviction Is Upheld

LANSING — The state court of appeals upheld the conviction of a Cassopolis woman who was found guilty last year of a charge of arson in connection with a fire at her Cassopolis apartment on Dec. 2, 1973.

The court held that there were no errors serious enough to warrant a new trial for Mrs. Mary C. Hart, 30, Cassopolis.

A Cass county circuit court jury found Mrs. Hart guilty of the arson charge in June, 1974, and she was sentenced to serve 7 to 20 years in the Detroit House of Correction by Judge James E. Hoff.

Mrs. Hart was also implicated in a Nov. 6, 1973, fire which caused an estimated $300,000 damage to 10 businesses in downtown Cassopolis but that charge was dismissed after her conviction for the apartment fire.

Mrs. Hart is presently serving her sentence in Detroit.

Defense Says Ford Tape Helped

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — President Ford's testimony in the trial of Lynette Fromme was very favorable to her defense against charges of attempting to kill the President, her attorney says.

Ford said in his historic videotaped testimony presented in court Friday that he did not see or hear anything much except a gun coming out of the crowd at him.

The 27-year-old Miss Fromme, a disciple of convicted mass murderer Charles Manson, is accused of attempting to kill Ford during a visit here

Sept. 5. Secret Service agents say they took a loaded .45 caliber pistol away from her after she pointed it at Ford at close range.

The government rested its case against her Friday before the defense case opened with Ford's videotaped testimony, recorded in Washington on Nov. 1.

Ford's 20-minute deposition, the first oral testimony at a criminal trial by a U.S. president in office, was shown in color on 25-inch television monitors.

About 40 spectators and an equal number of reporters packed the courtroom galleries for the showing of the tape. No cameras or tape recorders were allowed in the courtroom.

There was no cross-examination by U.S. Atty. Dwayne Keyes.

Ford's answers to questions from defense attorney John

Virga contained little detailed description of events that occurred when the pistol was pointed at him.

"Speaking slowly, but with little hesitation, Ford said he saw a woman in a bright dress pushing toward him through the crowd. He said he did not notice her face.

"I stopped. I saw a hand come through the crowd in the first row, and that was the only active gesture that I saw, but in the hand there was a weapon."

"Did you ever hear the gun click?" Virga asked.

"I have no recollection of it clicking or not clicking," Ford said.

"Did you hear any noise from the gun at any time?" Virga asked.

"Not that I can recall," Ford replied.

Virga said he was heartened that Ford did not recall hearing a click when the gun was pointed at him. Several prosecution witnesses have said they heard a sound like the click of the gun's hammer, as if the trigger had been pulled.

"I felt that his testimony was very favorable," Virga said. "He didn't hear a click, and he didn't hear her say anything."

Virga had said Ford's testimony may be crucial in deter-

Big Winner To Buy Camper

SOUTHFIELD, Mich. (AP) — Doris Beard, 52, a housewife from Portland, won the $200,000 top prize Friday in the weekly "Super Play" state lottery drawing. Mrs. Beard said she would use the money to buy a camper. She added she was pleased the drawing was held on Friday this week instead of Thursday as usual, since Thursday is her bowling night. The drawing was held a day late this week because of Veterans Day.

Anna Cresswell, 60, a retired nurse from Sterling Heights, won the $25,000 second prize. The $15,000 prize went to William Offerman, 46, a heavy equipment operator from Dearborn. The $12,500 prize went to George Herbst, 53, of Livonia, while Dale Hyder, 43, a pharmacist from Kalamazoo won the $10,000 prize.

Three Oaks Man Facing Trial In Traffic Deaths

Mitchell B. Walinski, 27, of 412 South Elm, Three Oaks, waived examination and was bound over to Circuit court yesterday on two counts of negligent homicide stemming from a two car crash Aug. 15 in Oronoko township.

Three other people were bound over to Circuit court following appearances in Berrien Fifth District court. Also seven people demanded examinations, 14 were sentenced and a charge against another was dismissed.

Bound over to Circuit court were:

Walinski, alleged driver of a car that hit another car, resulting in the deaths of Karen Hausmann, 18, of Three Oaks, and Rafael H. Mendoza, 40, Baroda. He remains free on $2,500 personal recognizance bond.

Bernard "Mickie" Braxton, 19, of 133 Kline, Benton Harbor, charged with armed robbery of $40 from Edward Merrill Sept. 19 in Benton Harbor. He is jailed under $20,000 bond.

Speedy Herring, 40, of Three Rivers, charged with carrying a concealed pistol Nov. 5 in Berrien township. He was released on $500, and he waived examination.

Sidney E. Colby, 22, of Holland, charged with carrying a concealed pistol in Oronoko township Oct. 26. He posted $3,000 bond. He waived examination.

Demanding examinations were:

Wanda Sue Lively, 17, of 1444 East Napier, Benton township.

New York Ardor For Ford Cools

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The New York State Republican organization's repudiation of its earlier endorsement of President Ford for the GOP nomination next year has observers speculating about what it means for Vice President Nelson A. Rockefeller.

State Republican Chairman Richard Rosenbaum, who was picked for his job by Rockefeller and is a close political associate of the vice president, said this week that he wants to lead an "uncommitted" delegation to the Republican convention in Kansas City next year.

The development has fanned speculation of a possible try for the presidency by Rockefeller himself. It makes clear, some say, that Rockefeller has broken openly with the President and will seek the earliest opportunity to challenge his leadership.

Ford Doesn't Impress Blacks

DURHAM, N.C. (AP) — Black student leaders who met with President Ford say they were disappointed that "about the only thing he committed himself to was supporting the football team."

Ford, after a speech at predominantly black North Carolina Central University, met for 20 minutes Friday with a group of 12 student leaders.

The students said later they appreciated the opportunity to meet the President but were unimpressed with his commitment to the needs of black people and black colleges.

"They said Ford told them he thought Sen. Edward Brooke, R-Mass., a black, ought to be considered for the vice presidential nomination."

"But he didn't say he would consider him," said Clarissa Davis, president of the sorority association.

It was Ford's first presidential meeting with a group composed entirely of black students.

"His hands were shaking until he folded them on his lap. He kept crossing and recrossing his legs," said Miss Davis.

The students said Ford was diplomatic but evasive.

"About the only thing he committed himself to was supporting the football team," said Ronald Phillips, a student government association officer.

"I asked him whether, since the big problem of black institutions is money for adequate facilities, he would do something about it. He mentioned some vague things but he offered no specific government programs," said Terry Richardson, editor of the campus literary magazine.

Phillips said he asked Ford whether loans and grants to minority students would be affected by his desire to cut the federal budget.

"He gave no specific answer," Phillips said. "He said plans were being made to combine the funding agencies, but he didn't say anything about an increase. He did say there wouldn't be a decrease. He seemed more or less satisfied with the status quo."

Cats Feasted On Early Man

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Early man was once a prime source of food for predatory cats, says a South African scientist. Evidence has been found in South Africa that cats such as the leopard and the saber-toothed tiger dragged off early hominids for food, said Dr. C. K. Brain.

Whalen Wants Term Reduced

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — John Whalen wants his sentence on a 1969 burglary charge reduced because he helped federal officials prosecute the bribe conspiracy case against former state Supreme Court Justice John Swainson.

Whalen's attorney Deday LaRene said Friday he has asked the state Court of Appeals to return the Whalen case to the lower court where Whalen received the maximum sentence on burglary and larceny convictions.

In May 1974, Lenawee County Circuit Court Judge Rex Martin sentenced Whalen, who had served time before, to a prison term of from six years and eight months up to 10 years.

"The picture Judge Martin had of what kind of man Whalen was when he sentenced him was fundamentally inaccurate and a denial of due process," LaRene said.

"I can amplify the record to place on it the facts of Whalen's cooperation with authorities in a case of major significance to the people of Michigan."

LaRene said Whalen's involvement in a federal investigation of Swainson was not known

Cool It, Jackie Tells Caroline

LONDON (AP) — Jacqueline Kennedy Onassis has told her daughter, Caroline, to cool it. Or at least that's what a London gossip columnist says.

Paul Callan of the Daily Mirror wrote Thursday that Caroline's grandmother, Rose Kennedy, is pressing Mrs. Onassis to bring the 17-year-old girl home following stories and pictures of Caroline at late night parties.

to the circuit court judge at the 1974 sentencing.

Swainson, 50, resigned as a justice of the Michigan Supreme Court on Nov. 7 after his conviction five days earlier on three perjury counts. He was accused of lying to a federal grand jury about two telephone conversations he had with bail bondsman Harvey Wish and a television set received from Wish in 1972. Swainson has asked for a retrial.

Swainson was acquitted of federal charges that he conspired to accept a bribe from Whalen to help get a Supreme Court review of Whalen's initial burglary conviction.

Whalen was convicted of the burglary of an Adrian jewelry store in 1970. His conviction was upheld by the state Court of Appeals in 1972, but reversed by the Supreme Court in December 1973. His 1974 reconviction is back to the Court of Appeals.

Attorneys on both sides say the appeals court's decision will surely be sent eventually to the Supreme Court for review.

Oral arguments on Whalen's reconviction appeal were made Friday before the appeals court. Whalen's attorney maintained no witnesses have ever placed Whalen at the scene of the burglary.

LaRene also maintained the lower court judge wrongly admitted evidence and gave the jury instructions of the sort later barred by the state Supreme Court.

Though the appeals court sometimes rules within days on such motions, court sources said it will be a difficult political decision for the judges.

If they allow the case to be returned to the circuit court for resentencing, the heat will be temporarily off them. But it also may appear they are condoning a "gift" to a man influential in the political ruin of Swainson, technically their superior, the sources said.

Loans Costing U.S. $1 Billion

WASHINGTON (AP) — The federal government lost perhaps $1 billion on a program that has guaranteed $8 billion worth of loans to students, congressional investigators say. "This program has been completely mismanaged by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare," said Howard J. Feldman, a staff member of the Senate Investigations subcommittee.

NY Fiscal Crisis Moving Closer To A Solution

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The massive New York fiscal crisis seemed closer to a possible solution today, with the City of Yonkers and a state housing agency saved from default and Washington officials hinting they might decide this weekend whether to help New York City.

In an emergency session that lasted into the early morning hours today, the New York Legislature appropriated a total of $106 million to save Yonkers and the state's Housing Finance Agency from default on their debts.

And it voted a debt "moratorium" that is a key part of the compromise plan Gov. Hugh Carey has proposed to Washington to avert default by New York City. The governor promptly signed the bills into law.

The legislators then adjourned for the weekend, with plans to return Monday to take up huge increases in state and city taxes and other proposals to deal with the interrelated fiscal problems of the city and state.

President Ford said in Atlanta Friday that he was "encouraged" by the state proposals, but that "until they have acted" to implement them "there's absolutely no change

Troopers To Address LMC Class

Two Michigan State Police officers will address Lake Michigan College law enforcement classes at 9 a.m., Tuesday, Nov. 18, on the LMC Napier Avenue campus.

Capt. Gene A. Rooker, commanding officer of the Training Division of the Michigan State Police, and Sgt. Barry Beck, a State Police Academy instructor, will speak on the subject of law enforcement training in Michigan to the combined introduction to Criminal Justice and Police Operation classes in Rm. B-207.

Area law enforcement officers who wish to attend are encouraged to do so, according to Berrien County Sheriff Deputy Lt. Michael Devine, LMC law enforcement training coordinator.

Captain Rooker has been commanding officer of state police posts at Alpena and Rockford. In 1972 he was appointed to command the Training Division. Sergeant Beck, who has been stationed at Ypsilanti, Battle Creek and Lansing, has been an instructor at the State Police Academy for two years.

Hoosier Held On Drug Count

UNION PIER — State police from the New Buffalo post said troopers arrested a Michigan City, Ind., man inside a Union Pier tavern early this morning on a charge of sale of mescaline.

Troopers said Paul Dominoski, 19, of Michigan City, was arrested inside the Wayside tavern, Red Arrow, Union Pier, about 1:30 a.m. today. Police said 13 packets of suspected mescaline worth an estimated $65 were confiscated.

Two Valparaiso, Ind., men came to the New Buffalo post to report that a man was allegedly attempting to sell the drug in the tavern shortly before the arrest was made, police said.

BICENTENNIAL New Car Plates Ready Monday

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Monday is the first day motorists can pick up 1976 Michigan license plates, Secretary of State Richard Austin said Thursday.

The red, white and blue Bicentennial plates will be available at every secretary of state's field office, Austin said.

Plates also are available by mail.

Four stars on the plates represent the four national flags — French, British, Spanish and American — that have flown over Michigan. Two wavy lines along the bottom represent the stripes on the flag and the state's highways and waterways.

Meanwhile, the state Senate voted to spend $1,250 to set up a special committee to study reflectorized license plates.

Critics claim impetus for the study came from heavy lobbying on the part of a company which produces reflecting material.

The vote to establish the study was 12-9. The resolution went to the House, which must approve it before the study can begin.

The resolution was approved earlier by the Senate Business Committee, which cut the money for the study in half.

"I have no idea whether it's a good idea or a bad idea," said Sen. Jerome Hart, D-Saginaw, sponsor of the resolution.

Other Democrats argued the committee could bring to an end the debate over whether Michigan should switch to reflectorized plates as a safety measure. Currently, only the raised white letters are reflectorized.

"We want to bring some quietude to the whole debate and decide once and for all if reflectorized plates will be a benefit," said Senate Majority Leader William Fitzgerald, D-Detroit.

Republicans contend that other studies have discounted the value of reflectorized plates.

"It's a waste of taxpayer's money to study something we have studied three times already," said Sen. Charles Zoller, R-Benton Harbor.

Others said massive lobbying by the 3M (Minnesota Mining and Manufacturing) Co. was responsible for the renewed interest in such plates.

The 3M Co. earlier this year supported legislation which would have required the reflectorized plates. It was aided by one of the largest and most powerful lobbying agencies in Lansing.

The state estimated the cost of making license plates would go from $10.5 million to $22 million, although the plates would be used longer than they are now.

GALIEN RIVER Chikaming Okays Sewer Contract

LAKESIDE — The Chikaming township board last night voted final approval for the Galien river sanitary sewer district contract.

Township Supervisor Donald Peterson said the contract links the township with both the city and township of New Buffalo in a $20,197,950 project to provide sanitary sewage treatment for all three municipalities.

Chikaming township's share of the project comes to $5,595,000 which is to be raised by the sale of bonds.

State and federal grants will provide $11,707,950, the township of New Buffalo must provide $1,500,000, and the city must provide $1,335,000.

Peterson said Chikaming township residents will be charged an initial tap-on fee of $1,500, which can be paid immediately or with interest over a period of time.

Residents will also be charged a monthly fee of $12.56 for sewer service, Peterson said that of that amount, $5.25 will go for debt service on the bonds and $7.31 will go for maintenance and operations of the service.

The bonds issued by Chikaming township will be repaid over a period from 25 to 30 years, Peterson said.

Gulf Official Reveals More Political Gifts

Wild reported at one of the sessions that he had donated $10,000 in 1972 to the Republican Senate Campaign Committee and earmarked it for Hatfield at the request of the Kuwait Embassy, testified Wright, who also said he had no idea whether Hatfield knew of the arrangement.

Humphrey was listed as the recipient of $25,000 in 1968, the same year Nixon was listed as receiving $50,000.

Wright did not specify any amount for a donation to Johnson, which was made while he was vice president. Wright said a 1963 donation to Long amounted to $40,000.

Wright said Wild reported "he had been following a practice of giving Sen. Hugh Scott $5,000 in the spring and $5,000 in the fall of each year."

He said, "The funds were always made available to the senator after he described to Mr. Wild his need for money for a personal matter or for some office matter, never in connection with political contributions matters."

Wright also said the Scott set-up "was in connection with regular payments" which had replaced a prior retainer arrangement which the company had had, and it was in connection with helping Sen. Scott defray office or personal expense without regard to any election or any particular thing being done by him.

The deposition was taken orally, possibly explaining the conflict over whether the money was "used for 'personal' or 'personnel' expenses, since the words sound similar."

The donations were part of $5.4 million in corporate cash spent for domestic political contributions generated through Gulf's $16 million slush fund, according to the SEC.

Wright said the donations included money spent by Gulf officials on local races in Pennsylvania, Louisiana, Texas, Connecticut and California. He provided no breakdown of the state-level spending.

In addition to SEC charges of failing to report properly to stockholders their political activities, Gulf and Wild are under investigation by the Watergate special prosecutor. The Internal Revenue Service is probing possible tax violations.

Gulf and Wild pleaded guilty in 1973 to charges of contributing $125,000 to the presidential campaigns of Richard M. Nixon, Sen. Henry M. Jackson and Rep. Wilbur D. Mills.

Wright said Wild told former White House aide Charles Wilson's insistence that Gulf sponsor a television rerun of the White House wedding of Nixon's daughter, Tricia. Gulf at first agreed to go along, but abandoned the plan in the face of angry opposition from NBC television, according to Wright.

Arrest Two In Kidnaping Of Exec's Son

was dropped.

Robertson said the ransom money was not marked, but police had recorded the serial numbers of the bills. Wilson and Williams did not buy the clothes themselves, Robertson said, but apparently had used it to pay off their debts.

"They had a roll of bills," said a clerk at store, referring to the men who made the purchases. He told the FBI about the men when they said the ransom money included about $50,000 in $50 bills and he remembered taking in several of the bills on Thursday, the day after the ransom was paid.

Robertson said the money found in the store provided investigators with a break in the case.

"It certainly was a catalyst," he said. "Obviously, it helped when the loot money started floating around."

Wilson was arrested at about 5 p.m. at his Ann Arbor home, the FBI said. He surrendered without a struggle.

Police said Williams was arrested about two hours later at his parent's Ann Arbor home.

"How can they be so dumb?" asked Dolly Wilson, mother of Wilson. "Thank God the (Stempel) boy wasn't injured."

The FBI said some of the ransom money was found when Wilson was arrested. A search is continuing for the remainder of the money.

Robertson said other suspects were being talked to, but added, "We have to decide if they were really involved or only victims of circumstance."

"I am elated that it has moved as quickly as it has," said Stempel. "The police have done their job quickly and efficiently."

The Stempel youth was abducted from outside his affluent neighborhood about 5:30 p.m. Monday. He was released more than 30 hours later after his father, chief engineer at GM's Chevrolet Division, dropped off the money.

The abduction was at least the 11th in four years in the Detroit area. On Sept. 29, General Motors' executive William Schulenberg's wife and three sons were abducted and released unharmed after Schulenberg paid about $54,000 in ransom. Three suspects were caught and most of the money recovered.

Berrien Jury Finds Man Innocent

A man accused of assaulting a tavern patron with a beer bottle during a barroom brawl was acquitted of an assault charge yesterday in Berrien Circuit court.

Jurors in Judge Chester J. Dyrns' court deliberated about 30 minutes before returning the innocent verdict for Feliciano Saez, 30, of 517 North Main street, Berrien Springs.

Saez went to trial on a charge of assault with a deadly weapon and was accused of assaulting William E. Cox with a beer bottle during a fight July 6 at the Topper bar in Berrien Springs. The defense did not deny there was a fight, but claimed Saez did not hit anyone with a bottle.

Saez' brother, Leon, is still awaiting trial on the same charge in connection with the fight. Opposing counsel in the 1 1/2 day trial were St. Joseph Atty. Donald Bleich and Asst. Prosecutor Quentin Fulcher.

Murder Suspect Still At Large

KALAMAZOO — A man charged with the March 6 murder of a Kalamazoo woman near Lawton was reported still missing this morning from the Kalamazoo state hospital where he was undergoing psychiatric testing.

State police at Paw Paw said this morning they were still searching for Carle Cordell Vaughn, 20, Kalamazoo, who was last seen running from a hospital tunnel about 6 p.m. Thursday.

Hospital officials said this morning that Vaughn's whereabouts are still unknown.

Vaughn has been charged in Van Buren county with murder

Indiana Woman Is Injured

Benton township police said Mrs. Doris A. James, 23, Hobbs, Ind., was injured about 2:45 a.m. today when her car went off Red Arrow highway and into a 15-foot ravine near Blue Creek, east of Benton Heights.

Officers said she was admitted to Mercy hospital for treatment of facial cuts. Mrs. James is visiting friends in the Coloma area, police said they were told.

Lakeshore Performers Treat Senior Citizens

Over 300 senior citizens from throughout Berrien County were treated to a night of free entertainment Thursday through the Lakeshore Rotary club and the Fine Arts department of Lakeshore high school.

According to Mrs. Dorothy Hildebrand, high school community education director, the senior citizens were treated to Lakeshore high school's auditorium last night for a free showing of the school's annual variety show.

"The senior citizens came from centers in St. Joseph, Benton Harbor, Berrien, Berrien Springs and River Valley area."

Lakeshore's annual variety show was presented to the public last night and will play again tonight at 8.

NY Fiscal Crisis Moving Closer To A Solution

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The massive New York fiscal crisis seemed closer to a possible solution today, with the City of Yonkers and a state housing agency saved from default and Washington officials hinting they might decide this weekend whether to help New York City.

In an emergency session that lasted into the early morning hours today, the New York Legislature appropriated a total of $105 million to save Yonkers and the state's Housing Finance Agency from default on their debts.

And it voted a debt "moratorium" that is a key part of the compromise plan Gov. Hugh Carey has proposed to Washington to avert default by New York City. The governor promptly signed the bills into law.

The legislators then adjourned for the weekend, with plans to return Monday to take up huge increases in state and city taxes and other proposals to deal with the interrelated fiscal problems of the city and state.

President Ford said in Atlanta Friday that he was "encouraged" by the state proposals, but that "until they have acted" to implement them "there's absolutely no change in my position against a bailout" of New York City.

One Carey aide said that at a Washington meeting with the governor and state legislative leaders on Friday, White House and Treasury Department officials "seemed in accord with" the state's compromise proposal for $2.5 billion in federal loan guarantees or other help. Aides to the legislators present confirmed that impression privately.

Advisers to Carey have expressed optimism about the prospects for federal help for the city on several previous occasions in the protracted fiscal crisis, always to be disappointed.

But Ford administration officials indicated publicly this time that their opposition to aid was softening and that a decision on the matter could come this weekend.

"We haven't expressed any assurances, nor have we said no to the help," said Deputy Treasury Secretary Stephen S. Gardner after the meeting.

The debt moratorium is part of a $6.6-billion plan Carey has proposed to avert a default by the city on its huge debts after Dec. 1, when the current $2.3-billion state financing plan runs out.

Cemetery Tools Are Stolen

THREE OAKS — A lawn tractor, two push mowers and assorted tools, with a total value of $2,812, were reported taken from the Forest Lawn cemetery south of here yesterday morning.

State police, from the New Buffalo post said employees of the cemetery, located on Forest Lawn road, Three Oaks township, reported yesterday morning that a storage garage had been entered by breaking a window.

Additional items reported taken were a snow plow attachment for the tractor and a generator.

Hospital officials said this morning that Vaughn's whereabouts are still unknown. Vaughn has been charged in Van Buren county with murder in the slaying of Sarah Towne, 27, whose knife-punctured body was found in rural Porter township March 7.

Vaughn was committed to the hospital July 16 after being found incompetent to stand trial but was scheduled for another competency hearing, according to the Van Buren county prosecutor's office.

BH Factory Gets False Bomb Threat

Benton Harbor police said a bomb threat call was received at 8 p.m. Friday, at Superior Steel Castings Co., 309 Graham avenue, but no bomb was located.

City police said the building was searched by the Berrien sheriff's department bomb squad after a woman caller told a plant security guard, "This place is going to blow up tonight."

A theft reported to Benton Harbor police was a $150 citizens' band radio, from an auto owned by Florence Jackson, 1567 Highland avenue, Benton township, and parked in a church lot at 848 Buss avenue in the city.

Troopers To Address LMC Class

Two Michigan State Police officers will address Lake Michigan College law enforcement classes at 9 a.m., Tuesday, Nov. 18, on the LMC Napier Avenue campus.

Capt. Gene A. Rooker, commanding officer of the Training Division of the Michigan State Police, and Sgt. Barry Beck, a State Police Academy instructor, will speak on the subject of law enforcement training in Michigan to the combined Introduction to Criminal Justice and Police Operation classes in Rm. B-207.

Area law enforcement officers who wish to attend are encouraged to do so, according to Berrien County Sheriff Deputy Lt. Michael Devine, LMC law enforcement training coordinator.

Captain Rooker has been commanding officer of state police posts at Alpena and Rockford. In 1972 he was appointed to command the Training Division. Sergeant Beck, who has been stationed at Ypsilanti, Battle Creek and Lansing, has been an instructor at the State Police Academy for two years.

Hoosier Held On Drug Count

UNION PIER — State police from the New Buffalo post said troopers arrested a Michigan City, Ind., man inside a Union Pier tavern early this morning on a charge of sale of mescaline.

Troopers said Paul Dominoski, 19, of Michigan City, was arrested inside the Wayside tavern, Red Arrow, Union Pier, about 1:30 a.m. today. Police said 13 packets of suspected mescaline worth an estimated $65 were confiscated.

Two Valparaiso, Ind., men came to the New Buffalo post to report that a man was allegedly attempting to sell the drug in the tavern shortly before the arrest was made, police said.

BICENTENNIAL

New Car Plates Ready Monday

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Monday is the first day motorists can pick up 1976 Michigan license plates, Secretary of State Richard Austin said Thursday.

The red, white and blue Bicentennial plates will be available at every secretary of state's field office, Austin said.

Plates also are available by mail. Four stars on the plates represent the four national flags — French, British, Spanish and American — that have flown over Michigan. Two wavy lines along the bottom represent the stripes on the flag and the state's highways and waterways.

Meanwhile, the state Senate voted to spend $1,250 to set up a special committee to study reflectorized license plates.

Critics claim impetus for the study came from heavy lobbying on the part of a company which produces reflecting material.

The vote to establish the study was 12-9. The resolution went to the House, which must approve it before the study can begin.

The resolution was approved earlier by the Senate Business Committee, which cut the money for the study in half.

"I have no idea whether it's a good idea or a bad idea," said Sen. Jerome Hart, D-Saginaw, sponsor of the resolution.

GALIEN RIVER

Chikaming Okays Sewer Contract

LAKESIDE — The Chikaming township board last night voted final approval for the Galien river sanitary sewer district contract.

Township Supervisor Donald Peterson said the contract links the township with both the city and township of New Buffalo in a $20,197,950 project to provide sanitary sewage treatment for all three municipalities.

Chikaming township's share of the project comes to $5,595,000 which is to be raised by the sale of bonds.

State and federal grants will provide $11,707,950, the township of New Buffalo must provide $1,560,000, and the city must provide $1,335,000.

Peterson said Chikaming township residents will be charged an initial tap-on fee of $1,500 which can be paid immediately or with interest over a period of time.

Residents will also be charged a monthly fee of $12.55 for sewer service. Peterson said that of that amount, $5.25 will go for debt service on the bonds and $7.30 will go for maintenance and operations of the service.

The bonds issued by Chikaming township will be repaid over a period from 25 to 30

Other Democrats argued the committee could bring to an end the debate over whether Michigan should switch to reflectorized plates as a safety measure. Currently, only the raised white letters are reflectorized.

"We want to bring some quietude to the whole debate and decide once and for all if reflectorized plates will be a benefit," said Senate Majority Leader William Fitzgerald, D-Detroit.

Republicans contend that other studies have discounted the value of reflectorized plates. "It's a waste of taxpayer's money to study something we have studied three times already," said Sen. Charles Zollar, R-Benton Harbor. Others said massive lobbying by the 3M (Minnesota Mining and Manufacturing) Co. was responsible for the renewed interest in such plates.

The 3M Co. earlier this year supported legislation which would have required the reflectorized plates. It was aided by one of the largest and most powerful lobbying agencies in Lansing.

The state estimated the cost of making license plates would go from $10.5 million to $22 million, although the plates would be used longer than they are now.

GALIEN RIVER

years, Peterson said. When the bonds have been repaid, the monthly debt service charge will be eliminated, he said.

The city of New Buffalo is expected to act on final approval of the contract at its meeting Tuesday. New Buffalo township gave final approval to the contract Thursday night.

Gulf Official Reveals More Political Gifts

Wild reported at one of the sessions that he had donated $10,000 in 1972 to the Republican Senate Campaign Committee and earmarked it for Hatfield at the request of the Kuwait Embassy, testified Wright, who also said he had no idea whether Hatfield knew of the arrangement.

Humphrey was listed as the recipient of $25,000 in 1968, the same year Nixon was listed as receiving $50,000.

Wright did not specify any amount for a donation to Johnson, which was made while he was vice president. Wright said a 1963 donation to Long amounted to $40,000.

Wright said Wild reported "he had been following a practice of giving Sen. Hugh Scott $5,000 in the spring and $5,000 in the fall of each year."

He said, "The funds were always made available to the senator after he described to Mr. Wild his need for money for a personal matter, or for some other matter; never in connection with political contributions matters."

Wright also said the Scott setup "was in connection with regular payments which had replaced a prior retainer arrangement which the company had had and it was in connection with helping Sen. Scott delay office or personnel expense without regard to any election or any particular thing being done by him."

The deposition was taken orally, possibly explaining the conflict over whether the money was used for "personal" or "personnel" expenses, since the words sound similar.

The donations were part of $5.4 million in corporate cash spent for domestic political contributions generated through Gulf's $10 million slush fund, according to the SEC.

Wright said the donations included money spent by Gulf officials on local races in Pennsylvania, Louisiana, Texas, Connecticut and California. He provided no breakdown of the state-level spending.

In addition to SEC charges of failing to report properly to stockholders their political activities, Gulf and Wild are under investigation by the Watergate special prosecutor. The Internal Revenue Service is probing possible tax violations.

Gulf and Wild pleaded guilty in 1973 to charges of contributing $125,000 to the president campaigns of Richard M. Nixon, Sen. Henry M. Jackson and Rep. Wilbur D. Mills.

Wright said Wild told of former White House aide Charles Colson's insistence that Gulf sponsor a television rerun of the White House wedding of Nixon's daughter, Tricia. Gulf at first agreed to go along, but abandoned the plan in the face of angry opposition from NBC television, according to Wright.

Arrest Two In Kidnaping Of Exec's Son

was dropped.

Robertson said the ransom money was not marked, but police had recorded the serial numbers of the bills. Wilson and Williams did not buy the clothes themselves, Robertson said, but apparently had used it to pay off their debts.

"They had a roll of bills," said a clerk at store, referring to the men who made the purchases. He told the FBI about the men when they said the ransom money included about $50,000 in $50 bills and he remembered taking in several of the bills on Thursday, the day after the ransom was paid.

Robertson said the money found in the store provided investigators with a break in the case.

"It certainly was a catalyst," he said. "Obviously it helped when the loot money started floating around."

Wilson was arrested at about 5 p.m. at his Ann Arbor home, the FBI said. He surrendered without a struggle.

Police said Williams was arrested about two hours later at his parent's Ann Arbor home. "How can they be so dumb?" asked Dolly Wilson, mother of Wilson. "Thank God the (Stempel) boy wasn't injured."

The FBI said some of the ransom money was found when Wilson was arrested. A search is continuing for the remainder of the money.

STEWART SCORES 100 PER CENT: Stewart elementary school of the Lakeshore district got 100 per cent participation from its 261 students in the junior fire marshal program sponsored by Tri-Unit fire department and Twin Cities Association of Independent Insurance Agents. Youngsters were treated to a party Friday and awarded junior fire marshal flag, about to be raised here by fire Chief Lloyd Both, Lisa King, Tami Mullins and Steven Bansen. Junior fire marshal program calls for youngsters to take home fire safety inspection report forms, get them filled out and return them. Chief Both reported that eight elementary schools in the area served by Tri-Unit had 94 per cent participation with 1,282 turning in home inspection forms. Program is part of Fire Prevention Week last month. (Staff photo)

Alcohol Education Aims To Save Money

An alcohol education program at the Berrien County Health department has the potential to save the county $400,000 per year, according to Jack DeLong, program supervisor.

The program, now in its second year, was started by interested citizens in cooperation with the health department to help reduce arrests due to drinking.

In the first full year of operation, over 600 people attended the four-session series on alcohol education. These clients were referred by the court, state driver analysts and others because of alcohol-related arrests.

DeLong computed the savings potential by saying it costs the community an average of $700 for each alcohol-related arrest. If each of the 600 clients avoided further arrests the savings would be $420,000.

The series is designed to educate drinkers to facts relating to alcohol use and abuse so they can be aware of their own drinking situation.

DeLong said the attitudinal change in clients is important when one looks at rearrests following participation in the program.

The series is part of a comprehensive alcohol program funded by grant money from the Office of Substance Abuse and coordinated by Partnership for Health. The county health department receives $37,000 to operate the educational part of the comprehensive program.

The series is held at the Berrien County Health department, 700 Pipestone street, Benton Harbor, from 7 p.m. to 8:30 p.m. every Wednesday and from 1 p.m. to 2:30 p.m. every Thursday and at the Niles high school from 7 p.m. to 8:30 p.m. every Monday.

Alcohol and the law, alcohol and the human body, social and emotional factors of alcohol use, and alcoholism are the subjects presented to clients by lecture and through audio visual aids.

Michigan Ban On Electric Car Reversed

By MALCOLM JOHNSON
Associated Press Writer

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The State of Michigan has reversed the current to the electric-powered Citicar, saying it can be used on state roads after all.

But in approving the tiny urban vehicle for title and registration Michigan state officials carefully stressed Friday they weren't endorsing the car or satisfied with its safety.

The Department of State, acting on a recommendation from the State Police, gave the car a green light. The action reversed the department's decision after the State Police first nixed the wedge shaped vehicle.

The State Police earlier this fall said the car was unsafe because of a thin plastic-like body and other deficiencies. State officials said they were concerned it could not hold its own in the city traffic it is designed for.

But the director of the Department of State's office of legislative affairs, Philip Frangos said the car's manufacturer, Sebring Vanguard Inc. of Sebring, Fla., had made the necessary changes to meet state objections.

Frangos said he has been informed that the company will replace the butane heaters in some models of the car — a heater which had been labeled a safety hazard. And he said safety glass and handling deficiencies had been corrected.

Moreover, the federal government has exempted the Citicar from national crash and body reinforcement standards. Therefore, there is "no legal justification why it should not be licensed," said Col. George Halverson, director of the State Police.

"This does not mean we feel the Citicar is a safe car or a worthy car," Frangos said. "We're not endorsing this car...it means the more serious defects have been eliminated."

Frangos also emphasized the car more readily falls below state standards than other cars. For example, it fails the headlight test if the owner runs it past its battery recharging point.

"It's important to realize the buyer has the responsibility to keep it at peak performance" if the car is to maintain legal safety standards, Frangos said.

Frangos said he was told there are 15 dealers of the car in Michigan, and 50 of the tiny vehicles were at dealerships. The principal dealer for the car could not be reached for comment on the state's action.

The car is designed for around-the-city errand trips, and has a top speed of only about 35 m.p.h. It has a body made of Cycloac — the same material used in football helmets — with an integrated roll-over, according to its manufacturer.

But Consumers Union declared the two electric cars on the market — Citicar and Elcar — are so unsafe "it would be foolhardy to drive either car on any public road."

Another Van Buren Education Vote Looms

LAWRENCE — The Van Buren intermediate school board is expected to re-submit to district voters two special education funding proposals which were turned down in balloting last June.

Supt. Ernest Shaw said he has been instructed to have school attorneys draw up an election resolution, and that the board will probably take action on it at its December meeting. The election would probably be held in late February.

Shaw said he expected the two proposals to be essentially the same as were turned down last June — a 1.5 mill property tax levy earmarked to hire about 80 additional special education staff people, and a $1,010,000 bond issue to build, equip, and furnish a school for the handicapped.

The 1.5 mill proposition failed by a 3,379 "yes" to 4,106 "no" vote, and the bond issue by a 2,982 to 4,496 margin.

Had the bond issue been approved, it would have been paid off over 10 years and required a .48-mill levy annually. The 1.5 mills generated for the property tax levy would have generated about $425,000 yearly.

Shaw said the new bonding proposal would be "not more than one-half mill" for up to 10 years. He said he believed there was some confusion last time about the .48-mill figure, with some voters even interpreting it as 48 mills.

The bond issue, if approved in February, will be used to build a new school for the trainable with a capacity of 125 students. School officials said the present facilities in Arlington township east of Bangor are inadequate. Both the trainable school and additional staff personnel are needed to meet state requirements, Shaw said.

Seek School Cut Legality Opinion

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Three lawmakers are asking Michigan Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley to decide if $48 million in proposed school aid cuts are constitutional.

The legislators say there is no provision in the school aid bill authorizing spending cuts by executive order such as Gov. William Milliken proposed last month to help ease an expected $295 million state deficit.

Sen. Don Bishop, R-Rochester, said Friday the Michigan Constitution requires spending cuts "be made in accordance with procedures prescribed by law."

Bishop said an independent law firm found no such provision in the school aid bill, though other appropriations bills do contain procedures for spending cut. He said another law prohibits state officials from applying provisions in one law to another.

Bishop, along with Senate Democratic Leader William

Fitzgerald of Detroit and REP. James DeFebaugh, R-Birmingham, asked Kelley's opinion in a letter this week.

Bishop said some 35 districts receiving no state aid may have to use local tax revenues to fund programs like transportation and special education. These are now covered by categorical grants that might be cut in lieu of school aid.

The $48 million in school aid cuts was part of $150 million Milliken asked be shaved from state department, college and university budgets. Both the House and Senate appropriations committees rejected Milliken's first order and Milliken is working on a second.

Education officials say the cuts would cause at least 2,000 teacher layoffs, more crowded classrooms and fewer supplies.

Bishop said the legislators are not questioning the need for budget cuts, but said cuts "should be made in a legal and equitable manner."

La Salle's Montreal-New Orleans Trip To Be Recreated

'EXPLORERS' WILL PASS THROUGH TWIN CITIES

CHICAGO — The 1681-82 voyage of the French explorer Robert Cavalier Sieur de LaSalle from Montreal to New Orleans will be re-created in 1976-77 by a crew of 15 students, six educators, a playwright and a priest.

Considered a major Bicentennial event, the 3,000-mile journey will commence in Montreal in August, 1976, and end in New Orleans on April 9, 1977 — the 285th anniversary of the date on which LaSalle claimed the Mississippi Valley for Louis the Great and France.

As a part of the arduous eight-month expedition in hand-crafted canoes, the modern-day "voyagers" will follow the St. Joseph river from the Twin Cities harbor to South Bend, where they will make a four-mile portage to the Kankakee river.

The tentative schedule for the expedition calls for the crew to arrive in Chicago around Dec. 1, 1976 and reach the St. Joseph river later that month, raising the possibility that they will be forced to carry their canoes over frozen waters for part of the journey.

"I hope that LaSalle wore long underwear," said expedition director Reid Lewis, noting that research of the original voyage would in most cases determine the type of clothing to be worn on the modern adventure.

The itinerary of LaSalle: Expedition II, as the project is called, will take the voyagers from Montreal up the St. Lawrence river, down the Great Lakes to the western shore of Lake Michigan and around the southern end of Lake Michigan to Benton Harbor-St. Joseph.

After portaging to the Kankakee river, the journey will proceed down the Illinois river into the Mississippi river and down the Mississippi to New Orleans, where the crew will be welcomed by American, Canadian and French dignitaries.

"The purpose of the voyage is more than just an authentic re-creation," said Lewis, an Elgin, Ill., high school French teacher who organized the project.

"Its purpose is to dramatize how important an understanding of the past is to the building for the future."

Lewis also pointed out that one of the most tangible results of the expedition will come from 19 educational projects that will be conducted, including studies of the environment, mapping of the route with 17th century instruments, learning and using the French, Latin and Indian languages and wearing authentic apparel.

Based on a normal 40-hour work week, each of the eight adult voyagers will compress the equivalent of four years of work on the expedition into three years of time.

During the actual voyage, they will average 18 hours a day for 250 consecutive days — a total of 4,500 hours. They will rise at 4:30 a.m., be on the water by 5:30 and retire about 10:30 p.m. for six hours of sleep in a canvas bag sheltered only by a canoe, even during the winter months.

The 15 high school students from the Elgin area were chosen for their specific talents at the beginning of their junior year in 1974 and will graduate two months before departure on the voyage.

The expedition has been endorsed by numerous organizations, including the American Revolution Bicentennial administration, the National Education association and UNESCO's Environmental Education Unit.

It also has received the support of Sir Edmund Hillary, conqueror of Mt. Everest, and French marine explorer Jacques-Yves Cousteau.

STEWART SCORES 100 PER CENT: Stewart elementary school of the Lakeshore district got 100 per cent participation from its 261 students in the junior fire marshal program sponsored by Tri-Unit fire department and Twin Cities Association of Independent Insurance Agents. Youngsters were treated to a party Friday and awarded junior fire marshal flag, about to be raised here by fire Chief Lloyd Both, Lisa King, Tami Mullins and Steven Bansen. Junior fire marshal program calls for youngsters to take home fire safety inspection report forms, get them filled out and return them. Chief Both reported that eight elementary schools in the area served by Tri-Unit had 94 per cent participation with 1,282 turning in home inspection forms. Alcohol Education Aims To Save Money

An alcohol education program at the Berrien County Health department has the potential to save the county $400,000 per year, according to Jack DeLong, program supervisor.

The program, now in its second year, was started by interested citizens in cooperation with the health department to help reduce arrests due to drinking.

In the first full year of operation, over 600 people attended the four-session series on alcohol education. These clients were referred by the court, state driver analysts and others because of alcohol-related arrests.

DeLong computed the savings potential by saying it costs the community an average of $700 for each alcohol-related arrest. If each of the 600 clients avoided further arrests the savings would be $420,000.

The series is designed to educate drinkers to facts relating to alcohol use and abuse so they can be aware of their own drinking situation.

DeLong said the attitudinal change in clients is important when one looks at rearrests following participation in the program.

The series is part of a comprehensive alcohol program funded by grant money from the Office of Substance Abuse and coordinated by Partnership for Health. The county health department receives $37,000 to operate the educational part of the comprehensive program.

The series is held at the Berrien County Health department, 769 Pipestone street, Benton Harbor, from 7 p.m. to 8:30 p.m. every Wednesday and from 1 p.m. to 2:30 p.m. every Thursday and at the Niles high school from 7 p.m. to 8:30 p.m. every Monday.

Alcohol and the law, alcohol and the human body, social and emotional factors of alcohol use, and alcoholism are the subjects presented to clients by lecture and through audio visual aids.

Michigan Ban On Electric Car Reversed

By MALCOLM JOHNSON
Associated Press Writer

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The State of Michigan has reversed the current to the electric-powered CitiCar, saying it can be used on state roads after all.

But in approving the tiny urban vehicle for title and registration Michigan state officials carefully stressed Friday they weren't endorsing the car or satisfied with its safety.

The Department of State, acting on a recommendation from the State Police, gave the car a green light. The action reversed the department's decision after the State Police first nixed the wedge shaped vehicle.

The State Police earlier this fall said the car was unsafe because of a thin plastic-like body and other deficiencies. State officials said they were concerned it could not hold its own in the city traffic it is designed for.

But the director of the Department of State's office of legislative affairs, Philip Frangos said the car's manufacturer, Sebring Vanguard Inc. of Sebring, Fla., had made the necessary changes to meet state objections.

Frangos said he has been informed that the company will replace the butane heaters in some models of the car — a heater which had been labeled a safety hazard. And he said safety glass and handling deficiencies had been corrected.

Moreover, the federal government has exempted the CitiCar from national crash and body reinforcement standards. Therefore, there is "no legal justification why it should not be licensed," said Col. George Halverson, director of the State Police.

"This does not mean we feel the CitiCar is a safe car or a worthy car," Frangos said. "We're not endorsing this car...it means the more serious defects have been eliminated."

Frangos also emphasized the car more readily falls below state standards than other cars. For example, it fails the headlight test if the owner runs it past its battery recharging point.

"It's important to realize the buyer has the responsibility to keep it at peak performance" if the car is to maintain legal safety standards, Frangos said.

Frangos said he was told there are 15 dealers of the car in Michigan, and 59 of the tiny vehicles were at dealerships. The principal dealer for the car could not be reached for comment on the state's action.

The car is designed for around-the-city errand trips, and has a top speed of only about 35 m.p.h. It has a body made of Cycloc — the same material used in football helmets — with an integrated roll-over, according to its manufacturer.

But Consumers Union declared the two electric cars on the market — CitiCar and Elcar — are so unsafe "it would be foolhardy to drive either car on any public road."

Another Van Buren Education Vote Looms

LAWRENCE — The Van Buren intermediate school board is expected to re-submit to district voters two special education funding proposals which were turned down in balloting last June.

Supt. Ernest Shaw said he has been instructed to have school attorneys draw up an election resolution, and that the board will probably take action on it at its December meeting. The election would probably be held in late February.

Shaw said he expected the two proposals to be essentially the same as were turned down last June — a 1.3 mill property tax levy earmarked to hire about 60 additional special education staff people, and a $1,010,000 bond issue to build, equip, and furnish a school for the handicapped.

The 1.5 mill proposition failed by a 3,379 "yes" to 4,106 "no" vote, and the bond issue by a 2,952 to 4,466 margin.

Had the bond issue been approved, it would have been paid off over 10 years and required a .48-mill levy annually. The 1.5 mills generated for the property tax levy would have generated about $425,000 yearly.

Shaw said the new bonding proposal would be "not more than one-half mill" for up to 10 years. He said he believed there was some confusion last time about the .48-mill figure, with some voters even interpreting it as 48 mills.

The bond issue, if approved in February, will be used to build a new school for the trainable with a capacity of 125 students. School officials said the present facilities in Arlington township east of Bangor are inadequate.

Both the trainable school and additional staff personnel are needed to meet state requirements, Shaw said.

Seek School Cut Legality Opinion

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Three lawmakers are asking Michigan Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley to decide if $48 million in proposed school aid cuts are constitutional.

The legislators say there is no provision in the school aid bill authorizing spending cuts by executive order such as Gov. William Milliken proposed last month to help ease an expected $298 million state deficit.

Sen. Don Bishop, R-Rochester, said Friday the Michigan Constitution requires spending cuts "be made in accordance with procedures prescribed by law."

Bishop said an independent law firm found no such provision in the school aid bill, though other appropriations bills do contain procedures for spending cut. He said another law prohibits state officials from applying provisions in one law to another.

Bishop, along with Senate Democratic Leader William

Fitzgerald of Detroit and REP. James Denebaugh, R-Birmingham, asked Kelley's opinion in a letter this week.

Bishop said some 35 districts receiving no state aid may have to use local tax revenues to fund programs like transportation and special education. These are now covered by categorical grants that might be cut in lieu of school aid.

The $48 million in school aid cuts was part of $150 million Milliken asked be shaved from state department, college and university budgets. Both the House and Senate appropriations committees rejected Milliken's first order and Milliken is working on a second.

Education officials say the cuts would cause at least 2,000 teacher layoffs, more crowded classrooms and fewer supplies.

Young U.S. Boxer Sends Soviet 'Back To Salt Mine'

NEW YORK (AP) — "I sent him back to the salt mines," muttered Jimmy Clark, shaking his head back and forth as though he still couldn't believe it.

"Back to the salt mines," he said. Clark, a 20-year-old Golden Gloves boxing champion from Coatesville, Pa., had just scored a surprise, third-round technical knockout over Igor Vysotsky, the world's top-ranked heavyweight amateur boxer.

Clark's victory capped an inspired, aggressive effort by 10 U.S. boxers, who defeated a more experienced Russian team 6-4 in a 10-bout all-heavyweight card Friday night at Madison Square Garden.

It was the first time Vysotsky had been beaten outside the Soviet Union.

As expected, it began as a brawl — Clark popping from the outside and the mauling Russian advancing, stalking, punching.

Clark, 11 pounds lighter than the 204-pound Russian, received a small cut in the corner of his right eye in the first round, and he had to blink to clear his vision. Vysotsky had begun the steady, slow erosion of his opponent's defense, just as he had 98 times before with only 13 losses.

Vysotsky answered the bell to the third round with a cut beside his right eye — they were even now.

Clark ended it there with a resounding right. Vysotsky, who has never been knocked down, was forced to take a standing eight count.

The only other bout that stirred the crowd like Clark's, was Gerald Cooney's first-round TKO over Nikolai Aksyonov. Cooney, at 19 the youngest American on the team, was a local favorite from Huntington, N.Y., on Long Island. As the crowd roared, "Come on Gerry, Come on Gerry," Cooney bludgeoned Aksyonov with both fists until he fell in the corner.

The count was five bouts for the United States and four for the Soviet Union.

Kilmer Gone, But Cards Not Taking Redskins Lightly

By Associated Press

When the curtain comes down on Sunday's National Football League game in St. Louis, either the Cardinals or the Washington Redskins will own first place in the National Conference East.

"We've got to play a nearly perfect game," says Cards Coach Don Coryell. "If we don't, it's curtains."

He knows whereof he speaks. Last month, in a Monday night collision in Washington, the Cards gave the ball away five times. The result: a 27-17 victory by the Redskins.

In that game, of course, Billy Kilmer was calling the signals for the Redskins. This time, though, he's out of business, the result of a partially separated shoulder sustained last Sunday in New York.

It turned out that Kilmer's absence wasn't all that damaging — at least not against the Giants. Randy Johnson came on to direct a pair of fourth-quarter touchdown drives which carried the 'Skins to a 21-13 victory. So Coryell figures Washington's loss of Kilmer isn't necessarily St. Louis' gain.

"I watched him warm up last game," the Cards' coach said of Johnson. "He has a great arm and he's done extremely well this year any time he's been in the ball game."

If the Redskins do win, they'll avenge the Cardinals' two-game sweep of Washington a year ago. The teams wound up tied at the end of the 1974 season, each with a 10-4 record.

But those two St. Louis triumphs gave the Cards the NFC East title and relegated the Redskins to "wild-card" status. Not that it really mattered that much. Both teams were knocked out of the playoffs in the first round.

"This is a first-place game, a championship game," says Washington Coach George Allen, looking forward to this tie-breaker. A tie game, of course, would leave both teams deadlocked, again. "It's nice to play in these big games."

There are several other big games this weekend, too. On Sunday's schedule it's Dallas at New England, Kansas City at Pittsburgh, Miami at Houston, Minnesota at New Orleans, Los Angeles at Atlanta, Cleveland at Oakland, Denver at San Diego, Green Bay at Detroit, Philadelphia at the New York Giants, Chicago at San Francisco and the New York Jets at Baltimore. On Monday night, Buffalo visits Cincinnati.

Bucks' Streak Ends In 'Friendly' Game

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

"It was just a friendly National Basketball Association scuffle, soon to be forgotten," according to Dick Gibbs of the Buffalo Braves.

The capacity crowd at the Milwaukee Arena won't forget. And there's a sneaky suspicion neither will the Milwaukee Bucks.

"I was filling the lane on a fast break when (Gary) Brokaw stepped in front of me," Gibbs said. "I didn't appreciate that so I threw him out of the way."

Brokaw's version was a little different: "We were coming down the court and exchanged elbows. He hit me. It felt like a punch. So I hit him."

When the fourth-quarter brawl was over, Buffalo went on to defeat Milwaukee 112-98, snapping a five-game Bucks' winning streak.

No fouls, technical or otherwise, were called in connection with the brawl. No players were ejected and officials called a jump ball to resume play.

In other NBA games Friday night, Philadelphia defeated Boston 119-109, Atlanta clipped Washington 97-88, Portland downed Chicago 93-89, Los Angeles stopped Phoenix 114-107 and Seattle edged Cleveland 100-97 in overtime.

Hawks 97, Bulls 88

John Drew and Connie Hawkins led a third-quarter rally to boost Atlanta into a first-place tie in the NBA's Central Division with a victory over Cleveland Washington. With the Hawks leading 50-46 early in the third period, Hawkins scored 10 points and drew nine as Atlanta outscored Washington 34-23 in the period.

76ers 119, Celtics 109

With Boston's Dave Cowens forced to leave the game because of back muscle spasms, Philadelphia rolled to an easy victory over the Celtics behind Doug Collins' 32 points. Boston battled the 76ers evenly until Cowens was forced from the game early in the second with Philadelphia up by 61-50.

Blaizers 93, Bulls 89

Lloyd Neal's 31 points helped Portland hold off a series of Chicago rallies as the Trail Blazers topped the Bulls. Trailing by as many as nine points in the first half, Portland rallied behind Neal and center Bill Walton to take a halftime lead it never relinquished. It was Portland's fourth straight victory and Chicago fifth loss in a row.

Lakers 114, Suns 107

Kareem Abdul-Jabbar tallied 35 points and grabbed 19 rebounds as Los Angeles won its sixth consecutive home game. Alvan Adams pumped in 35 points for the Suns and keyed a fourth-quarter rally that saw Phoenix cut an 18-point deficit to just five points.

Sonics 100, Cavaliers 97, OT

Fred Brown stole the ball and scored with 1:04 left in overtime to help Seattle over Cleveland. The breakaway basket by Brown, who topped the Super-Sonics with 26 points, broke a 97-97 deadlock. Cleveland was paced by Dick Snyder, who hit 15 of his 28 points in the first half. The lead changed hands 16 times and the score was tied 4 times.

Colonels' Owner Can Spot Bargain

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) —

Kentucky Colonels majority owner Ellie Brown put one player — Caldwell Jones — back to work Friday, but warned that as many as 100 players face unemployment if the war between the two professional basketball leagues continues.

"There's 22 players out of work now," said Mrs. Brown, referring to defunct American Basketball Association franchises in Baltimore and San Diego, "and it's their fault."

"They" is the National Basketball Association Players Association, which obtained a permanent injunction in 1970 that has legally blocked a merger between the ABA and NBA.

The injunction has forced the two leagues to bid extravagantly for talent; in several cases, success on the basketball floor was more than outweighed by the financial burden of meeting the payroll.

"There's one of two things they can do — merge or get the hell out," Mrs. Brown said.

She made the statements during a press conference

Friday to announce the purchase of Jones from the American Basketball Association, which "owned" Jones after his San Diego team folded last Monday.

"I don't think there's a woman in the world who can pass up a bargain," said an ecstatic Mrs. Brown. "It would stun you to know what he (Jones) makes. He's one of the best bargains in pro basketball."

Jones reportedly made less than $50,000 with the Sails, prompting Mrs. Brown to wonder if "they didn't appreciate Caldwell Jones the way we do."

She said Jones will occupy the "strong forward" position vacated when Dan Issel was traded.

U.S. Ski Team To Open Training

IRONWOOD, Mich. (AP) — The U.S. National Ski Jumping team will begin training Monday near this Upper Peninsula ski center.

The team was invited by central division jumping panel member Tom LaBlonde of Hurley, Wis. to train in the area for the next two weeks.

The team has decided to make use of the Wolverine Hill Ski Jump, which is the only significant amount of snow on the North American continent at this time of year, according to team coach Glen Kotlarek.

Wind Proves Golfer's Bane

EAST LONDON, S. Africa (AP) — Golfer Issy Udwin may claim a record. In a wind-swept tournament here he lost 13 balls for the first 13 holes. Then, at the 14th, a water hole, he lofted straight into the pond. Another player threw a spare ball over to him, but before Udwin could catch it the wind shipped it away and it splashed into the water to bring his tally for 14 holes to 13 lost balls.

"The team's plans fell through (in Banff, Canada) due to a lack of snow and because of this, Ironwood comes into the focal point as the new training area," LaBlonde said. "Due to the emphasis on the upcoming winter Olympics, as much training as possible is needed to prepare the team for the event."

Sad Squires Lose Without Coach, Too

By Associated Press

The Virginia Squires have had more coaches than victories this season.

In fact, they have had more interim coaches than victories this season...which really isn't hard to do when you have a 1-12 record.

But the Squires, minus interim Coach Mack Calvin, did discover another way of snatching defeat from the jaws of victory Friday night, dropping a 106-102 overtime game to the Spirits of St. Louis.

Virginia led by six points, 92-84, with 3:39 left in regulation play, but failed to score another point as St. Louis caught up and knotted the score.

Calvin, who hasn't played since he was injured in a preseason contest, was named interim coach after Al Bianchi was fired. But Calvin didn't show for Friday's game and forward Willie Wise, who sat out most of the second half, and trainer Bob "Chopper" Travaglini coached the Squires.

"Mack came to me this morning and told me he wasn't making a contribution as interim coach," Jack Ankerson, Virginia general manager, said, giving the only inkling to Calvin's absence.

Bill Knight poured in 43 points and Darnell Hillman added 32 to push Indiana to victory over Utah. The Pacers exploded for 42 points in the final period after being down by 12 points in the third quarter. High for Utah was Ron Boone with 28 points.

Michigan Tech

Rips Spartans

HOUGHTON, Mich. (AP) — Michigan Tech goalie Bruce Horsch made 37 saves and center Stu Ostlund scored two goals Friday to lead the Huskies to a 5-1 college hockey victory over Michigan State.

Tom Ross, MSU's center, extended his consecutive game scoring streak to 72 by scoring the Spartans' only goal. Horsch was able to shut out three Spartans who are among the leaders in Western Collegiate Hockey Association scoring.

Also turning on the light for the Huskies were Dave Joelson, Chris Ferguson and George Lyle.

Lancer Gals Dump Eddies

EDWARDSBURG — Jodi Rabbers and Sue Kunkel each netted 15 points as Lakeshore's girls basketball squad defeated Edwardsburg 46-41 here Friday night.

The Lancers, now 13-6 overall and 10-4 in the Blossomland conference, were never behind in the game as they held quarter leads of 6-4, 23-17 and 31-29.

The victory clinches second place in the conference for the Lancers.

Kunkel also led her team in rebounding by grabbing 18 caroms. Barb Barton netted 12 points to lead the Eddies.

Olympic Team

Easy Winner

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The U.S. Olympic hockey team defeated the University of Pennsylvania 10-3 Friday night to raise its tour record to 20-1.

Dan Bolduc of Harvard, playing for the U.S. team, was the game's high scorer with three goals.

Pack Could Spoil Lions' Playoff Hopes

Detroit To Face Another 'Patsy'

PONTIAC, Mich. (AP) — The Detroit Lions have been pretty good at beating "patsies" this National Football League season.

Green Bay's 1-7 record says they belong in that category. But whether or not the Lions can take advantage of the Packers for the second time this season remains to be seen.

The Central Division rivals of the National Conference square off Sunday at Pontiac Stadium before an estimated 75,000-plus crowd.

Detroit is hopeful of a wild-card playoff berth, but it can't afford to lose any more games — perhaps one at the most — if it expects to make it. A loss to the struggling Packers would be a disaster.

The Lions have a 5-3 record, but the five victories have come against teams with a composite record of a miserable 8-32. The teams that have beaten Detroit have a 10-5 record collectively.

"They haven't changed the things they're doing," Lions Coach Rick Forzano said of the Packers. "But they're a much better football team than they were on opening day. Of course, so are we."

Detroit beat Green Bay, 30-16, in the opener, utilizing an 11-man defensive line at times and sacking quarterback John Hadl six times. The Lions scored three touchdowns as a result of blocked punts.

Punter Steve Broussard, the victim in that game, has since been replaced by the Packers with David Beverly.

"Beverly gets the ball away faster," Forzano said. "We haven't much chance of blocking one against him."

Green Bay's star kicker, Chester Marcol of Inlay City, Mich., pulled a muscle in that first game and is on the injured reserve list. His replacement, Joe Danelo, has made four of his five field goal attempts, one of 45 yards.

"They got Danelo from Miami and he has filled in well. They don't miss Marcol too much," Forzano said.

"The Packers are formidable on defense, especially with guys like Mike McCoy and Dave Pureifory (of Eastern Michigan University) at the tackles and Fred Carr at linebacker."

Their problem is the same thing as the Browns, who we played last week. They're beating themselves. The Bears scored on a long interception against them last week.

John Brockington has been hurt and that took a lot away from their offense, but he played some last week and probably will play Sunday."

Detroit beat winless Cleveland, 21-10, last Sunday at home, while Green Bay handed the Bears their second win of the year, 27-14, in Chicago.

"We were up three weeks in a row," Packer Coach Bart Starr said. "Then when we needed to be up again for a team that was roughly in the same position as us, we weren't able to do it. We weren't as high as we should have been."

Detroit has swept both games from the Packers only once (1970) in the last 17 years.

Joe Reed will likely be starting his third straight game at quarterback for the Lions. Hadl is expected to start for Green Bay, although Don Milan started his first NFL game last week in place of the veteran — who was once Detroit's No. 1 draft choice, but who jumped to the American Football League.

Flames Looking Forward To Season's Best Week

LANDOVER, Md. (AP) — Atlanta Coach Fred Creighton is looking forward to his Flames meeting the Boston Bruins tonight in the Omni, especially since the team has been winning.

"It's our chance to have our most productive week of the year," said Creighton after the Flames defeated the Washington Capitals 4-1 Friday night in the National Hockey League. "We've won two in a row and now have a chance to make it three."

"I was thinking before the game that if we could do something tonight it would help our chances for tomorrow, our biggest game to date," he said. "Even though it's not in our division, it would be a big lift for us if we could get something going there."

The Flames victory over the Capitals came two days after they defeated the Kansas City Scouts 2-1 and put their record at 7-8-1. The Capitals, with five losses at home, are now 2-13-2.

Toronto beat California 4-2 in the only other NHL game played.

In the World Hockey Association, Winnipeg beat Edmonton 6-1 and Toronto and Phoenix tied 2-2.

Nelson Pyatt of the Capitals scored at 12:44 of the first period, reminding observers quickly that the Flames had been 14-0 when an opponent scored the first goal.

In the second period, however, the Flames picked up three goals in a span of a little more than 3½ minutes on shots by Bill Hillard Graves, Bill Flett and Dave Kryskow. Flett scored again with 30 seconds remaining in the period.

"Thank goodness we won tonight because we have been having our troubles," said Flett. "You have to get a few breaks. If you get one or two goals and come back right away, you can catch a team flat. If you take it easy, they can regroup and get back at you. We happened to be lucky and we got two quick ones."

Blaine Stoughton scored two goals to lift Toronto over California. The Leafs took a 2-0 lead before the game was seven minutes old with Lanny McDonald scoring in the first minute, and Stoughton striking at 6:59. Stoughton gave Toronto its winning goal when he tipped in a soft shot at 12:03 of the third period.

Veteran Bobby Hull and rookie Peter Sullivan scored two goals apiece, leading Winnipeg past Edmonton. The Oilers offered little sustained opposition, managing only six shots on goal in the first period, two in the second and five in the third.

Toronto goalie Mario Vén turned away 40 Phoenix shots to preserve a 2-2 overtime tie with the Roadrunners. Jeff Jacques and Frank Mahovlich each scored in the first period for Toronto. Garry LaRiviere drilled in a shot from the point for Phoenix in the first period and Lauri Mannonen scored on a breakaway in the second for the Roadrunners.

Post, Stacy Lead Windy LPGA Open

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — "If these conditions keep up, a high score will win this tournament," declared Sandra Post after her two-over-par 74 in heavy winds earned her a share of the first-round lead in the Lady Jacksonville Open.

Hollis Stacy tied Miss Post for the lead in the $50,000 Ladies Professional Golf Association event when she sank a 20-foot uphill putt on the final hole Friday. A shot behind them were Sandra Haynie and Kathy McMillen.

Scores soared for the field of 82 pros and nine amateurs because of low temperatures and wind. The temperature was 38 degrees and the winds were blowing out of the northwest at 25 miles per hour when the first group teed off.

Miss Post, who has won two LPGA tournaments in eight years on the tour, wore thermal underwear to combat a circulation problem. She explained, "I wore all I could wear and still swing."

Miss Stacy, a former Rollins College golfer from Savannah, Ga., in her second year on the tour, had four bogeys and two birdies on the 6,900-yard Selva Country Club layout. Miss Post, a native Canadian, had six bogeys and four birdies, including birdies on holes 7-8-9.

All-time leading LPGA money-winner Kathy Whitworth headed a group of nine players at 76, two shots off the pace. Also in the group are Sharon Miller, Shelley Harnden, Louise Bruce, Pam Barnett, Betty Burfeindt, Janet Aulisi, Kathy Farrer and Jocelyne Bourassa.

The field was to be cut to the low 60 scores, plus ties, after Saturday's round. The event is scheduled to end Sunday.

Has Area Flavor KVCC Cage Team

KALAMAZOO — The Kalamazoo Valley Community College basketball team will have a real southwestern Michigan flavor this season.

Seven of the 14 spots on the Kalamazoo Valley roster are taken by area products. The seven are Mike Howard, Benton Harbor; Rodney Turner, South Haven; Roger Walters, Cassopolis; Denny Golins, Cassopolis; Kevin Davis, Paw Paw; Lorene Grayder, Bangor; and Mark Manley, Dowagiac.

According to Kalamazoo Valley coach Sam Simmons, both Howard and Turner will start when the team makes its debut Monday night against Davenport College of Grand Rapids.

Simmons is especially high on Howard, who averaged 18.5 points a game for Benton Harbor last year and broke the single-season rebounding record.

"He's a great leaper, has good speed and a very good jump shot. He's hard to guard one-on-one. I think he'll be one of the top players in the league."

Noward will be used at forward and some at guard while Turner will start at center. Grayder will be the No. 1 man and see plenty of action at forward.

Goins returns from last year when he averaged 14 points as Kalamazoo Valley went 12-19.

Simmons, former Kalamazoo Central All-American who starred at Bradley University, also said Lynn Boltrott, another area player from Lawrence, had made the squad but then decided to quit. Local fans will be able to see the area standouts Jan. 7 when Kalamazoo Valley travels to Lake Michigan College in a Michigan Junior College Athletic Association contest.

Fennville Puts 2 On Star Team

Fennville placed two men on the all-Allegan-Ottawa grid team announced today.

Rick Bushee was selected as a first-team running back. The 5-11, 185-pound senior gained 1,266 yards this season. His best game was against Hamilton where he rushed for 307 yards on 37 carries. Bushee was picked for the elite team last season.

The Blackhawks also placed Jim Lacy on the team. He is a 5-8, 185-pound offensive tackle.

Duluth Team Rips Badgers

DULUTH, Minn. (AP) — Milnesota-Duluth scored four straight goals in the final period to whip Wisconsin 9-6 Friday night in the Western Collegiate Hockey Association.

Bruce Olson, John Rothstein, Rodney Jones and Dave Langevin scored for the Bulldogs in the final stanza to erase a 6-5 deficit.

PAW PAW — Bangor Coolers continued on its scoring rampage Thursday night 112-68 as the Coolers beat Van Buren Motor Supply 112-68. Lynn Boltrott was high pointman for Bangor with 34 points.

Lovely Ladies Homes downed LaPlains, Inc. 74-58 with Barney Barnes Veel netting 28 for the winners. M and M Foods trimmed Tapper Olds 61-62. Bob Dentzman scored 21 for the victors.

Niles Hit By Graduations, Adams Optimistic

NILES — Niles has lost 76 per cent of the scoring from a 13-8 team, but Viking basketball coach Dean Adams is optimistic about the upcoming campaign.

"I don't know of any ball club that is going to blow us out of the gym," declares Adams. "I think we can play with them all...we are going to."

Cooper, Tim Dill and Jeff Miller.

Returning is 6-3 senior forward Bill Brenner, 228 points last season, and 6-0 senior guard Steve Adams, the coach's son and a starting guard a year ago until suffering an early-season knee injury which required surgery.

Tim Garner, a 6-0 junior who was a varsity player as a sophomore last winter, will probably be the other guard. Bounding out the front line at this point are 6-3 senior left-man forward Arnie White and 6-5 senior center Ernest Britten, who didn't play last season.

Adams feels Brenner "could really be a super ballplayer this season. He was the strongest player we had right near the end of last season."

Britten could be Adams' answer for the center job, the only position really up for grabs. "He's got tremendous offensive moves around the basket," explains Adams. "He's a good shooter. If we can get the other things into him he could help us quite a bit."

Toby Ernsperger, Bill Dunham and Kevin Seitz are other front line possibilities. And sophomore Brad Del Braba is expected to make contributions later in the campaign.

The back up guard will probably be Tom Donley, who led a 13-7 junior team in scoring last winter.

Niles finished tied for second in conference play last season at 7-3 and Adams feels his Vikings are again contenders. Adams also sees St. Joseph, Kalamazoo, Loy Norrix, Holland and Battle Creek Lakeview as other strong Big Seven candidates.

Cassopolis 'Just As Strong As Last Year'

CASSOPOLIS — Cassopolis went to the Class C state basketball tournament finals last year and finished with an overall 24-4 record.

"So will the 1975-76 season be a 'downer'?" Nope, not according to Ranger coach Bob Follett.

"Of course, you need a lot of luck to go that far in the tournament, but overall I would say we'll be just as strong as last year."

Follett has good reason to be confident of the Ranger prospects. Cassopolis, which lost to Bay City All Saints in the state finals, returns eight lettermen, including two starters.

One are all-star Roger Walters, the area's top scorer last season, along with starters

Bill Dugery and Mark Scott, but starters Gary Young and Kevin Loder return. Young, a 6-5 center, averaged 15.6 points a game last year and was an all-Blossomland pick, while Loder (6-3) came on strong after being elevated from the junior varsity to average 9.6 in 10 games.

"Young is the best player around in this area as far as I'm concerned," states Follett, whose Rangers ended second in the Blossomland race last season. "He's really improved his ball handling and outside shooting. And I can use Loder at forward or guard. One of our strengths is I can be pretty versatile with our personnel. Plus we have much more depth than last year."

Joining Young in the Ranger two-pivot offense will be Alvin Vanzant, a transfer from Gury (Ind.) Roosevelt. Vanzant, a 6-4, 200-pounder, along with Young, should give the Rangers an awesome rebounding punch.

There's a dogfight for the guard spots with Reggie Scott,

Follett, whose club was rated seventh in the final AP Class C poll last year, sees the Rangers and Buchanan battling for the league crown with Lakeshore and Dowagiac also in the picture.

Flames Looking Forward To Season's Best Week

LANDOVER, Md. (AP) — Atlanta Coach Fred Creighton is looking forward to his Flames meeting the Boston Bruins tonight in the Omni, especially since the team has been winning.

Post, Stacy Lead Windy LPGA Open

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — "If these conditions keep up, a high score will win this tournament," declared Sandra Post after her two-over-par 74 in heavy winds earned her a share of the first-round lead in the Lady Jacksonville Open.

Hollis Stacy tied Miss Post for the lead in the $50,000 Ladies Professional Golf Association event when she sank a 20-foot uphill putt on the final hole Friday. A shot behind them were Sandra Haynie and Kathy McMullen.

Scores soared for the field of 82 pros and nine amateurs because of low temperatures and wind. The temperature was 38 degrees and the winds were blowing out of the northwest at 25 miles per hour when the first group teed off.

Miss Post, who has won two LPGA tournaments in eight years on the tour, wore thermal underwear to combat a circulation problem. She explained, "I wore all I could wear and still swing."

Miss Stacy, a former Rollins College golfer from Savannah, Ga., in her second year on the tour, had four bogeys and two birdies on the 6,300-yard Selva Country Club layout. Miss Post, a native Canadian, had six bogeys and four birdies, including birdies on holes 7-8-9.

All-time leading LPGA money-winner Kathy Whitworth headed a group of nine players at 76, two shots off the pace. Also in the group are Sharon Miller, Shelley Hamlin, Louise Bruce, Pam Barnett, Betty Burfeindt, Janet Aulisi, Kathy Farrer and Jocelyne Bourassa.

The field was to be cut to the low 60 scores, plus ties, after Saturday's round. The event is scheduled to end Sunday.

Has Area Flavor KVCC Cage Team

KALAMAZOO — The Kalamazoo Valley Community College basketball team will have a real southwestern Michigan flavor this season.

Seven of the 14 spots on the Kalamazoo Valley roster are taken by area products. The seven are Mike Howard, Benton Harbor; Rodney Turner, South Haven; Roger Walters, Cassopolis; Donny Goins, Cassopolis; Kevin Davis, Paw Paw; Lorene Gray, Bangor; and Mark Manley, Dowagiac.

According to Kalamazoo Valley coach Sam Simmons, both Howard and Turner will start when the team makes its debut Monday night against Davenport College of Grand Rapids.

Simmons is especially high on Howard, who averaged 18.5 points a game for Benton Harbor last year and broke the single-season rebounding record.

"He's a great leaper, has good speed and a very good jump shot. He's hard to guard one-on-one. I think he'll be one of the top players in the league."

Noward will be used at forward and some at guard while Turner will start at center. Gray will be the No. 6 man and see plenty of action at forward.

Goins returns from last year when he averaged 14 points as Kalamazoo Valley went 12-19.

Simmons, former Kalamazoo Central All-American who starred at Bradley University, also said Lynn Boitnott, another area player from Lawrence, had made the squad but then decided to quit. Local fans will be able to see the area standouts Jan. 7 when Kalamazoo Valley travels to Lake Michigan College in a Michigan Junior College Athletic Association contest.

Fennville Puts 2 On Star Team

Fennville placed two men on the all-Allegan-Ottawa grid team announced today.

Rick Bushee was selected as a first-team running back. The 5-11, 185-pound senior gained 1,206 yards this season. His best game was against Hamilton where he rushed for 307 yards on 37 carries. Bushee was picked for the elite team last season.

The Blackhawks also placed Jim Lacy on the team. He is a 5-9, 185-pound offensive tackle.

Duluth Team Rips Badgers

DULUTH, Minn. (AP) — Mil nesota-Duluth scored four straight goals in the final period to whip Wisconsin 9-6 Friday night in the Western Collegiate Hockey Association.

Bruce Olson, John Rothstein, Rodney Jones and Dave Langevin scored for the Bulldogs in the final stanza to erase a 6-5 deficit.

Niles Hit By Graduations, Adams Optimistic

NILES — Niles has lost 76 per cent of the scoring from a 13-8 team, but Viking basketball coach Dean Adams is optimistic about the upcoming campaign.

"I don't know of any ball club that is going to blow us out of the gym," declares Adams. "I think we can play with them all...we are going to."

Cooper, Tim Dill and Jeff Miller.

Returning is 6-3 senior forward Bill Brenner, 226 points last season, and 6-0 senior guard Steve Adams, the coach's son and a starting guard a year ago until suffering an early-season knee injury which required surgery.

Tim Garner, a 6-0 junior who was a varsity player as a sophomore last winter, will probably be the other guard. Rounding out the front line at this point are 6-3 senior letterman forward Arnie White and 6-5 senior center Ernest Britten, who didn't play last season.

Adams feels Brenner "could really be a super ballplayer this season. He was the strongest player we had right near the end of last season."

Britten could be Adams' answer for the center job, the only position really up for grabs. "He's got tremendous offensive moves around the basket," explains Adams. "He's a good shooter. If we can get the other things into him he could help us quite a bit."

Toby Ernsperger, Bill Dunham and Kevin Seitz are other front line possibilities. And sophomore Brad Del Braba is expected to make contributions later in the campaign.

The back up guard will probably be Tom Donley, who led a 13-7 jayvee team in scor-

Cassopolis 'Just As Strong As Last Year'

CASSOPOLIS — Cassopolis went to the Class C state basketball tournament finals last year and finished with an overall 24-4 record.

So will the 1975-76 season be a "downer?" Nope, not according to Ranger coach Bob Follett.

"Of course, you need a lot of luck to go that far in the tournament, but overall I would say we'll be just as strong as last year."

Follett has good reason to be confident of the Ranger prospects. Cassopolis, which lost to Bay City All Saints in the state finals, returns eight lettermen, including two starters.

Gone are all-star Roger Walters, the area's top scorer last season, along with starters

Bill Dungerey and Mark Scott, but starters Gary Young and Kevin Loder return. Young, a 6-5 center, averaged 15.6 points a game last year and was an all-Blossomland pick while Loder (6-3) came on strong after being elevated from the junior varsity to average 9.6 in 10 games.

"Young is the best player around in this area as far as I'm concerned," states Follett, whose Rangers ended second in the Blossomland race last season. "He's really improved his ball handling and outside shooting. And I can use Loder at forward or guard. One of our strengths is I can be pretty versatile with our personnel. Plus

Joining Young in the Ranger two-pivot offense will be Alvin Vanzant, a transfer from Gary (Ind.) Roosevelt. Vanzant, a 6-4, 200-pounder, along with Young, should give the Rangers an awesome rebounding punch.

There's a dogfight for the guard spots with Reggie Scott,

ARKANSAS: The Motto Here Is 'Let The People Rule'

By MARY GIACOMINI
FORT SMITH, Ark. (NEA) — About all Arkansas doesn't have is ocean frontage and desert. Almost everything else can be found within her 53,104 square mile boundaries. Her abundance of natural resources has prompted many a teacher to tell gradeschoolers, "Arkansas is the only state which could be and other farm operations deal with peach and apple orchards and grape vineyards. All this is true, but there is a more basic Arkansas. And he's not so far removed from his ancestors who fought mudslides, raging rivers, mosquitoes and rocky tracks to settle in a wilderness visited by few white men before them. He's the fellow who prompted confluence of the Arkansas, turned left and went upstream. De Soto had started a trend and was followed about 100 years later by all sorts of explorers, including Rene Robert Cavelier, Sieur de la Salle and his lieutenant Henri de Tonti, who left a few men at the first white settlement, Arkansas Post.

It still wasn't exactly the best place to move a family so Arkansas was mostly inhabited by the original dwellers — Indians and critters who managed to co-exist with a few fur traders until the first real settlers trickled in from the new United States, after 1783.

Give or take a few decades, it seemed Arkansas was always being traded back and forth between rulers as part of the Louisiana Territory. It went from France to Spain to France to Spain and headed back for France again when, with the rest of Louisiana, was ceded to the U.S.

After a brief switch to the Missouri Territory it finally got its own name and became Arkansas Territory, gaining statehood in 1836. In the meantime, settlers had been coming in droves, especially after the War of 1812.

Paddlewheels found the river and soon traffic was moving at a fast clip. From the rivers and trails, folks spread to the mountains, finding peace and a way of life uninterrupted by the hustle they had left.

Paved roads have pushed into the wilderness but only a few feet from the blacktop it's easy to get lost in what used to be total wilderness. That basic Arkansas is still there, too.

completely self-sustaining if walled off from all the rest." But therein lies the sleeper. For years, Arkansians (especially those who don't live in the mountains) have been trying to rid themselves of the barefoot hillbilly image. They've worked hard at it, building fine schools, sprawling urban areas and the most modern of shopping malls. It's those same urban-oriented folks who promote Arkansas' natural resources, telling of diamonds (real ones you can pick up off the ground), manganese, mercury, clays and limestone — all provide for forest industrial needs. Lush forests yield more lumber than can be used and pulpwood plants produce paper. Huge cotton, soybean, rice the state motto: "Regnat Populus" (the people rule). The beginning of the Bicentennial celebration has made more and more people seek him out and try to return to his simple way of life. The hills and valleys are there as they've always been, but now they're becoming a means of escape. And that basic fellow is still living there, ready to show how this part of the country was carved from the wilds. Back when Arkansas was known as little more than an Indian name for a river (believed to mean "people downstream"), this territory had its first white visitors along about 1541 when Hernando De Soto ventured by. De Soto and his followers paddled and poled their boats up the Mississippi to the Washington (AP) — President Ford promises to consider naming a woman to the Supreme Court. But a list of candidates drawn up by the attorney general in consultation with White House aides may be all male. Touring Southern states Friday, Ford pledged to consider women candidates, including Carla A. Hills, secretary of Housing and Urban Development, and North Carolina Supreme Court Justice Susie M. Sharp.

National Public Radio reported that the list includes five federal appellate judges, assistant Senate Republican Leader Robert P. Griffin of Michigan, Rep. Charles E. Wiggins, R-Calif., and Solicitor Gen. Robert H. Bork. Public Radio reported that the list includes another federal appellate judge, a university professor and a Maine attorney. All are men.

But Ford said, "The fact that a person is a woman doesn't rule her out." He acknowledged that his wife is lobbying for a woman nominee, the first in history, and that she "has considerable" influence. In Raleigh, N.C., the President was asked whether Judge Sharp, 58, might be in the running. "We will of course put her name in among those who are being considered," he replied.

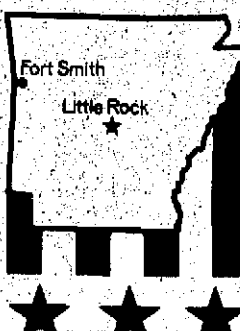

At one point, he took pains to clarify a statement that he had no further Cabinet changes in mind. Ford said he did not mean to preclude Mrs. Hills, Levi and Transportation Secretary William T. Coleman from consideration for the high court.

seceded from the Union in 1861, only after the Civil War began, and many Arkansians (over 10,000) fought on the Union side. The state rejoined the Union in 1868.

Accord Reached On Sahara

MAKRAKECH, Morocco (AP) — Morocco and Mauritania have reached tentative agreement with Spain to partition the Spanish Sahara between them when Spain withdraws from the northwest African territory early next year, according to Moroccan officials. Government sources in Madrid confirmed a pact had been reached and said that as part of the agreement Spain will continue to share in the territory's rich phosphate deposits. Moroccan Premier Ahmed Osman, returning from negotiations in Madrid, said, "We have been able to overcome all the difficulties in order to preserve the security of this region."

Recovery Slows Down

WASHINGTON (AP) — The latest government economic statistics indicate that the boomlet generated by recovery from the worst recession since the 1930s is giving way to a more sluggish national growth rate. The Federal Reserve Board reported Friday that the total output of the nation's mines, factories and utilities rose by four-tenths of 1 per cent in October, following September's 1.9 per cent increase. Although October represented the sixth consecutive monthly rise, it was the smallest since a two-tenths of 1 per cent climb when recovery began in May. September's increase had been the largest in 11 years.

Frees Hostage, Surrenders

AMES, Iowa (AP) — "If I can't have him, nobody's going to have him," said a young father who held his estranged wife hostage with a shotgun and admitted killing her two-year-old son. Huddled in the corridor of an office building, Thomas Seehan, 25, repeatedly pleaded with police to kill him. But after nearly six hours Friday, he released his 22-year-old wife, Linda, unharmed and surrendered peacefully to police. The body of their child, Thomas Jr., was found fully clothed in bed in Seehan's trailer home. The county medical examiner said death was caused by asphyxiation.

Three GPs Sentenced

FRANKFURT, West Germany (AP) — Three American soldiers, one of them from Detroit, were sentenced Friday to terms ranging from eight to 13 years for robbing and strangling a German. Pfc. George L. Dallas Jr., 24, of Charleston, S.C., received 13 years, Sp4 Dennis C. Thomas, 22, of Detroit, 12 years and Pfc. Donald W. Singleton, 27, of Evansville, Ind., eight years. The three were bus drivers assigned to the same Frankfurt motor pool where the victim, 35-year-old Martin Anders, was employed as a civilian driver. According to testimony, Anders, allegedly a black-marketeer in the free American alcohol and cigarettes, met the three in a local bar last Jan. 24 and agreed to drive them to a suburb for 36. On a forest lane outside Frankfurt, Singleton robbed Anders of his wallet and Dallas and Thomas then strangled him with a belt and the three split the money, the testimony said.

Almost everything else can be found within her 53,104 square mile boundaries.

Her abundance of natural resources has prompted many a teacher to tell gradeschoolers, "Arkansas is the only state which could be and other farm operations deal with more basic needs, along with peach and apple orchards and grape vineyards.

All this is true, but there is a more basic Arkansan. And he's not so far removed from his ancestors who fought mudslides, raging rivers, mosquitoes and rocky tracks to settle in a wilderness visited by few white men before them.

He's the fellow who prompted

De Soto had started a trend and was followed about 100 years later by all sorts of explorers, including Rene Robert Cavelier, Sieur de la Salle and his lieutenant Henri de Tonti, who left a few men at the first white settlement, Arkansas Post.

It still wasn't exactly the best place to move a family so Arkansas was mostly inhabited by the original dwellers — Indians and critters who managed to co-exist with a few fur traders until the first real settlers trickled in from the new United States, after 1763.

Give or take a few decades, it seemed Arkansas was always being traded back and forth between rulers as part of the Louisiana Territory. It went from France to Spain to France to Spain and headed back for France again when, with the rest of Louisiana, was ceded to the U.S.

After a brief switch to the Missouri Territory it finally got its own name and became Arkansas Territory, gaining statehood in 1836.

In the meantime, settlers had been coming in droves, especially after the War of 1812.

Paddlewheels found the river and soon traffic was moving at a fast clip.

From the rivers and trails, folks spread to the mountains, finding peace and a way of life uninterrupted by the hustle they had left.

Paved roads have pushed in to the wilderness but only a few feet from the blacktop it's easy to get lost in what used to be total wilderness.

That basic Arkansan is still there, too.

In the mountains he farms, hunts and fishes; in the south he listens to the squeak of new and old oil well pumps bringing up black gold from the ground; on the plains he farms cotton, wheat and soybeans; in the marshes he raises rice and hunts ducks.

In the winter he shivers when the wind changes to the north-west and sweeps down across the mountains bringing snow that clings to mountains, the highest between the Appalachians and the Rockies.

In the spring he welcomes the mockingbirds, revered as the state bird. Also in the spring our man patiently endures the heavy rains which mean good crops despite the upcoming sweltering summer.

And, in the fall he watches as the whole world changes colors and says winter's on the way, but spring's not far behind.

completely self-sustaining if walled off from all the rest."

But, therein lies the sleeper.

For years, Arkansans (especially those who don't live in the mountains) have been trying to rid themselves of the barefoot hillbilly image.

They've worked hard at it, building fine schools, sprawling urban areas and the most modern of shopping malls.

It's those same urban-oriented folks who promote Arkansas' natural resources, telling of.

Diamonds (real ones you can pick up off the ground), manganese, mercury, clays and limestone — all provide for most industrial needs.

Lush forests yield more lumber than can be used and pulpwood plants produce paper.

the state motto: "Regnat Populus" (the people rule).

The beginning of the Bicentennial celebration has made more and more people seek him out and try to return to his simple way of life.

The hills and valleys are there as they've always been, but now they're becoming a means of escape. And that basic fellow is still living there, ready to show how this part of the country was carved from the wilds.

Back when Arkansas was known as little more than an Indian name for a river (believed to mean "people downstream"), this territory had its first white visitors along about 1541 when Hernando De Soto ventured by.

De Soto and his followers paddled and poled their boats up the Mississippi to the

Accord Reached On Sahara

MARRAKECH, Morocco (AP) — Morocco and Mauritania have reached tentative agreement with Spain to partition the Spanish Sahara between them when Spain withdraws from the northwest African territory early next year, according to Moroccan officials. Government sources in Madrid confirmed a pact had been reached and said that as part of the agreement Spain will continue to share in the territory's rich phosphate deposits. Moroccan Premier Ahmed Osman, returning from negotiations in Madrid, said, "We have been able to overcome all the difficulties in order to preserve the security of this region."

Recovery Slows Down

WASHINGTON (AP) — The latest government economic statistics indicate that the boomlet generated by recovery from the worst recession since the 1930s is giving way to a more sluggish national growth rate. The Federal Reserve Board reported Friday that the total output of the nation's mines, factories and utilities rose by four-tenths of 1 per cent in October, following September's 1.9 per cent increase. Although October represented the sixth consecutive monthly rise, it was the smallest since a two-tenths of 1 per cent climb when recovery began in May. September's increase had been the largest in 11 years.

Frees Hostage, Surrenders

AMES, Iowa (AP) — "If I can't have him, nobody's going to have him," said a young father who held his estranged wife hostage with a shotgun and admitted killing their two-year-old son. Huddled in the corridor of an office building, Thomas Seehan, 25, repeatedly pleaded with police to kill him. But after nearly six hours Friday, he released his 22-year-old wife, Linda, unharmed and surrendered peacefully to police. The body of their child, Thomas Jr., was found fully clothed in bed in Seehan's trailer home. The county medical examiner said death was caused by asphyxiation.

Three GI's Sentenced

FRANKFURT, West Germany (AP) — Three American soldiers, one of them from Detroit, were sentenced Friday to terms ranging from eight to 13 years for robbing and strangling a German.

Pfc. George L. Dallas Jr., 24, of Charleston, S.C., received 13 years, Spec. 4 Dennis C. Thomas, 22, of Detroit, 12 years and Pfc. Donald W. Singleton, 27, of Evansville, Ind., eight years.

The three were bus drivers assigned to the same Frankfurt motor pool where the victim, 55-year-old Martin Anders, was employed as a civilian driver.

According to testimony, Anders, allegedly a black-marketeer in tax-free American alcohol and cigarettes, met the three in a local bar last Jan. 24 and agreed to drive them to a suburb for $8.

On a forest lane outside Frankfurt, Singleton robbed Anders of $363 and Dallas and Thomas then strangled him with a belt and the three split the money, the testimony said.

MULLS DOUGLAS SUCCESSOR Woman Will Be Considered

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford promises to consider naming a woman to the Supreme Court. But a list of candidates drawn up by the attorney general in consultation with White House aides may be all male.

Touring Southern states Friday, Ford pledged to consider women candidates, including Carla A. Hills, secretary of Housing and Urban Development, and North Carolina Supreme Court Justice Susie M. Sharp.

He declined to discuss the qualifications he seeks in a nominee to succeed retired Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas, but he said he hopes to announce his choice "within three weeks."

Meanwhile, an American Bar Association screening committee of 12 attorneys prepared for a private Sunday morning conference here for a preliminary discussion of prospective nominees submitted in a list by Atty. Gen. Edward H. Levi.

Justice Department spokesman Robert Havel said the list was drawn up in consultation with White House aides.

The New York Times and

National Public Radio reported that the list includes five federal appellate judges, assistant Senate Republican Leader Robert P. Griffin of Michigan, Rep. Charles E. Wiggins, R-Calif., and Solicitor Gen. Robert H. Bork. Public Radio reported that the list includes another federal appellate judge, a university professor and a Maine attorney. All are men.

But Ford said, "The fact that a person is a woman doesn't rule her out." He acknowledged that his wife is lobbying for a woman nominee, the first in history, and that she "has considerable" influence.

In Raleigh, N.C., the President was asked whether Judge Sharp, 68, might be in the running.

"We will of course put her name in among those who are being considered," he replied.

At one point, he took pains to clarify a statement that he had no further Cabinet changes in mind. Ford said he did not mean to preclude Mrs. Hills, Levi and Transportation Secretary William T. Coleman from consideration for the high court.

"If I nominate any one of those three, I would think it was a promotion" and a quite different Cabinet change than his recent firing of James R. Schlesinger as defense secretary.

Ford said the ABA committee's "observations will certainly be considered by me," but he said he also has asked others for suggestions.

The federal judges whose names appear in most reports on the list sent to the ABA include Arlin M. Adams of the 3rd Circuit in Philadelphia; Paul H. Roney, St. Petersburg, Fla., of the 5th Circuit Court in New Orleans; John Paul Stevens of the 7th Circuit in Chicago; William H. Webster of the 8th Circuit in St. Louis; and J. Clifford Wallace, San Diego, of the 9th Circuit Court in San Francisco.

Public Radio said Judge Alfred Goodwin of Portland, Ore., also a member of the 9th Circuit Court; Vincent McKusick, a lawyer in Portland, Maine; and Dallin Oaks, president of Brigham Young University in Provo, Utah, also were on the list.

The Washington Star said

Levi, Deputy Atty. Gen. Harold R. Tyler, and at least one woman, Judge Shirley Hufstetter of the 9th Circuit Court, are on the list.

Niles Legion Named In $219,853 Suit

An Indiana woman has filed suit in Berrien Circuit court against a Niles township American Legion post for injuries she allegedly sustained when she fell while at a dance.

The plaintiff, Goldie Griscott, of St. Joseph county, seeks $219,853 damages from the LaRue Messenger post 26 and Louis Stover, post firearms and safety officer. The suit claims, the woman was at a dance at the post's clubhouse on April 28, 1973, and fell while dancing, dislocating her knee, which later required surgery and insertion of a plastic kneecap.

The suit charges the post and Stover were negligent by spreading slippery shuffleboard wax on the dance floor.

Court Overturns Conviction; No Search Warrant

The Michigan Court of Appeals has reversed the conviction of a Benton Harbor man who was sentenced to 40 months to 5 years in prison, ruling police should have obtained a search warrant before confiscating evidence at the man's home.

Reversed and remanded back to Berrien Circuit court for a new trial was the conviction of Tommie Heard, 24, Heard in June, 1974, was sentenced to prison by Judge Julian E. Hughes after a jury convicted Heard of receiving and concealing stolen property.

He was charged with concealing a typewriter allegedly stolen Feb. 2, 1974, from Eau Claire high school.

The appellate court noted two Berrien sheriff's deputies observed another man carrying a tape recorder at 1 a.m., and a computer check revealed the recorder was one of the items stolen from the school. The man admitted the burglary, and said some of the stolen loot was at his home and some more at Heard's residence.

The court noted the officers went to Heard's home and arrested him as he opened the door, and, once inside the house, spotted the partially covered typewriter in the kitchen. The typewriter was the only item introduced into evidence in Heard's trial.

The court agreed with Heard's contention that the search and seizure did not fall within the bounds of warrantless search requirements, since the police "anticipated stolen property being in (Heard's) home and went there, without a search warrant, intending to search for it."

The court held the discovery of the typewriter was not "inevitable," which is one of the mandates of a warrantless search, and noted: "The police should have obtained, or at least sought to obtain, a search warrant."

Ask Your Dentist

By ALFRED E. SEYLER, D.D.S.

Q. How can a 5-year-old child catch pyorrhea? My dentist told me our daughter has it and I don't believe such a thing is possible — do you?

A. First of all, one doesn't "catch" pyorrhea. It is a disease which does occur in children, especially when oral hygiene is poor.

Some time ago, a team of investigators found that 72% of some several thousand children they examined had periodical disease, (pyorrhea). The children were from 3 to 18 years of age, and boys were more likely than girls to have the problem.

Those of us who do much dentistry for children are familiar with the irritation and inflammation of the gums when children are erupting their second teeth. Basically, this inflammation resembles pyorrhea, and perhaps your daughter has developed it because she is getting new teeth, especially the lower teeth.

Even though "tartar" is not usually found in young children, it does occur, and it can be the cause of irritation.

As far as treatment is concerned, probably the most effective would be for you to brush your daughter's teeth and to check out her own brushing. Even children can be taught how to use dental floss properly, as well as to use a toothbrush.

Q. What causes bruxism? My husband is supposed to wear a mouth guard to prevent it, but that thing doesn't do much for our love making! Isn't there some medical treatment for his trouble?

A. Bruxism is the habitual grinding of one's teeth either at night or during waking hours. Few people are aware of their tooth grinding, but the effects can be severe and harmful to both the teeth, the gums and the bone around the teeth.

The causes of bruxism are many. Chief among them seems to be emotional tension caused by anger, hate, frustrations or anxiety. Some authors tell us that bruxism may be caused by a vitamin deficiency, intestinal parasites (worms) or poor nutrition.

Children sometimes grind their teeth almost down to the gum, particularly at the age when they are losing their primary teeth and the permanent ones are coming in. This is often an attempt by the child to smooth off the high spots on the new teeth, so the jaws can slide easily from side to side.

Physicians and nurses have noticed bruxism as they pass through hospital wards at night. Soldiers often complain that their fellow soldiers interfere with their sleep because of tooth grinding.

Most people who clench their teeth do so unconsciously and are unaware they can cause damage to fillings, bridges and the teeth themselves, to say nothing about the harmful effects on the bone and gums around the teeth.

Perhaps it is better that the mouth guard your husband wears now will help him to avoid the need for dentures later on. And besides — he can take it out for a while — can't he?

Fish Thrive On Sewage

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Fish grow twice as fast in Michigan State University's recycled sewage water than they do in Michigan lakes, says an MSU professor.

Largemouth bass have grown six-and-a-half inches since they were placed in one of four experimental MSU lakes six months ago, said Howard E. Johnson, a fisheries professor who is directing the experiment.

The lakes, located south of the campus, cleanse water from the college town's sewage treatment plant about five miles away, he said.

IMPROVEMENT PLAN: Even a small bedroom can sleep two if you build this corner arrangement of bunk beds. Pull-out drawers under each bunk provide storage for bedding or clothing. Table in corner separates bunk units and serves for a lamp. Cabinets over each bunk can store games, toys, etc. Build both bunks or only one. Unit projects 8 feet, 9 1/2 inches in each direction from corner. Paint or stain bunks and cabinets, as you prefer.

Got Plaster Walls With Cracks? There's Special Knack For Patches

By ANDY LANG
AP Newsfeatures

Patching cracks in a plaster wall before redecorating is a necessary preliminary step.

While everybody takes the time and trouble to fill in holes in walls before painting, many feel that it is a waste of time to repair small cracks. They figure the paint will completely cover the cracks.

They are right up to a point. Cracks will seem to disappear after a wall has been painted — but it's only a question of time before they reappear.

A thin crack in plaster (often referred to as a hairline crack) can be repaired simply by wetting it thoroughly and pushing in patching plaster with a putty knife or a finger.

With a larger crack, there is a possibility that the patch will not stay in place. The opening therefore, should be undercut.

This consists of making the bottom part of the opening wider than the top, which locks in part of the new plaster under the old. This can be done with putty knife or, even better, a beer can opener.

As with any kind of plaster repair, the opening must be moistened completely before the patching begins. Also, be sure to remove all loose particles of the old plaster.

When the opening is quite large, it is better to apply the patching compound in two layers. Insert it in the opening to within a fraction of an inch of the surface. Allow it to dry for several hours or overnight, then add more compound and smooth it hard with a putty knife.

By doing it this way, you will prevent shrinkage, which sometimes occurs when a large opening is filled at one time.

Professional painters will often paint right over a patch, but it is preferable, especially for the do-it-yourselfer, to wait a day or two. The patch is then primed with a sealer or a dab of paint before either repainting the entire wall or matching the patch with the rest of the wall.

Cracks in plaster walls occur for a number of reasons, the most common of which are settling of the house and vibration or ignore the cracks — or move check marks for a period of weeks, you can go ahead with the repair job.

Sometimes, a home owner is plagued with cracks for as long as he lives in the house.

This is the case when a home is located near a street or highway where heavy trucks caused the structure to vibrate.

There isn't too much the owner can do about this except to make up his mind that he'll have to do periodic patching — or ignore the cracks — or move

WINTER INJURY

Winter injury to trees and shrubs takes many forms but I'll just mention the most common. Longitudinal bark splits on the south and southwest side of the trunk of young Silver Maple, Norway Maple, Rome, Golden Delicious and Greening apples, flowering cherries, and Linden trees. The injury results on extremely cold but sunny days when the temperature difference between the sunny and shady side of the trunk causes the bark to split. Paint the south-southwest side with white latex paint or secure a board to that side of the trunk to keep it in the shade, thus equalizing the trunk temperature. Trunk wrappings may also help.

Drying out is another common problem. Plants continue to lose moisture through the winter. If moisture is not available to roots, the plant will suffer from desiccation. Usually the soil becomes dry because it's under the eave of the house, it's sandy or the exposed soil may freeze solid for an extended period and prevent water uptake. Insure that plants have adequate moisture, especially those in windswept, sandy locations. Mulches around the base of the trees and shrubs will help conserve moisture during winter months.

IMPROVEMENT PLAN: Even a small bedroom can sleep two if you build this corner arrangement of bunk beds. Pull-out drawers under each bunk provide storage for bedding or clothing. Table in corner separates bunk units and serves for a lamp. Cabinets over each bunk can store games, toys, etc. Build both bunks or only one. Unit projects 8 feet, 9 3/4 inches in each direction from corner. Paint or stain bunks and cabinets, as you prefer.

Got Plaster Walls With Cracks? There's Special Knack For Patches

By ANDY LANG
AP Newsfeatures

Patching cracks in a plaster wall before redecorating is a necessary preliminary step. While everybody takes the time and trouble to fill in holes in walls before painting, many feel that it is a waste of time to repair small cracks. They figure the paint will completely cover the cracks.

They are right up to a point. Cracks will seem to disappear after a wall has been painted — but it's only a question of time before they reappear. A thin crack in plaster (often referred to as a hairline crack) can be repaired simply by wetting it thoroughly and pushing in patching plaster with a putty knife or a finger.

With a larger crack, there is a possibility that the patch will not stay in place. The opening therefore, should be undercut. This consists of making the bottom part of the opening wider than the top, which locks in part of the new plaster under the old. This can be done with putty knife or, even better, a beer can opener. As with any kind of plaster repair, the opening must be moistened completely before the patching begins. Also, be sure to remove all loose particles of the old plaster.

When the opening is quite large, it is better to apply the patching compound in two layers. Insert it in the opening to within a fraction of an inch of the surface. Allow it to dry for several hours or overnight, then add more compound and smooth it hard with a putty knife.

By doing it this way, you will prevent shrinkage, which sometimes occurs when a large opening is filled at one time. Professional painters will often paint right over a patch, but it is preferable, especially for the do-it-yourselfer, to wait a day or two. The patch is then primed with a sealer or a dab of paint before either repainting the entire wall or matching the patch with the rest of the wall.

Building News

check marks for a period of weeks, you can go ahead with the repair job.

Sometimes, a home owner is plagued with cracks for as long as he lives in the house.

This is the case when a home is located near a street or highway where heavy trucks caused the structure to vibrate.

There isn't too much the owner can do about this except to make up his mind that he'll have to do periodic patching — or ignore the cracks — or move.

WINTER INJURY

Winter injury to trees and shrubs takes many forms but I'll just mention the most common: Longitudinal bark splits on the south and southwest side of the trunk of young Silver Maple, Norway Maple, Rome, Golden Delicious and Greening apples, flowering cherries, and Linden trees. The injury results on extremely cold but sunny days when the temperature difference between the sunny and shady side of the trunk causes the bark to split. Paint the south-southwest side with white latex paint or secure a board to that side of the trunk to keep it in the shade, thus equalizing the trunk temperature. Trunk wrappings may also help.

Drying out is another common problem. Plants continue to lose moisture through the winter. If moisture is not available to roots, the plant will suffer from desiccation. Usually the soil becomes dry because it's under the eave of the house, it's sandy or the exposed soil may freeze solid for an extended period and prevent water uptake. Insure that plants have adequate moisture, especially those in windswept, sandy locations. Mulches around the base of the trees and shrubs will help conserve moisture during winter months.

NEWS OF MARKETS

Stock Market Moves Up

By CHET CURRIER
AP Business Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market took a more hopeful view of New York City's financial prospects this past week and jumped ahead in the heaviest activity since mid-summer.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials climbed 17.87 to 853.67 for its sharpest weekly rise since it picked up 20.50 points eight weeks before, in mid-September.

Standard & Poor's 500 stock index rose 1.64 to 80.97, and the New York Stock Exchange composite index was up .92 at 48.16.

Big Board volume swelled to a daily average of 18.01 million shares, touching consecutive four-month highs of 23.96 million on Wednesday and 25.07 million Thursday.

The over-all count on the NYSE showed a lopsided 1,225-to-370 edge for advancing issues over declines among the 2,038 traded.

The rally began stirring on Tuesday, when a number of Washington leaders seemed to be dropping hints that opposition in the capital to the idea of federal help for New York City was softening.

A major figure in that picture was Arthur F. Burns, chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, who said he was closer to concluding that such assistance was necessary than he had been previously.

The market's strongest showing of the week came Wednesday, when some evident catchup buying by investing institutions which had been closed for Veterans Day the day before helped push the Dow up 13.70 points.

But the market was able to make few further gains Thursday and Friday in the face of profit-taking and many still-unanswered questions surrounding the city's situation.

At week's end President Ford reiterated his opposition to the idea of federal help for the city. But Wall Street seemed to be sticking firmly to the belief that he might eventually give the okay for some short term measures to tide the city over as it worked to straighten out its finances.

In the midst of all that, most other economic news produced little visible impact on stocks. Stocks of New York City banks — major city creditors — posted some broad gains on the hopes that a default might be averted.

Chicorp climbed 1 1/2 to 30 3/4 in active trading; Chase Manhattan jumped 2 1/4 to 27 3/4, and J.P. Morgan was up 3/4 at 54.

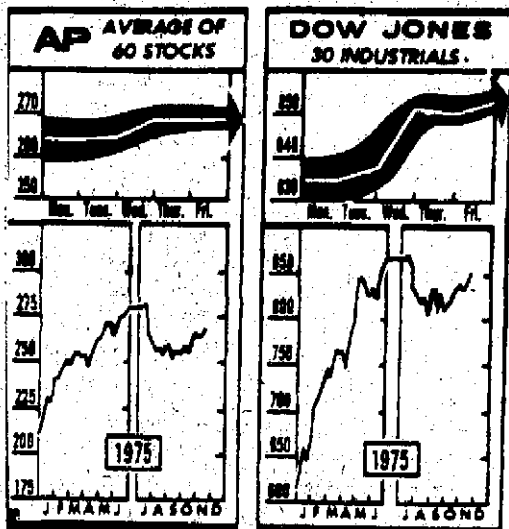

General Motors dropped 1/4 to 56 1/4. The stock sank as low as 54 1/4 on Monday amid talk of a possible antitrust investigation by the government into the company, then rebounded as analysts pointed out that any antitrust action would probably take years.

Pan American World Airways, the week's most-active issue, picked up 1/4 to 5 1/4.

In all, 191 Big Board stocks reached new highs for the year, against 56 new lows.

On the American Stock Exchange, the market value index gained 2.34 to 85.66.

The Associated Press 60-stock average closed at 200.0, up 4.5.

MARKET MOVES UP: The Dow Jones industrial average closed at 853.67 Friday, up 17.87 from the week prior. The Associated Press average closed at 200.0, marking an increase of 4.5 over the same period. The rise was cited due to investors' optimism over federal aid to New York City! (AP Wirephoto Chart)

INVESTORS' GUIDE

By SAM SEULSKY
Q. I respect your advice and realize you must take a conservative view when it comes to senior citizens investing. But aren't you downgrading triple B bonds? I understand these are approved for bank investment — and certainly banks are conservative enough. Also, bonds are superior to preferreds and common in claims against profits and assets. So why do you stick to AAA and AA?

A. When you said that I must take a conservative view, you said it all.

Do I downgrade BBB ratings? I suppose you are right: I grade them below A, or AA, or AAA.

But now we leave opinion and prejudice (and fear, on my part) and get to facts:

1) All BBB bonds are NOT ruled legal for ALL bank investments. If you look through the Standard & Poor's bond guide, for example, you will find BBBs which are approved for bank investment in New Hampshire, but not in Massachusetts; in New York, but not in Connecticut; or only in New Jersey and many other combinations. So look before you leap.

2) ...and certainly (banks) are conservative enough. That, if you will pardon my saying so, is pretty loose talk. Some banks are conservative "enough" and some are far from being sufficiently conservative. The morning paper brings news of a Western bank failure — the 10th this year. It's been 33 years since we have had as many as 10 bank failures in one year — and the reason this time was poor (definitely NOT conservative) judgment on loans. Thanks to the FDIC there will be no losses to depositors. I fear that in the real estate mortgage craze of a few years back, many banks were far from "conservative."

3) Bonds do have prior claim on assets and earnings. But that doesn't mean every bond is safe — far, far from it. A prior claim on zero or a deficit is no source of comfort. There is many a preferred common stock I would prefer to many a bond or debenture. Don't let labels alone influence your investment thinking.

4) If one bond yields 8 per cent and another 12 per cent, you can bet your boots there is a reason for the difference. Professional bond buyers are perhaps the least sentimental people on Wall St.

Tax Item: The Treasury reminds savings bond holders that there is always the possibility of a tax liability in any rollover transactions. If you have any questions about the tax consequences of a change in name on E or H bonds, consult your local Internal Revenue Service district director or write to the commissioner of Internal Revenue, Washington, D.C. 20224.

NEWS OF MARKETS

Stock Market Moves Up

By CHET CURRIER
AP Business Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market took a more hopeful view of New York City's financial prospects this past week and jumped ahead in the heaviest activity since mid-summer.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials climbed 17.87 to 853.67 for its sharpest weekly rise since it picked up 20.50 points eight weeks before, in mid-September.

Standard & Poor's 500 stock index rose 1.64 to 90.97, and the New York Stock Exchange composite index was up .92 at 48.16.

Big Board volume swelled to a daily average of 19.01 million shares, touching consecutive four-month highs of 23.96 million on Wednesday and 25.07 million Thursday.

The over-all count on the NYSE showed a lopsided 1,225-to-570 edge for advancing issues over declines among the 2,038 traded.

The rally began stirring on Tuesday, when a number of Washington leaders seemed to be dropping hints that opposition in the capital to the idea of federal help for New York City was softening.

A major figure in that picture was Arthur F. Burns, chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, who said he was closer to concluding that such assistance was necessary than he had been previously.

The market's strongest showing of the week came Wednesday, when some evident catchup buying by investing institutions which had been closed for Veterans Day the day before helped push the Dow up 13.70 points.

But the market was able to make few further gains Thursday and Friday in the face of profit-taking and many still unanswered questions surrounding the city's situation.

At week's end President Ford reiterated his opposition to the idea of federal help for the city. But Wall Streeters seemed to be sticking firmly to the belief that he might eventually give the okay for some short term measures to tide the city over as it worked to straighten out its finances.

In the midst of all that, most other economic news produced little visible impact on stocks.

Stocks of New York City banks — major city creditors — posted some broad gains on the hopes that a default might be averted.

Citicorp climbed 1½ to 30½, in active trading; Chase Manhattan jumped 2½ to 27½, and J.P. Morgan was up 3½ at 54.

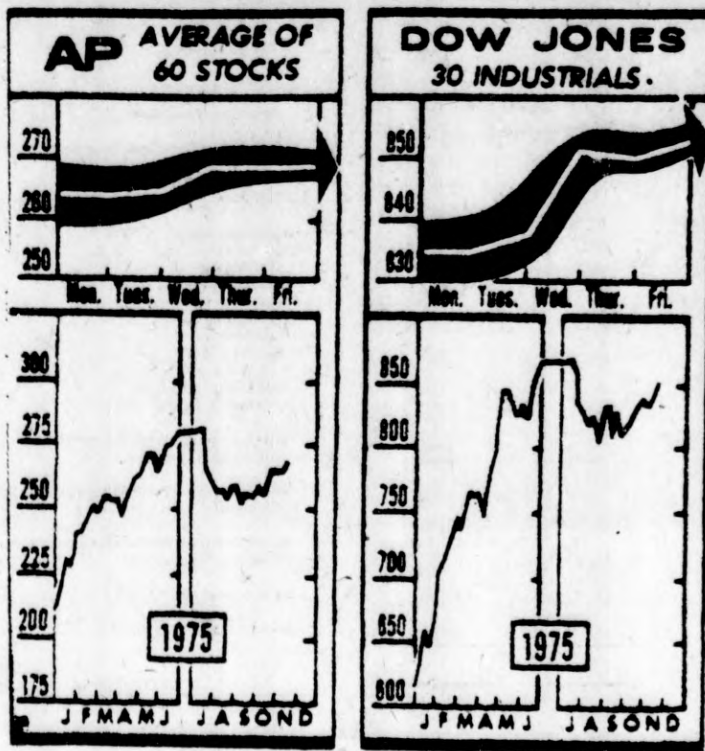

General Motors dropped 7½ to 56½. The stock sank as low as 54½ on Monday amid talk of a possible antitrust investigation by the government into the company, then rebounded as analysts pointed out that any antitrust action would probably take years.

Pan American World Airways, the week's most-active issue, picked up ¾ to 5¼.

In all, 191 Big Board stocks reached new highs for the year, against 55 new lows.

On the American Stock Exchange, the market value index gained 2.34 to 85.68.

The Associated Press 60-stock average closed at 269.0, up 4.5.

MARKET MOVES UP: The Dow Jones industrial average closed at 853.67 Friday, up 17.87 from the week prior. The Associated Press average closed at 269.0, marking an increase of 4.5 over the same period. The rise was cited due to investors' optimism over federal aid to New York City! (AP Wirephoto Chart)

INVESTORS' GUIDE

By SAM SHULSKY

Q. I respect your advice and realize you must take a conservative view when it comes to senior citizen investing. But aren't you downgrading triple B bonds? I understand these are approved for bank investment — and certainly banks are conservative enough. Also, bonds are superior to preferreds and common in claims against profits and assets. So why do you stick to AAA and AA?

A. When you said that I must take a conservative view, you said it all.

Do I downgrade BBB ratings? I suppose you are right: I grade them below A, or AA, or AAA.

But now we leave opinion and prejudice (and fear, on my part) and get to facts:

1) All BBB bonds are NOT ruled legal for ALL bank investments. If you look through the Standard & Poor's bond guide, for example, you will find BBBs which are approved for bank investment in New Hampshire, but not in Massachusetts; in New York, but not in Connecticut; or only in New Jersey and many other combinations. So look before you leap.

2) "...and certainly (banks) are conservative enough." That, if you will pardon my saying so, is pretty loose talk. Some banks are conservative "enough" and some are far from being sufficiently conservative. The morning paper brings news of a Western bank failure — the 10th this year. It's been 33 years since we have had as many as 10 bank failures in one year — and the reason this time was poor (definitely NOT conservative) judgment on loans. Thanks to the FDIC there will be no losses to depositors. I fear that in the real estate mortgage craze of a few years back, many banks were far from "conservative."

3) Bonds do have prior claim on assets and earnings. But that doesn't mean every bond is safe — far, far from it. A prior claim on zero or a deficit is no source of comfort. There is many a preferred common stock I would prefer to many a bond or debenture. Don't let labels alone influence your investment thinking.

4) If one bond yields 8 per cent and another 12 per cent, you can bet your boots there is a reason for the difference. Professional bond buyers are perhaps the least sentimental people on Wall St.

Tax Item: The Treasury reminds savings bond holders that there is always the possibility of a tax liability in any resell transactions. If you have any questions about the tax consequences of a change in name on E or H bonds, consult your local Internal Revenue Service district director or write to the commissioner of Internal Revenue, Washington, D.C. 20224.

NOW NOTES NO WOMEN ON TWO POLICE FORCES

In your editorial of Nov. 12, 1975, you state that the recognition of Mary (Muggable Mary) Glatze's accomplishments as a NYPD detective reaffirms your faith in our system of law enforcement and the judicial system.

I wonder if her story did anything for the men in the Berrien County Sheriff Department or Berrien's Metro Crime Unit? Except for the matrons at the Sheriff's department, there are no women in positions similar to men law enforcement officers in either of the above units. With 43 per cent of the county population being female, the time has come for women to discuss discrimination in local law enforcement hiring practices. The City of Chicago learned recently that it is very expensive to discriminate.

QUESTIONS SCHOOL PICTURE POLICY

In reference to your editorial dated 11/1/75. Enclosed you will find a photocopy of a snapshot and rubber stamped message.

This snapshot is of the BHAS Mass Band as it performed its half time show during the October 3rd football game. To my knowledge about 400 copies of this photo were distributed to the junior high and high school band members. The message on the back reads: "With Compliments of Benton Harbor Area Schools Board of Education and Richard F. Helsner, Superintendent of Schools — Photo by James Caudill."

I would not have been aware of this particular message if my daughter, upon reading your editorial, had not mentioned that this was the same message on the back of the photo she and her sister had received. I asked her to show me the photo. She did and there was the same message as mentioned in your editorial.

At this point I am not in a position to argue about or even guess at the actual reason for the distribution of the photo. I do think, as a taxpayer in this district, that I am in a legitimate position to react to the use of taxpayers' money to provide an advertising medium for the board and superintendent. More properly the message should have read: "With Compliments of the Taxpayers of the Benton Harbor Area Schools."

If the board and superintendent paid for these photos out of their own personal resources I have no objection to their gift to the band members and commend them for their action. If, however, these snapshots and message were provided out of district funds I think the taxpayers of this district would also be well advised to start asking pertinent questions regarding the proper usage of school funds in other areas.

Kazoo Man Demands Van Buren Hearing

PAW PAW — Steve Geresy, 40, Kalamazoo, demanded preliminary examination on a charge of assault with a deadly weapon when arraigned yesterday in Van Buren Seventh district court.

The charge grew out of a complaint by James Kerr that a man attempted to run him down with an automobile following an argument at a wedding reception outside Matlaan Sept. 13, according to Van Buren sheriff's deputies.

Geresy was released on his own recognizance pending a Nov. 20 hearing.

ELDERLY MAN DIES

Bandits Torture Pair Two Days

NEW YORK (AP) — An 80-year-old man has died from injuries inflicted by two robbers who systematically tortured the man and his son for 46 hours in their West Side penthouse apartment, police report.

Just before the ordeal was over, the bandits forced the old man's son to withdraw his entire bank savings of $4,200.

Police said the two killers, armed with a shotgun, invaded the apartment about 2 p.m. Wednesday, found John Wildmann and his son, Matthew, 50, a retired Marine Corps master sergeant.

After tying the Wildmanns to chairs with wire, the thugs ransacked the apartment, apparently looking for money and valuables. When they found none, they clubbed Matthew Wildmann on the head with the butt of the shotgun and burned him with cigarettes over his entire body.

The assault on the father and son continued until Friday morning, police said, and neither victim was given food although the robbers ate food from the refrigerator. Early Friday, Matthew revealed where he kept his bankbook.

He told police one of the bandits took him to the First National City Bank to withdraw the money, warning that the elder Wildmann would be killed if Matthew tried to alert police or bank personnel.

Back at the apartment, the

Chicago's '76 Budget Unveiled

CHICAGO (AP) — Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley has proposed a $1.15 billion budget for the city in 1976, an increase of about $42 million over this year's figure, but he promises no new taxes will be levied.

Daley told the City Council on Friday that the proposed budget includes a 5.5 per cent pay raise for all city employees.

Under the proposed budget, the mayor said, real estate taxes would remain at current levels and the gross property tax levy would be decreased by $234,847.

NOTICE OF MORTGAGE SALE
ON FORECLOSURE

DEFAULT having been made in the conditions of a certain mortgage made by New Buffalo

Dear Patrons:

The following report represents a comparison of the previous fiscal year to the fiscal year last completed on June 30, 1975.

Our total enrollment reached 1766 pupils compared to 1500 in 1973-74. This was a decrease of 34 students.

The split schedule has continued in operation since the fall of 1971 with high school students attending a morning shift and middle school students using the high school in the afternoon.

Construction on projects funded by the $1,950,000 bond issue approved in the spring of 1972 continues. All projects should be complete by the end of 1975.

The Board of Education wishes to thank all individuals and groups who supported the many school programs of the past year.

NOW NOTES NO WOMEN ON TWO POLICE FORCES

In your editorial of Nov. 12, 1975, you state that the recognition of Mary (Muggable Mary) Glatz's accomplishments as a NYPD detective reaffirms your faith in our system of law enforcement and the judicial system.

I wonder if her story did anything for the men in the Berrien County Sheriff Department or Berrien's Metro Crime Unit? Except for the matrons at the Sheriff's department, there are no women in positions similar to men law enforcement officers in either of the above units. With 53 per cent of the county population being female, the time has come for women to discuss discrimination in local law enforcement hiring practices. The City of Chicago learned recently that it is very expensive to discriminate.

QUESTIONS SCHOOL PICTURE POLICY

In reference to your editorial dated 11/1/75. Enclosed you will find a photocopy of a snapshot and rubber stamped message.

This snapshot is of the BHAS Mass Band as it performed its half time show during the October 3rd football game. To my knowledge about 400 copies of this photo were distributed to the junior high and high school band members. The message on the back reads: "With Compliments of Benton Harbor Area Schools Board of Education and Richard F. Helser, Superintendent of Schools — Photo by James Caudill."

I would not have been aware of this particular message if my daughter, upon reading your editorial, had not mentioned that this was the same message on the back of the photo she and her sister had received. I asked her to show me the photo. She did and there was the same message as mentioned in your editorial.

At this point I am not in a position to argue about or even guess at the actual reason for the distribution of the photo. I do think, as a taxpayer in this district, that I am in a legitimate position to react to the use of taxpayers' money to provide an advertising medium for the board and superintendent. More properly the message should have read: "With Compliments of the Taxpayers' of the Benton Harbor Area Schools."

If the board and superintendent paid for these photos out of their own personal resources I have no objection to their gift to the band members and commend them for their action. If, however, these snapshots and message were provided out of district funds I think the taxpayers' of this district would also be well advised to start asking pertinent questions regarding the proper usage of school funds in other areas.

Kazoo Man Demands Van Buren Hearing

PAW PAW — Steve Geresy, 48, Kalamazoo, demanded preliminary examination on a charge of assault with a deadly weapon when arraigned yesterday in Van Buren Seventh district court.

The charge grew out of a complaint by James Kerr that a man attempted to run him down with an automobile following an argument at a wedding reception outside Mattawan Sept. 13, according to Van Buren Sheriff's deputies.

Geresy was released on his own recognizance pending a Nov. 25 hearing.

In another case, George Bierhalter, 19, 102nd avenue,

His parents and five brothers and sisters went with him, on a trip financed by residents of Salina. "He wore us out," said his mother, Mrs. Cecil Heart. "I just hope it wasn't too much for him." ELDERLY MAN DIES

Bandits Torture Pair Two Days

NEW YORK (AP) — An 80-year-old man has died from injuries inflicted by two robbers who systematically tortured the man and his son for 46 hours in their West Side penthouse apartment, police report.

Just before the ordeal was over, the bandits forced the old man's son to withdraw his entire bank savings of $4,250.

Police said the two killers, armed with a shotgun, invaded the apartment about 2 p.m. Wednesday, found John Wildman and his son, Matthew, 50, a retired Marine Corps master sergeant.

After tying the Wildmans to chairs with wire, the thugs ransacked the apartment, apparently looking for money and valuables. When they found none, they clubbed Matthew Wildman on the head with the butt of the shotgun and burned him with cigarettes over his entire body.

The assault on the father and son continued until Friday morning, police said, and neither victim was given food although the robbers ate food from the refrigerator. Early Friday, Matthew revealed where he kept his bankbook.

He told police one of the bandits took him to the First National City Bank to withdraw the money, warning that the elder Wildman would be killed if Matthew tried to alert police or bank personnel.

Back at the apartment, the thugs again tied Matthews to a chair and fled with the money. He worked himself free around noon and went over to his father, who had died.

The medical examiner refused to give an exact cause of death pending an autopsy, but he theorized that the old man's death resulted from the beating over his head, face and body.

OFFICIAL NOTICE OF SALE
ST. JOSEPH PUBLIC SCHOOLS
COUNTY OF BERRIEN
STATE OF MICHIGAN
TAX ANTICIPATION NOTES (GENERAL OBLIGATION)
SEALED BIDS FOR THE purchase of the above Tax Anticipation Notes will be received by the undersigned at the Jefferson Elementary School, 2214 South State Street, St. Joseph, Michigan, until 12:00 o'clock noon, Eastern Standard Time, on the 24th day of November, 1975, at which time and place said bids will be publicly opened and read.

NOTE DETAILS: INTEREST RATE: PAYING AGENT: AND DENOMINATION: The notes will be dated November 26, 1975, will mature April 1, 1976, and will bear interest at a rate not exceeding eight per cent (8%) per annum. Both principal and interest at will be payable at a bank or trust company located in the State of Michigan to be designated by the original purchaser of the notes, which paying agent qualifies as such under the Statutes of the State of Michigan or of the Federal Government, subject to the approval of the School District. Denominations of the notes to be at the option of the purchaser.

PRIOR REDEMPTION: The notes shall not be subject to redemption prior to maturity.

AWARD OF NOTES: For the purpose of awarding the notes the interest cost of each bid will be computed on a 360-day year basis by determining, at the rate specified therein, the total dollar value of all interest on the notes from November 26, 1975, to their maturity and deducting therefrom any premium. The notes will be awarded to the bidder whose bid on the above computation produces the lowest dollar interest cost to the School District. No proposal for the purchase of less than all of the notes or at a price less than their par value will be considered.

SECURITY: The loan is in anticipation of the Operating Portion of the School Tax for the fiscal year commencing July 1, 1975, which taxes are due and payable December 1, 1975, subject only to a prior appropriation of a sufficient amount of such taxes necessary for the payment of principal and interest due on an outstanding tax anticipation note in the principal amount of $1,100,000 dated August 1, 1975 and payable April 1, 1976.

GOOD FAITH: A certified or cashier's check in the amount of 2% of the par value of the notes, drawn upon an incorporated bank or trust company and payable to the order of the Treasurer of the School District must accompany each bid as a guarantee of good faith on the part of the bidder to be forfeited as liquidated damages if such bid be accepted and the bidder fails to take up and pay for the notes. No interest shall be allowed on the good faith checks and checks of unsuccessful bidders will be promptly returned to each bidder's representative or by registered mail.

LEGAL OPINION: Bids shall be conditioned upon the unqualified opinion of Thrun, Maatsch and Nordberg, attorneys of Lansing, Michigan, which opinion will be furnished without expense to the purchaser prior to the delivery thereof, approving the legality of the notes.

DELIVERY OF NOTES: The School District shall furnish notes ready for execution at its expense. Notes will be delivered without expense to the purchaser at a place to be designated by the purchaser. The usual closing documents, including a certificate that no litigation is pending affecting the issuance of the notes, will be delivered at the time of the delivery of the notes. Accrued interest to the date of delivery of the notes shall be paid by the purchaser at the time of delivery.

THE RIGHT IS RESERVED TO REJECT ANY OR ALL BIDS.

ENVELOPES containing the bids should be plainly marked "Proposal for School District Notes".

Commissioner Hanley, seconded by Commissioner Seilent moved approval of the foregoing report and that the Director of Finance be authorized and issue vouchers in payment of the several amounts. Roll called resulted as follows: Yeas: Commissioners Gast, Gillespie, Hanley, Seilent and Smith. Nays: None. Absent: None. Motion declared carried.

MR. EDWARD MATTHEY, representing WHIRLPOOL CORPORATION, advised the Commission that his company would be making a request for the establishing of the Industrial Development District in the City of St. Joseph in the near future. Mr. Matthey outlined the purpose of the request and described the construction of the new slitter steel building and activities. The Mayor referred the matter to the City Attorney.

The City Manager advised the Commission that the Department of Natural Resources has given high priority to the City's application for Land and Water Conservation Fund assistance for the improvement of TISCORNIA PARK. The proposed improvement involves a new wash room facility and construction of a shelter area. He advised that the next step is authorization by the City Commission to make formal application for a grant-in-aid. After discussion Commissioner Gast, seconded by Commissioner Gillespie moved that the City Manager make a formal application for a grant-in-aid for the improvement of Tiscornia Park; Project Number BOR L-97, at a total estimated cost of Fifty Seven Thousand Dollars ($57,000.00).

The Mayor read a letter from ROBERT J. GRIMM, President of Great Lakes Coca-Cola Bottling Company, expressing his appreciation and the appreciation of all his employees for a good job done by Chief Moore and the men of the St. Joseph Fire Department when called to his plant on October 25, 1975. In addition he stated that the members of the St. Joseph Police Department on duty at his facility were most helpful in keeping spectators at a distance so that he had no worry about possible pilferage from the loaded trucks that were moved from the garage into the outside parking area.

The Mayor announced his appointment of a Financial Study Committee, headed by Mayor Pro-Term Hanley in review and analyze the city budget along with services presently provided by the City and to make recommendations deemed advisable. In addition to Mayor Pro-Term Hanley, the following members have been appointed:

Robert Carson, Heath Company
Al Van Huis, Auto Specialties Mfg. Co.
Lester Tiscornia (alternate), Auto Specialties Mfg. Co.
Clifford Emmons, Emmons Nurseries
John Kovlan, Kovlan & Co.
Ray Carlson, St. Joseph Merchants
Joseph Mackin, WSJM
John Gessert, Whirlpool Corporation
William Smiths, Harkner, Smiths, Miskill, Merrifield.
Commissioner Gast commented on new methods of processing noisy trucks and asked the Manager to investigate the availability and cost of equipment to measure excessive sound.

There being no further business to come before this commission, Commissioner Hanley moved to adjourn until Monday, November 18, 1975 at 7:30 P.M.

Ask Them Yourself

Want to ask a famous person a question? Send the question on a postcard, to "Ask," Family Weekly, 641 Lexington Ave., New York, N.Y. 10022. We'll pay $5 for published questions. Sorry, we can't answer others.

FOR ORAL ROBERTS

A sports magazine reported that you offered to cure basketball star Moses Malone's mother of her bleeding ulcer if he would enroll at Oral Roberts University. Is this true?—Mike Hutchins, Pensacola, Fla.

● Absolutely not. I don't know where this information was obtained, but it is not unusual for stories such as this to appear about my ministry or Oral Roberts University. It has always been a policy of mine not to publicly respond to items of this nature. If I took time to do this, it would be impossible to do all the other things God has given me to do. I believe that God will guide people in their thinking when false reports appear. He can do this better than I ever could. And in my heart, I know there is no truth contained in this particular report. The feeling of peace I have between myself and God has overcome any feeling of disappointment I may have felt when I read the report.

FOR JOAN BAEZ

Is music really your whole life?—J.B., Canton, Ohio

● It's my work and my career, but it isn't my thing. What is my thing is trying to stop people from blowing each other's brains out. I've been obsessed with that since I was 10. I'm against any form of anger. This means I'm labeled "controversial." I'm never referred to as just a girl with a good voice.

FOR MICHAEL LEARNED, star of "The Waltons"

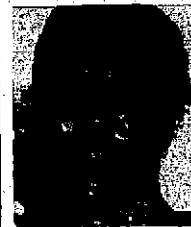

As an actress, you've traveled a lot. Which country impressed you the most?—S.A., Gary, Ind.

● Austria. It's the most romantic spot in the world. At least it was when I lived there as a child (my Dad was a writer and he was assigned there). It's exactly the way it was pictured in "The Sound of Music"—schmaltzy and sentimental. The first thing I remember about our arrival is the children, singing and running into the hills to make daisy chains. We lived near Salzburg, and at night the kids serenaded each other under their bedroom windows.

FOR GOV. GEORGE WALLACE of Alabama

The Presidency is man-killing. What makes you think you can handle it with your physical handicap?—Robert Barney, San Antonio, Texas

● The only physical disability I have is that I'm unable to walk. Otherwise I'm healthy and stronger than ever, thanks to an aggressive schedule and a rigorous therapy program. Our nation has perhaps survived better under Presidents who were unable to walk than under some whose disability was on the other end of their body.

FOR MUHAMMAD ALI

Were you ever scared in the ring?—L.N., Upton, Mass.

● I was never scared, but I was worried—once. That was when Ken Norton broke my jaw. I didn't want my good looks to get spoiled.

FOR ELIZABETH L. POST,

Director of the Emily Post Institute

What do you do when you're not writing or advising about etiquette?—G.B., Durham, N.C.

● I paint, fish and cook. Vermont, where I live, offers ample opportunity for all three. There's fantastic scenery during all seasons for painting; marvelous streams for fly-fishing; and an endless variety of wild vegetables and fruits to cook, can, freeze or serve raw. When I cook, I'm adventurous. I like to experiment with untried methods, new foods and unusual recipes.

FOR BARBARA HOWAR, author of "Laughing All the Way"

Which do you enjoy most—writing or TV-interviewing?—J. Keary, South River, N.J.

● I'm not interested in broadcasting any more, but I have trouble making people believe me. What is it about TV that makes everyone assume we're dying to be on it? Besides not liking the insecurity, I'm too old and too tired to get up in the middle of the night to go to work. I'd much rather make my mistakes on a typewriter.

FOR ROBERT CONRAD, star of "Murph the Surf"

Do you have any political desires?—R.J., Racine, Wis.

● No. I know I'm full of baloney, so why should I add one more to the list? Thank God for Watergate! It opened our eyes to what it's all about. Politicians are way out in left field. They're a joke. I don't think much of any of them. The only thing I admire in Washington is the Washington Monument.

FOR LEE TREVINO, pro golfer

Players like Billy Casper give the impression that they'd like to see the fans banned from the golf course. How do you feel about that?—R. Ryan, North Tonawanda, N.Y.

● If the fans weren't out there, I'd still be picking up golf balls on a driving range. Arnold Palmer would be working in a coal mine. Jack Nicklaus would be running a drugstore and Johnny Miller would be the deacon in some church.

FOR THE "ASK THEM YOURSELF" EDITOR

Am I right in thinking Jack Nicholson is hard to get along with?—L.E., Grand Rapids, Mich.

● He's unpredictable, given to sudden outbursts of temper. When Frank Sinatra opened in Las Vegas, so many celebrities attended, they formed their own line going in. All cooperated with the photographers, except Jack, who yelled something unprintable. The management was so incensed, they directed him to the "unknowns" line. According to Norman Dickens (author of "Jack Nicholson: The Search for a Superstar"), after the word "pig" became synonymous with The Establishment, Jack went the other way. He has pig sculptures, pig paintings and pig pillows all over his home. Jack can be terribly cheap or wildly extravagant. When he arrived in London, he telephoned his secretary in Los Angeles to ask if she packed his comb.

He's 28, Gutsy—And the President's Personal Eye

How David Kennerly "Got There"

By Frances Spatz Leighton

Don't call me the court jester. Don't call me the President's best friend," said Presidential photographer David Kennerly to this reporter after an exclusive interview in his hectic, noisy, White House basement office. "That's not my bag. Show me just the way I am—a photographer doing a job."

But what a job! One that gives him the rare privilege of opening the door of the President's office, no matter who is inside, and just walking in. Or sharing a drink at the end of the day. If that isn't being at least a good friend, I will do.

It was having that kind of easy relationship that resulted in the smoke-filled Presidential portrait on this page, David Kennerly's favorite of all the hundreds of pictures he's taken of Gerald Ford.

"It happened at Camp David," he recalled, between phone calls and other interruptions. "The President was deep in thought while working over some papers. The photo was taken in his study and I just used available lighting. I had come in quietly, sensed his mood and snapped a few shots of him concentrating. Something about this one—the total absorption, the quiet mood and the pattern of smoke—captured the real feeling of what it's like when the President is working in his shirt-sleeves. Anyway, it's my favorite." Kennerly adds, "I don't think the President was even aware that I was there when I took it."

That's the way it is a lot of the time. Kennerly slouches in, wearing his soft desert boots, and just lurks around till he gets the picture he wants. Several times the President has lunged for his photographer, wanting to get a certain person's visit to the Oval Office recorded for history, only to have Kennerly tell him, "I've already done it."

Never in the memory of White House press has a photographer enjoyed such a free-and-easy relationship with a President. Surely, no lensman would have dared to barge into the Presidential offices of Truman, Kennedy, Johnson or Nixon. Kennerly literally is a law unto himself, even deciding which pictures to print, which to use. In Lyndon Johnson's day, no White House picture of the President or even of his dogs, could go to a newspaper or magazine unless it had been cleared by the President himself.

As for his clothes, no White House photographer before Kennerly had ever dared show up in full beard, blue jeans, turtleneck sweater and sports jacket. But that's practically his uniform and the outfit he wore on the day of this interview with FAMILY WEEKLY. But at least he had on shoes. Secretaries outside the Oval Office are sometimes thrown into a state of shock by Kennerly's sprawling around without shoes while waiting for some VIP guest to be ushered into the President's office. Sometimes the irreverent photographer barely manages to get his shoes back on before the Very Important Person arrives.

Kennerly's own young life (he's 28) and career certainly show how far one can go on guts—and talent. When he was just 16 and a student at Roseburg (Oregon) High School, the school photographer got sick, and the startled David was told to rush out to the ball field and shoot a baseball picture. He didn't say he didn't know how.

Kennerly's favorite picture is this one, which captures a contemplative President.

"That was when Jerry Ford found out how gutsy his young photographer friend was. At the time, Kennerly barely recognized the top end of a ski pole, but he bravely told Ford, 'I'm going to disappear for three days and when you see me next, I will be on top of the mountain with my cameras.'"

He just grabbed the big Crown Graphic and was on his way. "By lucky chance," he recalls, "I got a clear shot of a guy sliding into home plate. When I saw my name under that picture in the school paper, called the Orange R, I knew what I wanted to do."

But it wasn't that easy. Though he kept taking pictures, his journalism teacher frequently told him how terrible they were, what was wrong and sometimes even threw them on the floor to make his point. Instead of giving up, young David determined to show that teacher.

But before he had a chance, his family moved to a suburb of Portland. Instead of being modest and waiting for someone to discover him, he expounded on his genius with a camera and demanded and got a job on the school paper. The amusing thing is that only then did he sign up for a course in photography.

And it was here, at West Linn High, that David came into his own as a photographer, taking pictures for the school paper, the yearbook and even selling sports photos on the side to the town paper at $1.50 a print. "I will always be grateful to the photo teacher at West Linn," says Kennerly. "He's Darrell Greenlee, and I hope I can help him inspire others as he did me."

But selling photos at $1.50 a throw was still a long way from the White House. When he graduated from high school, David worked 12 hours a day loading sacks of flour and helping around a flour mill to earn enough money to buy a Nikon with three lenses—28-mm, 50-mm and 105-mm. Before he had completed his first year at Portland State College, David quit and went into that first newspaper office, the Oregon Journal. He demanded to see the editor with "my portfolio of pictures," and he got the job.

Then came a real display of Kennerly's guts—when he stayed on the scene during a riot in downtown Portland, taking pictures while rocks were being thrown and while rioters were rocking his car and, as Kennerly tells it, "A guy from my office was yelling at me over the car radio to get the hell out of there."

He showed the same kind of cool when he was photographing the Indian-Pakistani and Vietnamese wars. The pictures he took overseas won him the Pulitzer Prize in May, 1972.

Kennerly doesn't hesitate to tell his true feelings—even to the President. In fact, what started Jerry Ford thinking of Kennerly as more than just another photographer was his outspoken quality. As Kennerly remembers it, he was covering Ford, then Vice President, for Time on a trip to Oregon, Kennerly's home state, when he heard Ford pronouncing the state "Ora-gone" with the accent on the last syllable. "I didn't know him too well then, but I went over to him and said, 'Mr. Ford, I believe you'll score more points with the audience if you pronounce their state the way the Oregonians do—Ora-gun.'"

On the way back home, Ford grinned, "Did I say it right, Dave?" It was an ice-breaker, and after that Kennerly didn't hesitate to comment about Ford's speeches, sometimes pro and sometimes con. Ford, in turn, started ribbing Kennerly about his rumpled jacket and an occasional action shot he missed. By the time Ford's first Christmas as Vice President rolled around, they were good friends, and he was invited to stay with the family when they went to Vail, Colo.

That was when Jerry Ford found out how gutsy his young photographer friend was. At the time, Kennerly barely recognized the top end of a ski pole, but he bravely told Ford, "I'm going to disappear for three days and when you see me next, I will be on top of the mountain with my cameras." He took three days of intensive lessons and, sure enough, he took the chair lift to the top on the fourth day.

"When the Vice President arrived and saw me sloudering around, trying to stay upright, he gave a big horselaugh and said, 'David, your skiing is about 10 percent talent and 90 percent intestinal fortitude.'"

But skiing wasn't what Jerry Ford had in mind when, on the day he was sworn in as President, he invited Kennerly to his home in Alexandria for dinner, then took him into another room to ask him what he thought the job of personal photographer to the President should be.

Kennerly said he was mainly interested in the job's historical significance, and that he would take it only if he had the freedom to walk in and out of the President's office at will to take whatever pictures he felt were part of history. He also asked for the right to publish a pictorial record of the Presidency and the President's life in book form.

"At this point, the job hadn't even been offered to me yet," Kennerly recalls. "I knew this was pretty heavy stuff I was laying on him, but I had to be honest. I could afford to be because I already had a good job and didn't want to start just taking public-relations type pictures."

"I was sitting on a bed when I told him what the job would have to be. I felt very close to him even though he was the President of the United States and I was only a news photographer. He is that kind of man."

Again, his gutsiness paid off, and next day Kennerly had the thrill of having a secretary announce, in the hearing of his startled colleagues, that the President of the United States was calling him. By that phone call, Kennerly became the first person to be appointed by the new President.

"The President has kept his word in every respect," Kennerly said. "I have never been barred from his office. I have just gone about, making a true record of the traumatic and the happy times as they occur. For example, when he was stunned at the negative reaction he received to his pardoning of Nixon, there to catch him holding his hands to his face and studying the floor. And when he was filled with relief cent on the last syllable. "I didn't know him too well then, but I went over to him and said, 'Mr. Ford, I believe you'll score more points with the audience if you pronounce their state the way the Oregonians do —Ora-gun.'"

On the way back home, Ford grinned, "Did I say it right, Dave?" It was an ice-breaker, and after that Kennerly didn't hesitate to comment about Ford's speeches, sometimes pro and sometimes con. Ford, in turn, started ribbing Kennerly about his rumpled jacket and an occasional action shot he missed. By the time Ford's first Christmas as Vice President rolled around, they were good friends, and he was invited to stay with the family when they went to Vail, Colo.

That was when Jerry Ford found out how gutsy his young photographer friend was. At the time, Kennerly barely recognized the top end of a ski pole, but he brashly told Ford, "I'm going to disappear for three days and when you see me next, I will be on top of the mountain with my cameras." He took three days of intensive lessons and, sure enough, he took the chair lift to the top on the fourth day.

And, it's certain, she has Kennerly to thank. But then, close as he is to the Fords, you might call it "All in the Family."

Kennerly's Tips On Taking Pictures

In his office, Kennerly is a dynamo. While giving instructions to four assistants and, at the same time, examining and choosing pictures from a sheet of contact proofs, he was holding a phone conversation on an entirely different photographic matter. Interviewing him was like conversing with a basket of popping corn. Still, in rapid-fire style, he managed to make many interesting points, some of which may help aspiring photographers:

- He much prefers black and white photos to shooting in color. "Color can be distracting," he says. "Black and white has much more impact. I like to tell young people who ask my opinion (he gets many letters from high school students) that black and white pictures last a lot longer than color and that I like to think I am taking pictures for history."

- He much prefers using available light. If he must have artificial light, Kennerly uses a small Mighty Light, bouncing it off the ceiling.

- As for the kind of camera: When he worked for Life and Time, he used Nikons. But because he wants to work in absolute silence that will not distract the President, he now uses Leica M4s and M5s. They are quieter since they have no mirrors flipping up and down, which make a clicking noise. He prefers the Leica M4, for its small size, but finds it handy to use the M5 because its built-in light meter can save important moments in a crunch. "They don't replay historic moments or the same expression for you."

- The most important thing a budding photographer needs, Kennerly maintains, "is plain guts. Otherwise he can have the best equipment in the world and still not get the picture."

think he ever saw me with such sharp creases before. Actually, if he asked me to dress like that every day, maybe I would. But he's not the kind to do it. He just lets me be myself."

Kennerly also was "all duded up" when Candice Bergen was visiting the White House and taking pictures of the President. It was one of the few times when other photographers grumbled that Kennerly shouldn't have given this "outsider" access to the President. True, Kennerly was caught holding hands with the beautiful Candice, but he feels he was fully justified in letting her take pictures of Ford for the Ladies' Home Journal. "I admired her work," he says simply.

"My book will probably be on the first two years of the Presidency," he told FAMILY WEEKLY. "I will take no profit from it. I expect to establish a scholarship for young photographers in memory of the photographers killed in Vietnam."

be made in advance, securely wrapped (airtight) and frozen until ready to fill.

Makes 16 (8-inch) crepes

*Editor's note: Or brandy, sherry, cider or apple juice.

Filling:

- 1/2 cup butter
- 1/2 cup sifted all-purpose flour
- 2 cups light cream
- 2 cups cubed cooked ham
- 2 cups cubed natural Swiss cheese
- 2 cans (4-oz. size) sliced mushrooms, undrained
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/4 teaspoon ground black pepper

1. In medium saucepan, melt butter on medium heat, remove from heat. Stir in sifted flour smoothly.
2. Gradually add light cream, stir until smooth. Cook, stirring until sauce thickens and comes to boil.
3. Add ham, Swiss cheese, mushrooms, salt and pepper; heat, stirring, just until cheese is almost melted.
4. To assemble, spoon about 1/4 cup filling in center of each crepe, roll and place seam side down in lightly oiled shallow baking dish. Continue filling and rolling until all crepes are filled.
5. Coat crepes with topping. Cover and refrigerate if not serving immediately.
6. To serve, heat, covered, in preheated 350°F. oven for 45 minutes. Place under broiler, 4 inches from heating element, and broil for 3 to 5 minutes until topping is golden brown.

Makes about 6 cups filling, enough for 16 (8-inch) crepes

Topping Sauce:

- 2 tablespoons butter
- 2 tablespoons flour
- 2 cups light cream
- 2 tablespoons red wine*
- 1 1/2 cups shredded natural Swiss cheese
- Dash salt
- Dash ground black pepper

1. In 1-qt. saucepan, heat butter until melted, remove from heat and stir in flour smoothly. Gradually add cream, return to heat and cook, stirring constantly until mixture thickens and comes to boiling.
2. Stir in wine, 1/2 cup Swiss cheese, salt and pepper. Simmer, stirring just until cheese melts. Pour sauce over crepes.
3. Sprinkle remaining Swiss cheese over crepes.

Makes 3 cups topping sauce, enough for 16 (8-inch) crepes

*Or use sherry or cider.

be made in advance, securely wrapped (airtight) and frozen until ready to fill.

Makes 16 (8-inch) crepes

*Editor's note: Or brandy, sherry, cider or apple juice.

Filling:

½ cup butter
½ cup sifted all-purpose flour
2 cups light cream
2 cups cubed cooked ham
2 cups cubed natural Swiss cheese
2 cans (4-oz. size) sliced mushrooms, undrained
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon ground black pepper

1. In medium saucepan, melt butter on medium heat, remove from heat. Stir in sifted flour smoothly.
2. Gradually add light cream, stir until smooth. Cook, stirring until sauce thickens and comes to boil.
3. Add ham, Swiss cheese, mushrooms, salt and pepper; heat, stirring, just until cheese is almost melted.
4. To assemble, spoon about ¼ cup filling in center of each crepe, roll and place seam side down in lightly oiled shallow baking dish. Continue filling and rolling until all crepes are filled.
5. Coat crepes with topping. Cover and refrigerate if not serving immediately.
6. To serve, heat, covered, in preheated 350°F. oven for 45 minutes. Place under broiler, 4 inches from heating element, and broil for 3 to 5 minutes until topping is golden brown.

Makes about 6 cups filling, enough for 16 (8-inch) crepes

Topping Sauce:

2 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons flour
2 cups light cream
2 tablespoons red wine*
1½ cups shredded natural Swiss cheese
Dash salt
Dash ground black pepper

once you learn how to de-sensitize them, this doctor's ingenious new way...

If You Suffer From A Single One Of These Torturous Symptoms Of Nerves, Tension Or Chronic Anxiety, THEN THE FACTS BELOW MAY BE THE MOST IMPORTANT YOU HAVE EVER READ IN YOUR LIFE!

Because they reveal, for the first time, how your nerves have tricked you into the following mental symptoms:

Constant nervousness and over-irritation...Indecision...depression...feelings of eeriness...overwhelming exhaustion with one or two horrible thoughts...

a hopeless feeling that your entire personality is coming apart...that your identity is dissolving...or that you may be helplessly drifting into a nervous breakdown!

And—equally as bad—how your nerves have tricked you into the following physical symptoms: chronic fatigue, that starts in the morning; and grows worse as the day goes on "missed" heartbeats—"racing" heart—palpitations—or sudden sharp pains under the heart...sweating hands—or "pins and needles" in either your hands or your legs...nausea...choking feeling in the throat...inability to take a deep breath...tight band of pain around the head...ready to jump out of your skin...strange tricks of vision...weak spots...lassitude, that goes on night after night after sleep...

hand shaking...panic spasms...knots in your chest...dizziness...difficulty in swallowing...vomiting...and all the other physical tortures that turn your life into one continuous hell!

And Every One Of These Nervous Symptoms Can Be Controlled...And Then Diminished...And Then Eliminated—OFTEN BY AS LITTLE AS THIS ONE SINGLE INSIGHT INTO THEIR HIDDEN CAUSE!

And that insight is this:

If you suffer from any of the nervous symptoms listed above, then you must understand at once that your nerves are not ill—they have not deteriorated...they have not lost their true physical health in any way! What has happened to them instead is that they have simply become OVER-SENSITIZED—"rubbed raw" by too much outside irritation...and are now ready to discharge the emotional and physical symptoms of panic at even the slightest thing that goes wrong!

Thus, the depression...indecision...loss of confidence and all the other emotional symptoms you feel are all caused by OVER-SENSITIZED nerves! And the churning stomach...palpitating heart...never-ending headaches and all the other physical nervous-symptoms you feel are—again—all caused by OVER-SENSITIZED nerves!

And therefore the way to treat ALL these symptoms is NOT with drugs...NOT with shock...NOT with medical formulations or hospitalizations at all! The way to treat these nerves is to change the poisonous-thoughts that are rubbing them raw!

And this is done (as proven by this internationally-famed physician on thousands of patients) in four simple steps! The first of which stops nervous symptoms (both emotional and physical) from multiplying from this moment on! The second of which serves to tranquilize and quiet down those over-sensitized nerves far more powerfully (and permanently) than any drug a pharmacist could ever give you!

The third of which lets you stop fighting those symptoms (which only intensifies them in an ever-increasing spiral of sheer torment), and—instead—leave them alone in an ingenious way that lets them start healing themselves!

And the fourth of which—the great reward—brings you slowly-but-surely back to the person you used to be! With a new, enduring feeling of control and confidence that nothing can destroy! So much so that this doctor actually comes right out and states bluntly: "The advice given here will definitely cure you, if you only follow it!"

In Fact, Case History After Case History Proves That Cure May Be So Dramatically Quick That Your Friends And Family Will Beg You To Tell Them Your Secret!

Once again, it doesn't matter what physical or emotional symptoms you are now suffering from...how "deeply entrenched" they are...how long you have been plagued by them...how "old" or "weak" or "out-of-control" you may feel today! Here is specific, step-by-step advice that will (again to quote directly from the doctor) "banish every unwelcome sensation and regain peace of mind and body!"

For example: The two-minute self-treatment (you perform one ingenious little action with your chest) that ends sudden panic seizures on the spot—including all their side effects such as dizziness, pins and needles, involuntary stiffening of the joints, inability to breathe, and all the rest.

That "lump in the throat that won't go away"—how to banish it in minutes...and enjoy eating any food you wish to once again! Physical weakness—perhaps the most dreaded of all symptoms—and (surprisingly) perhaps the fastest of all to banish!

How to deal with the twin monsters of fatigue and guilt! And leave behind emotional exhaustion...morning depression...thoughts that once raced around and around in your mind without cessation! (And leave them all behind—for good!) Why so many patients who tried these simple techniques actually come out the other side richer as far finer and stronger people than they ever were before!

How to recover from chronic tension caused by an insoluble problem! The only sane way to overcome it! How to avoid unnecessary suffering, for both yourself and others! And, perhaps, actually turn your worst defeat into crowning success! The surest and most permanent way to cure obsessions!

How to tap the forces of Nature, every morning, that are just waiting to cure you! How to bring happiness back into your everyday life! Not by waiting for some great event or reward...but simply by developing the eyes to see joy in the little things all around you!

How to beat insomnia! Again, specific, proven step-by-step instructions! Ten different aids that may have you waking up tomorrow morning as fresh as a baby, with eight full hours of blissful sleep replenishing every cell in your body!

And—the final goal: How to develop the kind of nervous control that automatically turns panic off the instant it starts! That frees you forever from "herf-critches" such as drugs or alcohol! That lets you pick up your life again from the point where over-sensitized nerves forced you to abandon it, with absolute confidence that you now have the poise and self-possession to accomplish the goals you have always wanted!

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

DR. CLAIRE WEEKES became interested in the problems of nervous illness when she observed in her medical practice that those who suffered most suffered "nervously." teaspoon pepper. Make meatballs the size of large marbles.

2. Heat about ¼ cup vegetable oil in skillet and brown meatballs. Reduce heat and cook until meatballs are cooked through. Drain on absorbent paper and cool.

3. In large salad bowl, combine lettuce, onion rings, green pepper, tomatoes, cucumber slices, olives and mushrooms, add meatballs. Toss to distribute. Garnish with strips of mozzarella cheese.

4. In jar combine ¼ cup vegetable oil, wine vinegar, garlic, 1 teaspoon salt, hot pepper and ½ teaspoon oregano. Cover jar securely and shake well. Let set at least 30 minutes to develop flavor before adding to salad.

5. This salad is equally delicious when meatballs are cooked while you make salad, and then added hot.

FROZEN CHOCOLATE CHARLOTTE

By Carol Smith, Livermore, Calif. (Tri-Valley Herald)

- 1 tablespoon butter or margarine
- 2 tablespoons granulated sugar
- 2 pkgs. (3-oz. size) ladyfingers
- ¼ cup white crème de menthe
- 2 pkgs. (6-oz. size) semisweet chocolate pieces
- 3 tablespoons instant coffee
- ½ cup boiling water
- 8 eggs, separated
- ½ cup sugar
- 1 teaspoon pure vanilla extract
- 2½ cups heavy cream
- 1 bar (4 ozs.) sweet baking chocolate

1. Butter a 9-inch round spring-form pan and then sprinkle with 2 tablespoons sugar, set aside.

2. Split ladyfingers but do not separate into individual pieces. Brush flat surfaces with crème de menthe.

3. Line sides of prepared spring-form pan with ladyfingers, rounded sides against pan.

4. Separate remaining ladyfingers and line bottom of pan overlapping and piecing to fit.

5. Melt chocolate in top of double boiler, stirring occasionally. Dissolve coffee in boiling water.

6. Beat egg yolks in small bowl with electric mixer until foamy. Beat in sugar gradually until thick.

7. At low speed, beat in chocolate, coffee and vanilla.

8. With clean beaters, beat egg whites in large bowl until stiff peaks form.

9. Stir 1 cup beaten whites into chocolate mixture. Fold chocolate mixture back into remaining egg whites.

10. Beat 1½ cups heavy cream until stiff, and fold into chocolate mixture.

Pork Platter Orange blends popular flavors: succulent pork, aromatic onion, tangy citrus and mellow sweet potato.

PORK PLATTER ORANGE

By Alice Winburn, Normal, Ill. (Bloomington-Normal Pantagraph)

- 6 loin pork chops, 1-inch thick Salt
- ¼ teaspoon ground black pepper
- 1 large onion, cut into 8 slices
- ½ cup brown sugar, firmly packed
- 1 cup water
- 1 teaspoon grated orange rind
- ¼ cup orange juice
- 2 tablespoons lemon juice
- 2 lbs. sweet potatoes, peeled and cut in half-inch slices
- 6 thin orange slices
- 1 tablespoon cornstarch

1. Trim excess fat from chops; lightly grease heavy skillet with fat from 1 chop.

2. Brown chops slowly on both sides, sprinkling with 1½ teaspoons salt and pepper. Drain off excess fat. Top each chop with an onion slice.

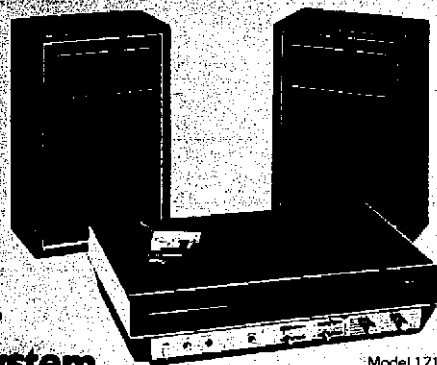

3. Mix brown sugar, ¾ cup water, orange rind, orange juice, lemon juice and ½ teaspoon salt. Pour over chops. Heat to boiling, reduce heat, cover and simmer for 30 minutes.

4. Lift chops and arrange potato slices in sauce. Top each onion slice with orange slice. Heat to boiling, reduce heat and simmer about 35 to 45 minutes, or until chops are fork-tender and potatoes are done.

Mexican Scrambled Eggs adds a chili-tamale tang to eggs.

2. Remove any parchment from tamales, then cut in three-fourths-inch slices, spoon into baking dish, place in oven.

3. In medium skillet in 2 tablespoons butter, sauté onion for 5 to 8 minutes, stirring.

4. Add tomato sauce, mushrooms, olives and as much chili powder as you like. (Why not try 1 teaspoon?) Heat to boiling, then pour over tamales in oven.

5. Beat eggs with water, oregano and garlic salt. Melt remaining butter in skillet, add eggs and cook over medium heat, stirring until just soft scrambled.

6. Spoon over mixture in casserole. Top all with shredded cheddar cheese. Bake for 5 to 7 minutes, until eggs are set and cheese is melted.

Loretta Swit, who appears in CBS-TV's "M*A*S*H," will soon star on Broadway in "Same Time Next Year."

By Loretta Swit

In conversation with Helen Dorsey

I'm an enthusiastic cook. I love to feed people! That's something I inherited from my Polish mother. She cooks all kinds of things, from special holiday treats to pierogi (pockets of dough) filled with cheese or cabbage or jam. Those things contain about 7,000 calories! Preferring simpler dishes, I stay away from intricate cooking. I'm a bit of a health buff and watch what I cook.

You know what I like? I like preparing bland meats, like chicken or veal. It's what you do to them that makes the difference. Chicken is wide open to all kinds of interesting possibilities—chicken sweet-and-sour, chicken and cashews. . . . And I'm keen on Spanish Veal With Eggplant, too. It's really delicious!

SPANISH VEAL WITH EGGPLANT

- 10 veal scallops
- 2-3 tablespoons unsaturated oil
- 2 small eggplants, cubed
- 2 large green peppers, chopped
- 2 yellow onions, chopped
- 4-6 ripe tomatoes, diced
- Cracked black pepper to taste
- 1 teaspoon oregano (fresh or dried)

1. Heat oven to 350°F. Grease large baking dish.
2. Flatten scallops by lightly pounding, or have butcher prepare meat for you.
3. Heat oil in large skillet until hot. Quickly brown scallops on both sides and lift out; drain.
4. Arrange 3 or 4 scallops in bottom of baking dish. Cover with layers of half the eggplant, green pepper, onion and tomato.
5. Repeat layers with remaining ingredients, ending with layer of tomato.
6. Sprinkle with oregano and cracked pepper. Cover and bake for 1 hour.
7. Remove cover, bake 15 to 20 minutes longer, or until veal is tender and vegetables are a little mushy. Serve piping hot! Makes 6 to 8 servings

Editor's Note: This dish was inspired by ratatouille and should be a little mushy but not too runny! Here is a good chance to experiment with herbs: marjoram, parsley and basil!

TV's Loretta Swit: "Try This Recipe to Bring Veal Alive!"

"I like preparing bland meats, like chicken or veal. It's what you do to them that makes the difference."

The New England Yam Bake.

NEW ENGLAND YAM BAKE

- 1 (20 oz.) can pineapple slices
- 2 (16 oz.) cans Princella® Brand Prince yams, drained
- 1 cup flour
- 2 tablespoons brown sugar
- 1/2 teaspoon cinnamon
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 3 tablespoons PARKAY® Margarine
- 1 cup crushed nuts
- 1 cup KRAFT Miniature Marshmallows
- 1 (12 oz.) can KRAFT® Brand condensed milk

Scatter eggplant, carrots and potatoes in a large bowl. Add 1/2 cup of the pineapple juice and 1/2 cup of the brown sugar. Mix well. Add the yams, carrots and potatoes. Mix well. Add the remaining ingredients. Mix well. Bake in a 350°F oven for 1 hour. Serve piping hot!

SCIENCE SAYS: YOU CANNOT MAKE WRINKLES VANISH WITHOUT PLASTIC SURGERY

There is positive medical proof that no cream, no lotion, no balm will make your wrinkles vanish... but Emlin® Mink Oil will make your face, neck, hands, throat so smooth... so velvety soft... so vital again that you'll believe your skin to be like it used to be.

Here's what happened to me:

I had always pampered my skin. Special creams, lotions costly astringent rinses—I used them faithfully.

So I tried different brands, even more expensive, nothing helped. I was ready to give up.

Then something struck me—something I never would have known if my husband hadn't owned and managed a mink farm where we lived.

One day I was serving coffee to three of the men who handle the mink pelts. These men had worked for my husband about 25 years. As I gave them their coffee, I couldn't help but notice their hands. How smooth and soft they were!

I thought about them all that day. I believed there must be something in the body or skin of the mink that made their hands so smooth and soft. And if it was good for hands, then it must be good for the face and throat. Could this be the answer to the signs that alarm every woman?

I told my husband what was on my mind and asked if he could possibly extract some of the oil from the mink pelts. At first he laughed at me, but then agreed I might have a point. He consulted a chemist friend, and together they compounded the mink oil with a pure balm base. It was a costly process, but what it produced I believed was priceless.

After I'd use the mink oil three weeks, I could see a change in my complexion. It was fresher, clearer, smoother looking. Two months later there was no doubt about it. My formerly dull, dry skin now had a glowing, dewy look. I was really thrilled! Even my throat seemed petal-smooth and more firm looking. I could hardly believe my skin appeared like it used to be.

My friends and relatives were astonished at the change in my appearance. When I told them what I'd been using, of course they wanted to try it. Without exception, they had wonderful results.

They urged me to make my product available to all women. They said I'd be doing a real service since these problems can be terribly disturbing.

So I gave my precious mink oil a name and put it on the market. It's called Emlin® Mink Oil Essential Creme. It contains no hormones, estrogens or steroids—only the pure oil and balm. Already I've received hundreds of letters from delighted users. Many said the effects were beyond anything they had hoped for.

And mind you, there's nothing complicated about the application. (Who has time for elaborate beauty rituals? I'll bet you don't.) Just apply Emlin® Mink Oil Essential Creme at bedtime and leave it on while you sleep. That's when it works its wonders, helping to penetrate below the surface of your skin replacing lost natural oils, restoring moisture balance, leaving a beautifully lovely skin you never dreamed possible.

I'm so confident my Mink Oil cream can do marvelous things for your skin, I offer it to you with an unconditional guarantee. Just try it. See for yourself, in your own mirror. Many women wrote of gratifying results after only two weeks. Some take longer. But I want you to understand this, if for any reason, you are not pleased with Emlin® Mink Oil Essential Creme, just return the unused portion to me, and I'll mail you a full refund, plus postage with no questions asked.

Now it's up to you. Here is your chance to have beautiful, attractive skin—at no risk. Fill out the coupon and mail today.

Smoking.

What are you going to do about it?

Many people are against cigarettes. You've heard their arguments. And even though we're in the business of selling cigarettes, we're not going to advance arguments in favor of smoking.

We simply want to discuss one irrefutable fact.

A lot of people are still smoking cigarettes. In all likelihood, they'll continue to smoke cigarettes and nothing anybody has said or is likely to say is going to change their minds.

Now, if you're one of these cigarette smokers, what are you going to do about it? You may continue to smoke your present brand. With all the enjoyment and pleasure you get from smoking it. Or, if 'tar' and nicotine has become a concern to you, you may consider changing to a cigarette like Vantage.

Vantage has a unique filter that allows rich flavor to come through it and yet substantially cuts down on 'tar' and nicotine.

We want to be frank. Vantage is not the lowest 'tar' and nicotine cigarette you can buy. But it may well be the lowest 'tar' and nicotine cigarette you will enjoy smoking.

Vantage. It's the only cigarette that gives you so much taste with so little 'tar' and nicotine.

We suggest you try a pack.

Warning: The Surgeon General Has Determined That Cigarette Smoking Is Dangerous to Your Health.

FILTER: 12 mg. 'tar', 0.8 mg. nicotine, MENTHOL: 11 mg. 'tar', 0.8 mg. nicotine, av. per cigarette, FTC Report MAR. '75.

People Quiz By John E. Gibson

Eye Contact: Do You Know Its Real Power?

True or False? When two individuals first meet, their eyes reveal which is the dominant person. (See number 4.)

TRUE OR FALSE?

1. When your eyes zero in on a person, it has a physical, as well as a psychological, effect on him.
2. The eyes have the power to send messages that would be difficult—or at least socially unacceptable—to send any other way.
3. Women understand better than men the powerful effect eyes have in any human relationship.
4. When two individuals first meet, their eyes reveal which is the dominant person.
5. Your eyes give away your age.
6. Women are most attracted to men with "china-blue" eyes.

ANSWERS

1. True. Yale University investigators cite studies showing that when you gaze steadily at a person, it results in a significant increase in his heart rate, among other things. In another study, "investigators stared at some people stopped at a traffic light, but did not stare at others. Then when the light changed, they measured the subjects' speed across the intersection." Result: crossing time was significantly swifter under stare conditions. Another study has demonstrated that animals also "manifest physiological and behavioral changes when they realize they are being looked at." For example, when a rhesus monkey saw a pair of human eyes looking at him, investigators recorded a marked change in electrical activity in his brain stem.
2. True. The power of the Look—the expressiveness of the glance or gaze—can be used to send virtually any kind of message. Many of these messages would not be socially acceptable if conveyed in any other way. As one psychologist observes, this medium is so subtle and yet so effective that it allows a person to send tentative messages for which he will rarely be held accountable. This is invaluable in permitting one to feel his way in various social situations or personal encounters.

3. True. Psychological studies show women are more aware than men of the power of the eyes. For this reason, they are more uncomfortable than men when talking to an unseen partner, and they "engage in more eye contact and depend more on visual feedback than do men." It's pointed out that the visual activity of women is more sensitive to social situations. This may account for the fact that they have what sociologists call a higher "social intelligence" than men.

4. True—as demonstrated by psychological studies at Britain's University of Exeter, which recorded eye-gaze patterns of persons introduced to each other for the first time. Each subject was then given a standard personality test. Findings: "When people first meet, their eyes make contact and then one will look away. The person who looks away first in any particular encounter is likely to be the dominant one." The investigators suggest a possible explanation: We know that looking away—that is, breaking eye contact—means "I am about to speak." We also know that dominant people tend to talk more often and for longer periods.

5. True. Studies of hundreds of men and women of various ages have indicated that "pupil size becomes smaller with age between the ages of 20 and 90."

6. False. Other things being equal, most women are more romantically attracted to men who have dark eyes.

WOMAN CAN'T SLEEP TORTURED ALL NIGHT

... "Then she found those tiny blue pills that helped her fall asleep more naturally and wake up refreshed."

She can't sleep... it's one of those occasional nights when simple nervous tension keeps her awake tossing and turning. Lack of sleep often times causes irritability and that downright worn-out feeling. Fortunately a little blue pill called Compoz works to help you unwind the minor and temporary up-tight feelings, so sound blissful sleep may be yours. This modern relaxant tablet contains no barbiturates so it helps you sleep more naturally. So don't suffer the agonizing torments of another sleepless night needlessly. Get Compoz today. Follow directions carefully and see if Compoz doesn't help you sleep sound tonight or tomorrow night. Compoz is not intended for serious or chronic conditions that need a doctor's attention, but only when those occasional sleepless nights occur.

Sports Mini-Profile

GARO YEPREMIAN:

Master of Handmade Ties, Shish Kebab— And Place-kicking

Garo Yepremian is one of the highest scorers in professional football, yet he never saw a football game before signing a contract with the N.F.L. At 5-feet-8, he gives the appearance on the field of being a midget among giants. But his skill lies in his left toe. Yepremian's place-kicking has played a key role in the success of the Miami Dolphins and has helped bring the Dolphins two back-to-back Super Bowl titles. He also kicked the winning field goal in the longest football game ever played—Miami's playoff win over Kansas City. . . . The little place-kicker is an Armenian-Cypriot whose original sport was soccer. The wars and revolutions on Cyprus convinced his father to leave their homeland and move his family to England. Yepremian continued to play amateur soccer in England while working at a variety of jobs. . . . When he followed his older brother, Krikor, to America in 1966, Krikor convinced him to adapt his soccer technique to place-kicking because of the lucrative financial opportunities of the American gridiron. Yepremian got a tryout with the Detroit Lions, was signed and had an outstanding rookie season, kicking six field goals in a single game. But two years later, he fell out of favor with the team coach, was cut from the squad. "I had been up on top of the world and suddenly, I was down at the bottom," he recalls. For over a year, he scratched out a living by making ties in a little basement shop and going around selling them at slightly above cost. . . . Yepremian was afraid he was washed-up with American football but opportunity knocked a second time when Don Shula signed him to a minimum-rate contract with Miami before the 1971 season. Yepremian led the team in scoring that season, led the N.F.L. in field-goal accuracy and was on his way to stardom. . . . His bubbly personality has established him as a favorite with fans and teammates alike. He's also a perpetual-motion go-getter. Through his football success, he's been able to bring over the rest of the Yepremian family and set them up in business. At first, they made ties, which Garo sold to players on opposing teams. More recently, they have gone into the restaurant business, operating "Garo's Superburger" in Miami. The specialty of the house? Good ole Armenian shish kebab . . . what else? —By Barry Abramson

The Battle of Bunker Hill-1775 ★ American Bicentennial Bell

A LIMITED EDITION

- ★ One in a series of porcelain bells to commemorate, in vivid color, the key 1775-1776 historic events in the birth of America.
- ★ Beautiful porcelain heirlooms of our nation's proud Bicentennial celebration.
- ★ The Battle of Bunker Hill will be issued in a limited edition only for orders postmarked by November 30, 1975.
- ★ Each bell will be hallmarked and registered by the Danbury Mint.
- ★ Priced at only $25.00

In 1775, an American Patriot rode the American lines shouting "don't fire until you see the whites of their eyes" as British Redcoats advanced in The Battle of Bunker Hill.

The word of the colonists' valiant defense at the first major battle of the American Revolution spread quickly, giving impetus to the growing revolt. This fateful moment in the history of America is a stirring reminder of the brave men who risked their lives and fortunes so that we might be free today.

Now, as the world celebrates 200 years of American freedom, we re-dedicate ourselves to the American ideal by recalling the proud deeds of patriots at The Battle of Bunker Hill. To commemorate the 200th anniversary of this battle, the Danbury Mint will issue a limited edition Bicentennial Bell.

This beautiful porcelain heirloom will be available only briefly in a limited edition which closes forever on November 30, 1975. After that date, this Bicentennial Bell will be available only from original owners willing to part with it, and only at their asking price, whatever that might be.

Experience suggests that few of these bells will ever reach the open market. Most will be kept as prized reminders of our Nation's Bicentennial, and proudly passed on to future generations of Americans.

SEN. AND MRS. WALTER MONDALE
Small pleasures

The Minnesota Senator's wife, Joan, tells what it's like to be a politician's wife: "I love politics. I get all the fun and none of the decisions. I bask in reflected glory. But politics does take the spontaneity out of your private life. You give up a lot of pleasures. You'd better find pleasure in your work—if you don't, heaven help you. You give up movies, symphonies, the theater, but you never have that feeling of what am I going to do tonight? You never get the chance. If you do something with the children, you have to plan it, arrange it, chart it. I do regret, however, that I don't read as much as I should. I cannot sit down and even read a newspaper until the house is done, and that's very bad. My mother told me when I married Fritz that either my standards would go down or I'd have a nervous breakdown. My standards went down." From "The Power Lovers: An Intimate Look at Politicians and Their Marriages," by Myra MacPherson (Putnam, $10).

Are most of us "Just Waiting"? Professor R. C. Bradley says: "Eighty percent of the adult world is simply enduring the present while they wait for the future—waiting for something to happen, waiting for the children to grow up, waiting for vacation next year, waiting until they're older..."

R. C. Bradley teaches at North Texas State University, and he believes "that all anyone is certain of is today." His fighting keynote is in the phrase: "addiction to false ideas." Says Bradley: "Addiction to drugs may be no more damaging than addiction to the wrong kind of ideas. Today's young have been called the 'hooked generation'—referring primarily to drugs. But one can be as easily hooked on highly questionable ideas. For instance, the idea that sex is primarily for enjoyment without regard for social codes, family complications or marriage." He suggests: "In making a personal assessment of your own life, seek genuine personal responses to these four questions: 1) How did you become what you are? 2) What is one thing you value about yourself? 3) What is one thing you do to enrich your life? 4) What is one thing you do to enrich the life of another?" For Bradley, the answers lie in traditional values—in God and country, religion and patriotism. His new book is "Jesus, Greatest Master, Teacher of Us All" ($3.49; from Bassi, 2032 Houston Place, Denton, Texas 76201).

DISEASE-FIGHTING HELMET
The latest from Paris

No cure for the common cold or flu has been invented, but French medical researcher Dr. Jean-Philippe Crouzet has come up with an unusual way to prevent infectious diseases—a head-heating helmet. This acetate apparatus weighs less than a pound and is less than an inch thick. Crouzet explained how the helmet works: "On the left side of the helmet is a small weather-proof box which contains an alcohol lamp. This lamp heats a cylinder through which filtered air is sucked into the helmet to keep lungs, neck, chest and face warm. It's my belief that warm air is essential in preventing people from contracting any of the 60-odd ailments that affect us during the winter months." It's difficult to imagine such an unsightly invention being produced in one of the fashion capitals of the world.

ARMOUR'S ARMOURY
By Richard Armour

TOOTH AND CONSEQUENCES

The ones above, the ones beneath.
The first one in, for days and days
Is pointed out with pride and praise.
Each one, in turn, that after comes Brings joy to watchers of the gums.

But what I envy most is not
The rows of baby teeth they've got,
It's that, as these first teeth give out,
In come replacements never doubt.
Oh, how I wish—it would be fine—
If I could say the same of mine!

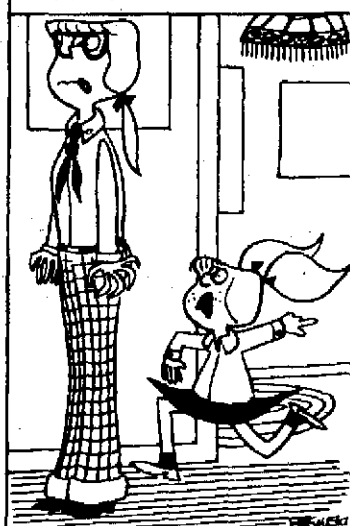

Athlete's foot: the agony of defeat.
—Walt Wrzesniewski

What ever happened to that good old solid word "barbershop"? I mean, how would you like to hear "Sweet Adeline" sung by a Men's Hair Stylist Salon Quartet?
—Robert Orben

What the country needs is a small car that can run on the fumes of big cars.
